LUCKY NUMBERS

Rated R - Running Time: 1:45 - Released 10/27/00

John Travolta, who in recent years has leaped back from obscurity and launched himself firmly into the megastar category, is suffering from a slump. His most recent film, Battlefield Earth, was atrocious, and his performance in The General's Daughter wasn't much better. In Lucky Numbers, a black comedy written by Adam Resnick and directed by Nora Ephron, who worked with him before in Michael, Travolta plays a popular, common-sense challenged weatherman and snowmobile dealer who attempts to overcome his financial difficulties by rigging his TV station's lottery drawing. Although the film has its moments, and his co-star Lisa Kudrow does some of her best work in years, I wouldn't say Travolta exactly strikes it rich.

Lucky Numbers is presented as a flashback to the winter of 1988. Russ Richards (Travolta), who narrates at the beginning and end, is the meteorologist for WTPA-TV in Harrisburg, Pa. Calling himself the luckiest man alive, Russ brags that he is so famous he has his own table at "the trendiest bistro in town" (Denny's). He drives a sporty red convertible, gives to charity, and is loved by everyone, especially the women. But we soon learn that Russ is not exactly the humanitarian and all-around nice guy he seems. His smile is plastered all over town on billboards, but he desperately wants to blow this burg and move to Hollywood where he can be a game show host. This desire is compounded by the fact that the area has enjoyed the longest period of fair weather on record, rendering him almost useless on the show and seriously cutting into his snowmobile sales.

When Russ is issued a foreclosure notice, he talks to his friend Gig (Tim Roth), a night club owner with some shady connections, and Gig suggests that he pull a scam on the state lottery, which is currently up to over $6 million. Lotto-ball girl Crystal Latroy (Kudrow), a spoiled, shallow golddigger who is currently sleeping not only with Russ but with their boss (Ed O'Neill), is happy to oblige, even offering her mousy, asthmatic cousin Walter (Michael Moore) to buy the ticket and collect the money. Although things go well at first, they begin to unravel when Walter has second thoughts. As the situation snowballs to the point where murders are committed and an investigation begins, Russ's reaction to each new development becomes more desperate.

For a comedy, this film is remarkably unfunny. The most humorous lines in Resnick's script were included in the trailer, so there's nothing new to inspire much of a chuckle. Travolta's performance is adequate, but he is often upstaged by Kudrow, who at first appears to be simply playing another dumb blonde character, but soon shows a bit more depth. Likewise, Roth is enjoyable as the unflappable Gig, whose answer to every unfortunate turn of events is another hired hit by Dale. Bill Pullman also plays an atypical character as a cop who doesn't really want to do his job. But overall, Lucky Numbers's story seems forced and its characters lack human qualities, seeming more like cartoons than real people. ★★★½

BLAIR WITCH 2: BOOK OF SHADOWS

Rated R - Running Time: 1:30 - Released 10/27/00

Last year's quasi-documentary horror film The Blair Witch Project received generally good notices because of its novel approach and clever marketing strategy, but was disliked by many horror fans because of its lack of blood, violence, music, plot, effects, production values, or a visible villain. Although I loved the film, I'll readily admit that after one showing the cover is blown and it's pretty much useless except for academic purposes, but no one can deny that it broke new ground and inspired an unprecedented amount of water-cooler discourse. It also proved extremely cost-effective, given that its expenses only totaled about 100 bucks plus gas.

There is absolutely no doubt, however, that Blair Witch 2: Book Of Shadows is an uninspired attempt to capitalize on the previous movie's success. Lacking anything to distinguish it from any other run-of-the-mill teenage horror flick, BW2 is nothing but a transparent grab for cash on the part of producers Daniel Myrick and Eduardo Sánchez (the co-writers and -directors of BWP), who didn't even bother to contribute creatively to this one. Although this film attempts to parody its own opportunism with jokes about people making money off the original film's hype, no amount of self-deprecating humor can change the fact that Myrick and Sánchez have besmirched their good names with their sloppy avarice. And the film isn't even remotely effective. There's an early scene where one character is trying to act spooky and another says, "Jeff... nobody's scared." How true it is.

Written by Joe Berlinger and Dick Beebe and directed by Berlinger, Book Of Shadows (which, by the way, has nothing to do with a book, nor with shadows) departs from the revolutionary, unscripted style of its predecessor and returns to the standard low-budget horror formula. It centers around five thrill-seeking Blair Witch Project fans who go camping at the site near Burkittsville, Md., where the original movie was filmed in order to see the "witch" for themselves. Of course, anyone who has seen BWP knows that it was all fiction, so this premise shows questionable logic from the start.

The camping trip is hosted by Jeffrey Donovan, a profiteer and former mental patient who sells bogus Blair Witch merchandise on the Internet. His tourists are a pair of lovers expecting a baby (Tristen Skylar and Stephen Turner), a beer-guzzling, psychic goth girl with an attitude (Kim Director), and a modern-day witch, or "wiccan" (Erica Leerhsen), who feels that witches have gotten a bad rap. After a night in the woods, partying, drinking, and videotaping to their hearts' delight, the campers return to Jeff's home and weird things start happening: they discover gaps in their video footage, their video footage contains scenes of them doing things they don't remember doing, and then they all begin to have hallucinations. Sounds like a simple case of bad mushrooms, but their assumption is that they absorbed some sort of witchy energy from the forest. There are murders, and then more murders, and finally a miasma of badly edited interrogation footage brings the film to a non-descript conclusion.

Myrick and Sánchez should have left their 1999 creation alone to be ascribed to the pantheon of groundbreaking films and moved on to other projects. But they have already learned the Hollowwood tradition of overexploitation, and they will continue to suckle at the dry, withered breast of the Blair Witch until their original creation is sullied beyond recognition: BW3 is scheduled for release next summer. If they're not careful, they may find their careers burned at the stake. ★

THE LITTLE VAMPIRE

Rated PG - Running Time: 1:35 - Released 10/27/00

Although 10-year-old Jonathan Lipnicki is achieving moderate fame as a child star, having appeared on The Jeff Foxworthy Show and in films like Jerry Maguire and Stuart Little, I'd say his cuteness heavily outweighs his talent as an actor. His meager ability is one factor that makes The Little Vampire a less engaging film than it could and should be; another is the movie's generally dark tone, which, to be fair, could be expected given the subject. Shot in Scotland, The Little Vampire is the product of German director Ulrich Edel, who won the Bavarian Film Award for Last Exit to Brooklyn, and writers Karey Kirkpatrick and Larry Wilson, who based their text on the series of novels by Angela Sommer-Bodenburg. The film contains some interesting costume designs by James Acheson and make-up by Katja Reinert, but the pace is slow and the story somewhat muddled.

Lipnicki plays Tony Thompson, the son of a land developer (Tommy Hinkley) who has recently moved his family to Scotland to build a golf course and tourist resort for the wealthy Lord McAshton (John Wood). Unaccepted by the kids at school and troubled by nightmares, Tony is unhappy in his new surroundings, and he's really freaked out when he is visited one night by a vampire his own age named Rudolf (Rollo Weeks). But after overcoming some initial mutual distrust, the two boys form a friendship and Jonathan learns that vampires don't really like human blood (what?) because they want to be human. So they make do on cow's blood. However, they are generally antagonistic toward the living, because mortals have an annoying habit of piercing them through the heart with wooden stakes all the time.

But as it turns out, vampire-killing humans and the perils of E. coli are the least of Rudolf's family's troubles. It seems that there is a comet approaching the moon which, when it reaches full conjuction, can turn all the vampires human again. But it will only work if they have a magic amulet containing a special stone, and this important piece of jewelry was misplaced centuries ago by a pair of vampire lovers on the run (Elizabeth Berrington, Jake D'Arcy). Rudolf explains this to Tony, who soon realizes that his dreams may contain the information they need to find the amulet. Teaming up to figure it out, they must overcome the animosity Rudolf's family feels for Tony and his kind, and also dodge the murderous attempts of Lord McAshton and an inept vampire-killer he has hired (Jim Carter).

This film is a confusing mishmash of styles, including silly slapstick, unconvincing special effects, and some rather disturbing images for a film aimed at children. Lipnicki has learned how to make cute faces, but his delivery is formulaic and without emotion. In his one crying scene, his face shows no feeling, and his tears do not look so much like tears as Karo syrup. However, his supporting cast, including Richard E. Grant and Alice Krige as Rudolf's bloodsucking parents and Anna Popplewell as his lovestruck little sister, are adequate. ★★★

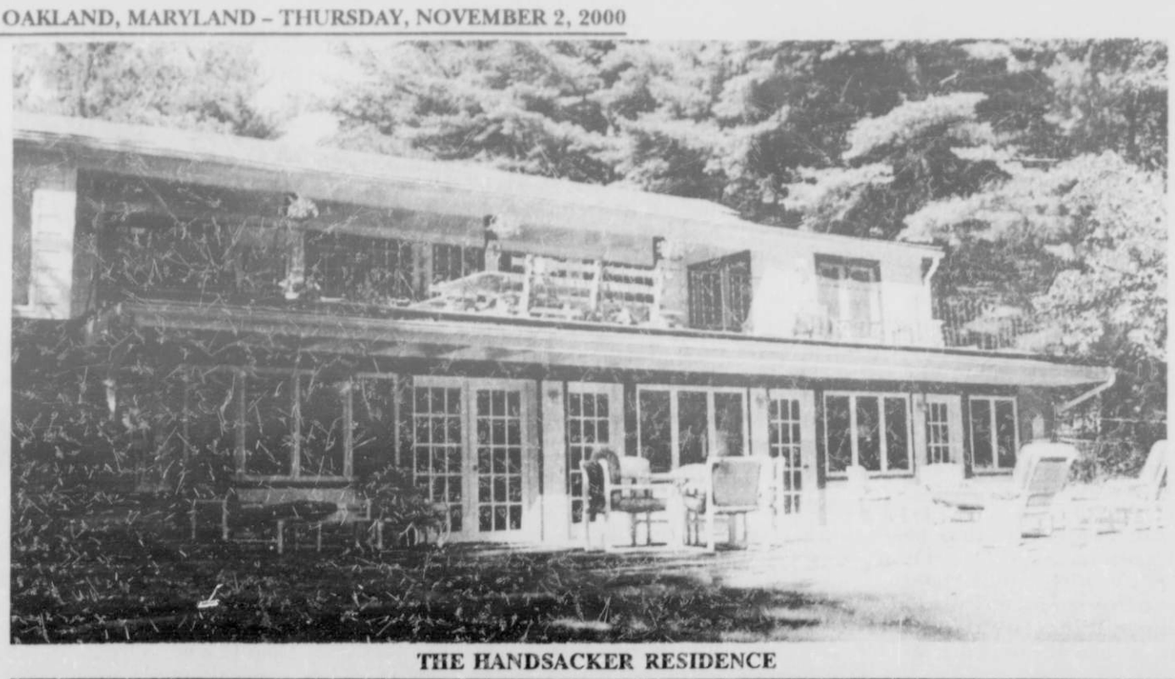
Handsacker Home To Be Featured In Holiday Tour

The American Red Cross Home for the Holidays House Tours will feature the home of Chick Handsacker this year, along with three other family homes and the Oakland train station.

The tours will be held on Dec. 1 from 4 until 9 p.m., and Dec. 2 from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. This annual event is a key fund-raiser for the local chapter of the ARC.

The lake home of Mr. Handsacker is a comfortable, open home, decorated with a variety of paintings, sculptures, and unique collectibles. Constructed in 1953, the two-level house is located along Rock Lodge Road, 2/10 of a mile off Rt. 219. Handsacker purchased it in 1995, moving from his Florida home to be closer to his two children, who now live in Pennsylvania. Having grown up in the Midwest and always resided near water, he said he needed to live on the shore of a lake, and Deep Creek fit the bill.

When he bought the home, he improved it by closing in a breezeway between the house and garage, creating a large open room that now houses the kitchen, a breakfast nook, and the expansive living room. The bright area is decorated with a wide variety of artworks, including a number of paintings by Mimi Jennewein, a personal friend of the Handsacker family, as well as some work by Jennewein's father, also a family friend.



THE HANDSACKER RESIDENCE

A collection of decanters is arranged in the kitchen area. The collection includes a decanter once owned by Stephen Hopkins, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. In the living room area, a large desk faces a window opening to the lake-side of the home. The desk was once owned by General George S. Patton.

Handsacker and his late wife Fran were world travelers, visiting Europe, South America, and Asia, among many other destinations. They collected various items in those travels, including a solid jade horse, purchased in the Forbidden City in Beijing. "The Boy on the Ribbon" is an eye-catching sculpture made by Tom Merifield and given personally to the Handsackers during one of their trips to Britain. Also on display are two pieces of framed Tiffany glass. A baby grand piano is situated in one corner of the room, opposite an antique couch and a handmade area rug from Turkey.

Off the great room is the master bedroom and bath, as well as walk-in closets. The great room opens to a deck that completely fronts the house, providing a view of the sloping yard and the lake's edge. The back door of the house opens onto a full-sized tennis court.

On the ground floor, the walls are paneled with light wood, and are also adorned with a variety of artworks. Among the items on display downstairs is a framed needlework item with a pattern known in Asia as the "forbidden stitch." Handsacker said the stitch is forbidden in China now because it is so tiny, causing the needleworker to suffer eye damage from doing it.

There are three bedrooms downstairs, each with their own bathroom. Each room opens out to the stone patio, where a number of lounge chairs are arranged. In total, there are four bedrooms and five baths in the house.

Handsacker plans to have the railing on the deck decorated with garland and lights for the holiday season, and will take the table out of the breakfast nook to make room for his Christmas tree. He will serve as host for the tour-takers, and has many a story to tell of his interesting career as a singer (having sung back-up for Ella Fitzgerald, among others), an employee at Hyde Park for Eleanor and Franklin Roosevelt, and a world traveler, to name a few of his past roles.

At the time of the tours, directional signs will be placed at intersections to help guests find each house. Red Cross yard signs will be placed in front of each home as well. A raffle will be held at each location for gifts donated by local businesses.

Tickets for all ages will be $5 in advance or $7 at the door. Advance tickets can be purchased at Proudfoot's and Gregg's pharmacies, Flowers By Webers, Arrowhead Market, and the Deep Creek Pharmacy.

GC Fair Assault Nets Oakland Man 15 Months

An assault that took place this past August at the McHenry fairgrounds during the annual Agriculture Fair resulted in the conviction of an Oakland man during a recent Garrett County District Court hearing.

Mark Ashley Cannon, 24, pleaded guilty to second degree assault and was handed a five-year sentence, all but 15 months of which were suspended by Judge Ralph Burnett, and was placed on three years of supervised probation in connection with the Aug. 14 incident. The assault resulted from an ongoing domestic-related series of events, which culminated in the fairgrounds parking lot when a shoving match with another man, initiated by the accused, led to Cannon landing a punch in the face of his victim. Garrett County sheriff's deputies made the subsequent arrest.

In other district court news, a Baltimore man was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) after pleading guilty to marijuana possession, while charges of possession of drug paraphernalia and failure to drive to the right of the center line were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

Avraham Yishaya Pinson, 21, was fined $305 and placed on 18 months' supervised probation by visiting judge Paul Stakem. Sheriff's deputies had arrested Pinson in August after a traffic stop when the vehicle he was riding in was observed weaving along Garrett Highway near Jeffrey Lane, south of the Deep Creek Lake bridge. A search uncovered a backpack in the car's backseat that contained a pipe bearing burnt marijuana residue and a pack of smoking screens and rolling papers.

A Virginia man was handed a PBJ after being convicted of driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI), while related charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, negligent driving, and failure to drive right of center were not prosecuted.

Walter Frank Shark, 40, Great Falls, was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $355, placed on one year of unsupervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service in the wake of his guilty plea before Judge Burnett. Shark's May arrest by Maryland State Police troopers came after his vehicle was stopped for weaving along Garrett Highway near Deep Creek Lake. A search uncovered a cigar tin inside a door of the pickup truck which reportedly contained suspected marijuana.

Scott Harrison Meyers, 26, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a second degree assault charge stemming from his May arrest by sheriff's deputies after a reported domestic assault at his Dennett Road residence.

Chad Lucas Custer, 21, Barton, was not prosecuted on a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. His arrest in August by state troopers came after he allegedly took the car of a Frostburg (Garrett County) relative, saying he would return within an hour, but was not seen again until the victim stopped him along Chestnut Ridge Road nearly 12 hours later.

Mark Aaron Shockey, 44, Vienna, W.Va., was not prosecuted on a disturbing the peace charge that resulted from his August arrest by sheriff's deputies for sitting down in the middle of Garrett Highway in northern Oakland and blocking traffic.

DWIs/DUIs

Several driving while intoxicated (DWI) and DUI hearings took place in district court recently.

William Wayne Sweitzer, 29, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI, and Judge Stakem levied a $2,055 fine, handed down a three-year sentence, half of which was suspended, and imposed three years' supervised probation.

Adrieene Nicole Gadow, 25, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $555, handed a six-month suspended sentence, and placed on two years of supervised probation.

Dewey Malcom Warnick, 54, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $355 by Judge Burnett, who handed down a one-year sentence, suspending all but 60 days, and imposed one year of supervised probation.

Ronald John Marc, 55, Md., and Thomas John DiCaprio, 44, Pa., both pleaded guilty to DUI before Judge Stakem and were each handed a PBJ, fined $305, and placed on 18 months' supervised probation.

Gary Blake Pennington Jr., 22, W.Va., was handed a stet ruling on a DWI charge.

Randy Allen Carner, 42, Pa., was not prosecuted on a DWI charge.

Shadows

Have you ever been visiting in a strange house...maybe an old house with creaking doors and banging shutters? Perhaps you had occasion to stay the night. You wake up in the night with moonlight filtering in through the window. Suddenly, out of the corner of your eye, you see something move. Frightened, you switch on the lamp. There is nothing there...nothing but your imagination. With illumination, the shadows are gone.

Is it not true that we are usually afraid of the unknown? Much of our life is spent discovering the unknown. Perhaps we need to carry a lamp with us at all times.

We can. Psalm 119:105 tells us, "Thy Word is a lamp to my feet and a light to my path." With regular Bible reading, prayer, and weekly worship, those things that frighten us will diminish as our faith and knowledge in God's power and love increases. God will light the dark corners of our lives. We need not fear the shadows when He is there.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHAT WILL YOU LEAVE ME?

November 12, 2000

Background Scripture:
1 Kings 2:1-4, 3:1-15; 1 Chronicles 29:22-25; 2 Chronicles 1:1-13.
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 119:101-9.

In David's life there came the time that comes to all of us. After a reign of 40 years, the man whom God annointed to be king over Israel was facing the hour of death. He had built up a strong kingdom and accumulated much wealth. We can imagine that some of David' sheirs were already wondering what the rich and powerful father would leave to them. One of David' s sons, Abiathar had already tried a power play to seize the throne for himself, a ploy which Solomon' s mother, Bathsheba, had quashed.

David, however, had something even more important to give Solomon than riches and power, the essence of what his father had learned over the years. David charged his son: "Be strong and show yourself a man, and keep the charge of the Lord your God, walking in his ways and keeping his statutes, his commandments, his ordinances, and his testimonies...that you may prosper in all that you do wherever you turn that the Lord may establish his word which he spoke concerning me, 'If you sons take heed to their way, to walk before me in faithfulness with all their heart and with all their soul, there shall not fail you a man on the throne of Israel'" (1 Kings 2:1-4).

It seems sad to me that, although we pass on to our children and the coming generations much in the way of material wealth, we are much less likely to pass on to them what we have learned. Perhaps that is because, despite the longevity of our lives, we think that we haven't learned all that much. Or perhaps we do not value spiritual advice as much as material goods. I wish that I could leave each of my children with a nest egg amount that would provide them with help in buying a house. The chances for that are not very great, but I can actually leave them something more important: what I have learned.

Walking In His Ways

David's advice to his son is simple and straight forward: "Be strong and show yourself a man, and keep the charge of the Lord your God, walking in his ways and keeping his statutes, his commandments, his ordinances, and his testimonies, as it is written in the law of Moses, that you may prosper in all that you do and wherever you turn' that the Lord may establish his word which he spoke concerning me, saying, 'If your sons take heed to their way, to walk before me in faithfulness with all their heart and with all their soul, there shall not fail you a man on the throne of Israel'" (2:2-4). What had David learned from which Solomon, his son, might profit? David had personally experienced the goodness of God who permitted him to prosper and grow as King of Israel when he kept the charge of God and walked in his ways. If you go with God, he is saying, and follow his lead, you cannot fail as King of Israel. Unspoken, but at least implied, is the fact that, although David had also learned much through success, he had also learned through failure, with which he had much experience also. When he arrogantly abused his power and sinned with Bathsheba, plotting for the demise of Uriah, her husband, David had experienced the judgment as well as the forgiveness of God. In the midst of all his terrible travail with his son Absalom, he had found God's presence the only means of living through this terrible time.

So now, David died and "slept with his fathers" and Solomon at last succeeded to the throne, although not without some struggle. Then, while at Gibeon, a place of worship, he had a dream in which God came to him and asked, "Ask what I shall give you?" (3:5). Solomon replies by first thanking and praising God for his "great and steadfast love to thy servant David, my father." He also thanks the Lord for putting him on his father's throne. If Solomon's words were sincere, this is a humble prayer: "...thou hast made thy servant king in place of David my father, although I am but a little child; I do not know how to go out or come in. And thy servant is in the midst of thy people whom thou hast chosen, a great people, that cannot be numbered or counted for multitude" (3:7,8). (Later in his life, Solomon would be arrogant, not humble, but I take his words here at face value.)

Bequeathing Wisdom

It is in this continuing state of humility that Solomon now answers God's request to "Ask what I shall give to you." "Give thy servant, therefore," he prays, "an understanding mind to govern thy people, that I may discern between good and evil; for who is able to govern this thy great people?" (3:9). God is favorably impressed with Solomon's attitude and responds, telling him that because he asked nothing for himself, "long life or riches or the life of your enemies," he will give him what he asks for, "a wise and discerning mind," unequaled by anyone who lived before him or will come after him. Apparently, Solomon was thus gifted and his enduring reputation is that of the "wisdom of Solomon"—although as the later parts of his story will show, he didn't always exercise that wisdom.

The story of Solomon's ascension to the throne also tells us something more about what God bequeaths to his obedient and faithful children: God said to Solomon, "I give you also what you have not asked, both riches and honor, so that no other kind shall compare with you, all your days" (3:13). It reminds us that Jesus taught his disciples, "Instead, seek his kingdom, and these things shall be yours as well" (Lk. 12:31). That doesn't mean we will inherit Solomon's riches nor his prominence, but, that if we walk closely with him, the Lord will give us all we really need. I like the way C.S. Lewis paraphrases this. "Aim at Heaven and you will get earth 'thrown in'; aim at earth and you will get neither."

TV PIPELINE

Hatcher, Long just acting like lovebirds

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Teri Hatcher

Q: Are Teri Hatcher and Howie Long an item? Those Radio Shack ads sure seem to suggest that. –Michael Wall, Cataula, Ga.

A: Like James Garner and Mariette Hartley in those famous Polaroid commercials of yore, Hatcher and Long are a couple only in front of the camera. Both are married to other people.

Q: Being out of touch in Europe, I wondered whatever became of Thomas Haden Church of Wings and the underrated Ned and Stacey. –B.S. in Germany.

A: Church, 40, has worked in at least two movies a year since Ned and Stacey was canceled in 1997. Unfortunately, apart from Disney's George of the Jungle and a Dean Koontz TV movie called Mr. Murder, most of them have sunk without a trace.

Church recently earned good reviews in a superhero spoof called The Specials, which is in limited release at this writing. He also continues to lend his voice to Icehouse beer commercials.

Q: When and why did The Nashville Network become The National Network? –Faybienne Geenhuizen, Concord, N.C.

A: The name change, which was announced on Sept. 19, was merely the final confirmation of a change that has been in the works since TNN was absorbed by MTV Networks earlier this year following a merger between Viacom Inc. and CBS Corp.

Many Pipeline readers already noticed and complained that the channel was dropping country music-themed programming in favor of wrestling and sports shows. Network officials have confirmed that they want to attract a younger, more diverse audience, although they plan to retain some country shows, including the Grand Ole Opry series, for the time being.

Q: In the late '60s, there was a show that was so bad it lasted one night. What was it, and are there any copies of it? –Moxie Heibel, Thornton, Iowa.

A: As someone who remembers this turkey, I hope there is no trace left of Turn-On, one of the biggest fiascos in network history. The show, which aired on Feb. 5, 1969, was publicized as "a visual, comedic, sensory assault" in multimedia format, but the results were staggeringly tasteless and unfunny. Viewers complained, critics howled, and many ABC affiliates refused to air any further episodes.

IT'S OFFICIAL: TNT has ordered two original Pretender TV movies starring Michael T. Weiss, Andrea Parker, Patrick Bauchau and Jon Gries (airdates to be announced). The first movie picks up where the canceled NBC series left off and also features a big flashback story. The second sheds light into the origins of the Centre and why Jarod is so valuable to his enemies there.

IN FOCUS

Dylan McDermott (The Practice) hosts the new documentary Hidden Victims: Children of Domestic Violence, airing Monday, Nov. 6, on Lifetime.

The hourlong special reveals the devastating effects of domestic violence on families, particularly the youngest members, through profiles of four families who have experienced the problem.

Experts discuss the immediate and long-term effects on children and offer insight on how to identify and end the abuse.

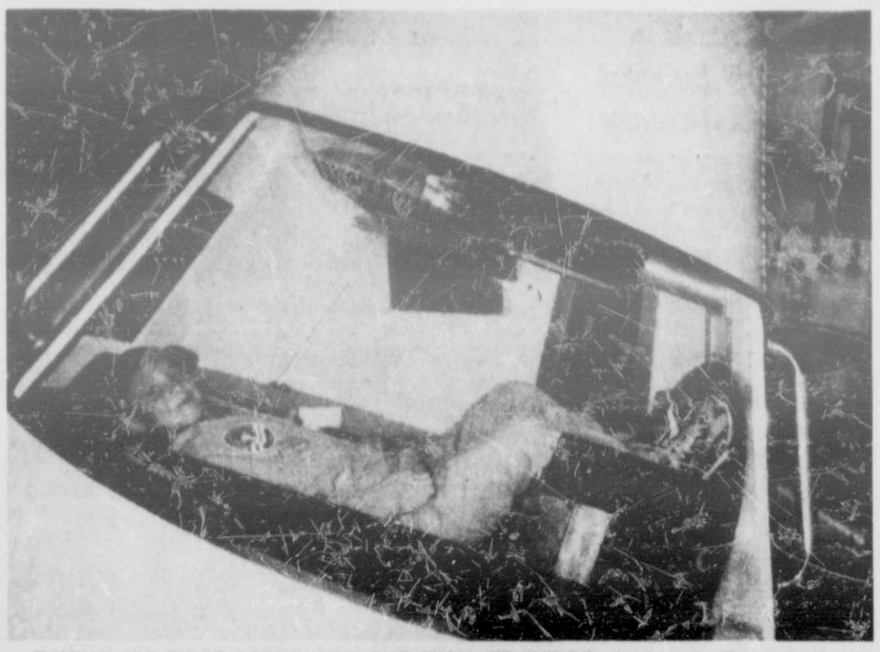
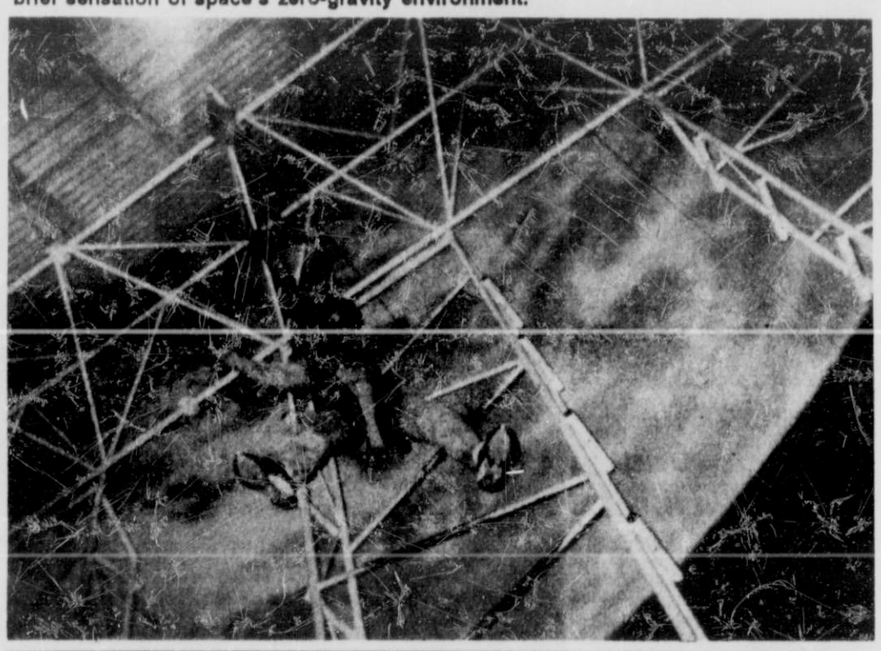
Accident Youth Noted By Space Camp Program

BRENT BUTLER



TAKING HIS FIRST STEPS INTO THE FINAL FRONTIER, Accident's Brent Butler is pictured during July's U.S. Space Camp in Florida during a weeklong session of intense classroom study and simulator training. The youngster has been interested in rocketry and space exploration since a very young age, and his grandparents, Robert and Virginia Clutter of Naples, Fla., presented him with the Space Camp trip for his 10th birthday. Butler's determination to master the course material and encourage and support his fellow trainees was recognized when NASA singled him out from among the 200 participants by selecting him for the Right Stuff Award. He is shown above seated in a space capsule simulator that appears to be a perfect fit, and below suspended from scaffolding in a harness that is used to help participants experience the brief sensation of space's zero-gravity environment.



Accident Elementary School student Brent Butler, 10, was recognized with one of only three individual awards after joining 200 other 9- to 13-year-old participants for a week of intense training in July at the U.S. Space Camp in Titusville, Fla. Butler earned the Right Stuff Award, one of only three individual Space Camp awards given by NASA, which is given to the trainee who has supported his/her team and shown a strong desire to learn.

Space Camp provides an opportunity for youth to learn about NASA's space program through an introduction to the training astronauts undertake in preparation for space flight. Participants from across the country were divided into teams, each responsible for planning and carrying out a shuttle mission. The students trained for their missions during classroom and simulator sessions. Butler was assigned to the Earth team, serving as the pilot for his mission and also training as a payload specialist.

During the concluding graduation ceremony, Butler and his fellow graduates received Space Camp wings and a graduation certificate. Other awards were presented to participants who showed great desire to strive for success in technology and space exploration through their enthusiasm for and knowledge of the space program.

During the awards presentation Butler's team leader commented, "Brent, although small in stature, has an incredible desire toward the space program. His eagerness to not only ask questions but to also help answer other questions for the team has demonstrated his hunger for information and willingness to learn.

"Whenever there was a problem or change in schedule, Brent took it in stride and helped to keep the team motivated and controlled. His knowledge and desire are certainly going to lead Brent into a career and lifestyle in which he will not only succeed, but thrive and prosper," the team leader said.

Butler's other interests include all types of sports, horseback riding, playing percussion, drawing, and participating in the children's ministry at the World Lighthouse Worship Center in Grantsville.

The 10-year-old is the son of Duane and Lisa Butler of Accident, and the brother of Derek and Bethany Butler. He is the grandson of Art and Ruth Butler of Accident, Robert and Virginia Clutter of Naples, Fla., and Doris Clutter of Marlowe, W.Va., and the great-grandson of Carrie Clutter of Accident.

Venturing Group Sets Meeting At Mark's Church

The Garrett County Venturing group has set a meeting for 7 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 5, at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, located at the intersection of Second and Center streets in Oakland. The group is open to all youth who have either completed the eighth grade or who are from 14 to 20 years old. The meeting agenda will include discussion of the calendar of activities the group plans to undertake next year. Among the activities to be considered are rock climbing, caving, skeet shooting, snorkeling, and skiing.

The Venturing group is sponsored by St. Mark's Lutheran Church, with Maryland's state parks located in Garrett County serving as advisors for the outdoor adventures. For more information and interest sheets interested persons may call the Herrington Manor State Park office at 301-334-9180.

by Emily Cosner

The October meeting of the Trailblazers 4-H Club was held October 19 at Yough Glades Elementary School. We all turned in our baby beef raffle tickets. Susan Mayfield reported on the Livestock Association meeting. Susan gave a demonstration on flower arranging. She showed us flower arrangements that she made. After the meeting everyone made banana splits, which were provided by Erica, Emily, Kim, and Dan Green.

Our next meeting will be held November 16 at Yough Glades Elementary School. We will hand out re-enrollment forms, elect officers, and have a record book workshop. All new members are invited to attend.

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

For the fourth year, The Republican is asking for your help. Without it, many Garrett County children will go cold this winter.

Just what is The Republican Newspaper's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND?

The Republican newspaper's Warm the Children Fund is, basically, neighbors helping neighbors. We here at the paper are asking for monetary donations (tax deductible) from you, the readers. The collected funds will be used to purchase new winter clothing for Garrett County children in need. Because the newspaper administrates the program, there are no added fees or overhead costs. Every penny donated is used to buy the winter items.

How are needy children being identified?

A special core of volunteers is working right now to identify those in need this year. Those selected for applications will be receiving them soon. (Please do not call for the service. If you have been selected, you will soon be notified.)

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

Volunteers will take the families shopping either through the J.C. Penney catalog store in Oakland or at the Ames in Frostburg. The children, with the help of their parents, may select their own new coats, hats, sweaters, jeans, long johns, boots, or other needed winter items, spending up to $80 per child. Bobby Andersen and Bobbie Henderson, along with members of the Civic Club of Oakland, are coordinating the Penney's volunteers. Lisa Broadwater, the office manager of the newspaper's Grantsville location, is coordinating those who will shop at Ames.

How can I help?

We need two things: volunteers and donations. To volunteer as a shopper at Penney's, please call Bobby Andersen at 301-334-4459. To volunteer as a shopper at Ames, please call Lisa Broadwater at 301-895-5827 or 301-746-8223. For general information, you may call Mary McEwen, program coordinator, at 301-334-3963.

THE REPUBLICAN

To make a donation, please complete the coupon below, cut it out, and mail it along with your tax-deductible contribution to the address noted. All checks should be made out to Warm the Children Fund.

Please make your donations before Nov. 30, 2000. Those collected after Nov. 30 will be saved for next year.

Appropriations Bill Signed For ADHS Highways

The 3,025-mile Appalachian Development Highway System (ADHS) has received authority to spend a record $641.5 million in federal funds in FY2001, more than 50 percent over FY2000 funding, as a result of a new highway appropriations bill approved by Congress and signed recently President Bill Clinton.

Maryland will receive approximately $ 7.6 million, and with the state's 25 percent match it comes to nearly $9.5 million available in FY2001. These funds can only be spent on Interstate 68 from Hancock to the Md./W.Va. state line, and U.S. Route 220 and U.S. Route 219 north of I-68.

The state is currently planning to spend a total of $10.6 million in FY2001 and FY2002 for construction costs associated with the U.S. Route 220 relocation project, according to its FY2001-2006 Draft Consolidated Transportation Program. This program will be revised before being presented to the General Assembly in January.

"Since I-68 is complete and the Route 220 relocation project has been completed a year ahead of schedule, the next ADHS project will likely be U.S. Route 219 north of I-68 to Pennsylvania," local highway proponent David Moe of Oakland stated. "This would complement Pennsylvania's announced plans to relocate and construct 219 to interstate standards from Somerset to the Md./Pa. state line.

"It would also begin implementation of the bi-county agreement on a North-South corridor through [western] Maryland."

In addition, Senator Barbara Mikulski's efforts in the Senate provided that the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) give "priority consideration" to nine Maryland airports including the Greater Cumberland Regional Airport and the Garrett County Airport in considering their applications for airport improvement construction grants. Under that program the FAA's share is 90 percent of those construction costs, the Maryland Aviation Administration's (MAA) share is 5 percent, and the local government's share is five percent, according to Moe.

"In essence, a congressional 'priority consideration' designation moves grant applications for those nine airports to the top of FAA's pile for funding consideration — a very significant improvement in the ability for such projects to receive favorable consideration by the FAA," Moe remarked.

"This is a landmark highway appropriations bill for the Appalachian Region," said Jesse L. White Jr., federal co-chairman of the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC). "This record funding underscores the federal government's commitment to the people of Appalachia, and it sends a strong signal to the nation on the importance of the Appalachian Regional Commission's economic development program."

Envisioned by Congress in 1965 as a 3,025-mile network of highways to help bring Appalachia into the nation's economic mainstream, the Appalachian highway system is now more than 80 percent complete or under construction, with 2,300 miles open to traffic. ARC estimates that about 700 miles remain to be completed in the 13 Appalachian states.

White noted, however, that the remaining miles to be built "traverse some of the harshest terrain in Appalachia, and as a result are the most difficult and costly to construct." in 1998, ARC estimated that it would require an additional $6 2 billion in federal funds to complete the system.

In passing the Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century (TEA-21) in 1998, Congress approved a Clinton administration proposal to fund the Appalachian highway corridors out of the federal Highway Trust Fund (DOT) As a result, the highway system now has a substantial and reliable source of federal funding that is expected to accelerate completion of the system.

The Appalachian corridor highway funds are allocated to each of the 13 member states of ARC through a formula based on each state's relative share of the cost to complete the entire system, as well as through additional appropriations approved by Congress.

In FY 2001, Congress approved $386.5 million in spending authority to be allocated to the states by formula. In addition, Congress approved $100 million for Corridor D in West Virginia, $100 million for Corridor X in Alabama, and an additional $55 million to be apportioned to the 13 Appalachian states by formula.

Based on these appropriations, ARC estimates that each state will be allocated the following for construction of the Appalachian highway corridors in FY 2001: Alabama, $148.6 million; Georgia, $19.4 million; Kentucky, $44.6 million; Maryland, $7.6 million; Mississippi, $5.5 million; New York, $10.5 million; North Carolina, $28.6 million; Ohio, $21.9 million; Pennsylvania, $118.9 million; South Carolina, $2.4 million; Tennessee, $54.5 million; Virginia, $11.5 million; and West Virginia, $167.6 million.

"The highways are critical to everything we do in the region," said White. "Studies show the beneficial impact they have upon job creation and business development. Today, with 2,300 miles of new roads connecting Appalachian communities in the mountains, it's certain that this highway system is not only helping the region's economy, but saving lives as well."

Weatherization Program Bolsters Energy Efficiency

The weatherization program, sponsored by Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc., helps to enhance the warmth and safety of county homes. Those households which qualify to be served through this program will be inspected and tested to determine what remedial steps will be needed to improve the particular situation.

"Our goal is make the home more energy efficient year-round," said weatherization supervisor Brenda Roszell. She explained that the work team begins a project by going into the home to analyze furnace function and to check for air leakage in such areas as around doors and windows.

Once the structural or equipment weaknesses are determined, the team will undertake the necessary repairs, rebuilding, and replacement to ensure the maximum amount of effective energy usage.

During the month of October, weatherization projects have been completed in one home each week. "October 30 is National Weatherization Day," Roszell noted.

To learn if a household qualifies for this program, persons may contact Community Action's Housing Department at 301-334-9431 or 888-877-8403.

Antiques by Ralph and Terry Kovel

Smoking seems to have lost favor, but smoking accessories are hot collectibles.

Lighters, cigarette packs, cigar labels, pipes, ashtrays, advertisements and cigarette boxes are just some of the many things wanted by collectors. Cigar labels and old ads sell quickly, and often for high prices. Lighters have been popular as collectibles in all parts of the world for about 20 years. Old Zippo lighters from World War II; expensive gold, silver or jeweled lighters; and figural lighters are in demand in shops and on the Internet. A good lighter can cost more than $500.

Ashtrays are still inexpensive. Ceramic ashtrays with hotel names sell for a few dollars. Pottery ashtrays in modern shapes run from $12 to $20, while enameled-metal ashtrays sell for $30 to $50. Glass ashtrays are usually sold for $1 to $10. The "smoking" ashtrays are the most expensive. These are figural ceramic ashtrays with a hole in the side to hold a burning cigarette. The smoke rises and exits through another hole in the ashtray. Some had the smoke coming out the top of a teepee or even the nose of a bull. This is a collectible that often turns up at garage sales. Ceramic ashtrays with a name brand like Sascha Brastoff, quality glass ones like Baccarat, or chrome ashtrays can be worth more than $50 each.

Carriage Clock

Q: What is a carriage clock?

A: The carriage clock was first made about 1800. Abraham-Louis Breguet (1747-1823) probably was trying to help Napoleon's officers keep accurate time while traveling. The clocks had a special mechanism that helped withstand the bumps of a stagecoach. A simpler clockworks was developed later, and the carriage clock became less expensive. France soon began exporting thousands of the clocks. The carriage clock was small enough to carry and had a handle. It was usually in a rectangular case.

Saving money in winter weather

According to the U.S. Dept. of Energy, fuel costs this winter will be 30 percent higher than last year. That's not just fuel oil, but all types of fuel — from electricity to firewood.

With what appears to be a very cold winter on the way, how can you keep heating costs under control? Well, fortunately, the same people who posted those dire cost predictions also offer suggestions that can help.

Perhaps the most important factor in home heating is preventing heat from escaping. Increasing insulation and sealing doors and windows are crucial steps to take as cold weather sets in. Check the thickness of the fiberglass insulation in the attic space: If it's six inches or less, add another layer to provide 12 inches of insulation. Add storm doors and windows to your home, as well.

Programmable thermostats can make a dent in costs, too. The thermostat can automatically allow room temperatures to fall to 60 degrees overnight, and bring the temperature up to 68 degrees by morning.

A programmable water heater can also knock down costs: Turn it down or off during the day while you're at work, and have it automatically come back on in the evening and morning for showers, laundry and dishwashing.

Place humidifiers in commonly used rooms; they can make 68 degrees feel like the mid-70s. Shut off unused rooms, closing air vents and doors.

Open drapes on the south side of the house during the day; you'll feel the difference.

Insulate above-ground pipes (including those in the sub-area or basement) to prevent them from freezing and to save energy.

Finally, replace the air filters in your heating system every month. A clean filter reduces the amount of work the heater has to do to warm the house, making heating costs manageable.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL.

Moments in time

• On Nov. 12, 1799, Andrew Ellicott Douglass, an early American astronomer born in Vermont, witnesses the Leonids meteor shower from a ship off the Florida Keys and records it in his journal. His journal entry is the first-known record of a meteor shower in North America.

• On Nov. 11, 1918, World War I ends as Germany signs an armistice agreement. The war's tolls are 9 million soldiers dead, 21 million wounded and 7 million taken prisoner or missing in action.

• On Nov. 7, 1940, the Tacoma Bridge in Washington, the third-largest suspension bridge in the world, collapses. Miraculously, none perished when the bridge collapsed into the waters some 200 feet below.

• On Nov. 7, 1944, Franklin D. Roosevelt is re-elected president of the United States for a record fourth time. However, only two months into his fourth term as president, he dies, resulting in Vice President Harry S. Truman becoming president.

• On Nov. 8, 1960, in one of the closest presidential elections in U.S. history, Sen. John F. Kennedy wins 49.7 percent of the popular vote, surpassing the 49.6 percent received by Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

• On Nov. 6, 1962, the General Assembly of the United Nations adopts a resolution condemning South Africa's racist apartheid policies and calls on all member states to terminate economic and military relations with South Africa.

• On Nov. 9, 1965, the biggest power failure in history occurs as all of New York State, portions of seven neighboring states and parts of eastern Canada are plunged into darkness. The Great Northeast Blackout begins at the height of rush hour, delaying millions of commuters, and trapping thousands of people in office buildings, elevators, trains and subways.

Strange BUT TRUE
By Samantha Weaver

• Most people know that a hailstone is made up of layers of ice formed around a nucleus, usually an ice crystal or a speck of dust. Almost anything can be a nucleus, though. A person, for instance. In 1930, five German glider pilots bailed out of their aircraft when caught in a severe storm. The updrafts were so strong that the men were repeatedly carried into regions of supercooled air, becoming covered with layers of ice. When the ice became too heavy to remain aloft, they fell to earth as giant hailstones. One of them, Guy Murchie, even survived.

• In 1934 in Normandy, a pig was hanged for eating a child.

• The concept of bungee jumping is not new. Men in the Pentecost Islands of the South Pacific have been doing a version of it for generations. They dive off of a 90-foot-tall tower of bamboo, held by nothing but liana vines tied around their ankles.

• The word "Eskimo" is derived from the Algonquin word for "eats it raw."

• Considering divorce? Consider these statistics first: Only 58 percent of men say that they are happier after a divorce, but a whopping 85 percent of women are. In light of that, I suppose it's not surprising that four-fifths of American men would marry the same woman all over again, while only half of the women would.

LEARNING ABOUT GIVING — Students at St. Mark's Christian Early Learning Center in Loch Lynn are learning about helping those who are in need. The children are collecting things such as toiletries, toys, clothes, and other small items to send to their peers in Mexico. The youngsters are placing the items in shoeboxes that they have decorated in Christmas themes. The project, nicknamed the "shoebox ministry," is part of an international ministry that delivers the filled boxes to needy children in Mexico in time for Christmas. The missionaries and volunteers also provide medical and dental care to the people in the small towns and villages there. The children at the center are donating approximately 18 boxes to the ministry. Pictured are several of the students, along with their teacher, Becky Moyer (right), and assistant Debbie Hershman.

Ladybugs Swarm Into Area Homes; Easily Removed

Orange and black ladybugs are gathering in large numbers in many areas of Maryland, alarming some residents and causing an inconvenience to many more. "Ladybird beetles are actually quite harmless. They do not bite or sting, are not poisonous, carry no diseases, and will not lay eggs indoors," explained Maryland secretary of agriculture Henry A. Virts. "Unfortunately for homeowners, the beetles find houses attractive."

Originally from Asia, the multi-colored Asian ladybird beetle is found throughout the eastern United States. The pill-sized beetles invade houses by hundreds or thousands about mid to late October each year looking for a warm place to spend the winter. Large clusters of beetles gather on the outside of houses in October and early November. As the weather becomes colder, they enter cracks and gaps in the house to seek shelter.

"The best thing one can do is collect the beetles, take them outside and release them in a pile of leaves," said Robert Rabaglia, forest entomologist with the Maryland Department of Agriculture. "These beetles are actually beneficial. Throughout the warm months, they eat aphids, insects that destroy a variety of garden and crop plants. A single immature lady bug can consume 300 aphids in a two-week period."

The multicolored Asian ladybird beetle (called Harmonia axyridis by scientists) was introduced by USDA agricultural research scientists in the late 1970s and early 1980s as a biological control agent in Louisiana and other southern states. It has since spread as far north as Quebec, Canada.

"The beetles do have one other unpleasant feature," said Rabaglia. "When stressed, they exude an orange liquid that is sticky and bad smelling. This is the beetle's defense against predators such as birds."

Rabaglia recommends that homeowners vacuum up beetles inside the house and take the bag outside. Release the beetles or store the bag in a cool place for later release. Using a broom is not recommended because it may result in orange spots on surfaces from the beetle's defensive liquid.

Lance To Speak At AL Post 71 Membership Feed

The American Legion immediate past national commander, Al Lance, will be the guest speaker at the 69th annual membership feed (pig roast), to be held Friday, Nov. 10, at 6 p.m. This affair is sponsored for paid-up members of Proctor Kildow Post 71, at the post home, 423 Memorial Drive, Oakland.

Lance resides in Meridian, Idaho, with his wife Sherry and his children Lisa, Alan Jr., and Luke.

Lance attended the University of South Dakota, where he received a bachelor of arts degree in English and history. In 1973 he received a law degree from the University of Toledo Law School.

PNC Lance served in the U.S. Army from 1971 to 1978 in the Judge Advocate General Corps. He has been a member of the American Legion since 1979, serving as State Department commander, National Executive Committeeman, chairman of the National Foreign Relations Commission, and national commander for the Legion year 1999-2000. He is the first Idaho resident to ever serve in that post.

Lance had a private law practice in Meridian from 1978 to 1991. He served in the Idaho House of Representatives from 1990 to 1994, and as attorney general of that state from 1995 to present (re-elected in 1998).

Lance's personal interests include target shooting, boating, hunting, and fishing.

Officers from the American Legion Department of Maryland and district officers are expected to be in attendance as guests.

Admission is by paid-up membership for 2001 in Proctor Kildow Post 71 only.

FOSTER PARENT PROGRAM HONORS DEWITTS — Jon and Kim DeWitt of Oakland, pictured above standing behind their children Derick and Tasha, have been named Angels of the Month by the Garrett County Foster Care Program of the Department of Social Services. The DeWitts have served five children since completing licensure requirements over two years ago, and adopted Derick and Tasha last month after providing a home for the pair for almost two years. The DeWitts have been named Garrett County's Adoptive Family of the Year, and will be among the honorees recognized during tomorrow's statewide adoption celebration in Glen Burnie.

GCC Enrollment Figures Show Small Increase

Enrollment figures for fall semester at Garrett Community College show a small increase in total enrollment over last year, but a larger increase in enrollment of Garrett County residents, according to Kris Miller, institutional research technician at the college.

This semester's total enrollment is 685 students, up .04 percent from fall 1999; of this number 481 students are residents of Garrett County, an increase of 10.3 percent over last year. Enrollment figures show that 86 residents of West Virginia are enrolled, 41 residents of Pennsylvania, 34 residents of other Maryland counties, 18 residents of other states, and 6 residents of other nations.

Forty-two percent of the student body is enrolled in transfer degree programs that will lead to associate degrees, including 112 students in general studies, 27 in elementary education, 24 in secondary education, 13 in early childhood education, and 23 in math/sciences.

Twenty-eight percent of the college's students are pursuing associate of arts degrees through various career degree programs. That figure is composed of 75 students in business and information technologies, 48 in natural resources and wildlife technology, 39 in adventure sports, 18 in agriculture management, and 9 in juvenile justice.

Certificate programs enroll 12 percent of the students, with 59 in business and computer technologies programs, 22 in human services, and three in adventure sports. Eighteen percent of the student body, 46 students in pre-allied health programs and 76 with in undeclared majors, are classified as non-degree students.

Although GCC still has more women than men enrolled, a 5.2 percent increase of male students has narrowed the gap. There are 324 male students and 361 females this semester. The average age of students is 25 and the median age 20.

Garrett County SKIES

by Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

THE SUN — In November, sunlight hours each day drop from 10.5 to 9.6 by the end of the month. The sun's midday peak height decreases from 36 to 28 degrees (30 degrees is a third of the way up). Sunrise times slowly creep forward from 6:48 a.m. at the beginning of the month to 7:18 a.m. at the end of the month. Sunset times fall back from 5:18 p.m. at the start of November to 4:53 p.m. at November's end.

THE MOON — November opens with the moon as a crescent low in the western dusk. A few days later the evening moon is half full (looks like a "D"). This shape of the moon offers the best views of the moon's craters and mountains with binoculars and telescopes. The moon is full on the night of November 11-12, when it appears near the bright planet Jupiter. On November 18 the moon will appear half full in the morning sky (then looks like a backwards "D"). A week later the moon will shift from the morning to the evening side of the sun. As November ends, the moon will appear as a slender crescent low in the western dusk, shining just above the brilliant planet Venus on the 29th.

THE BRIGHT PLANETS — Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine more steadily than the twinkling night stars. But if a planet appears very close to the horizon or if it's windy, even the planet's light may flicker. Three of the five bright planets can be seen on November evenings. Early in the evening the brilliant planet Venus appears as the bright point of light in the western dusk. In the middle of the evening the bright planet Jupiter and Saturn become prominent in the east. Jupiter is the lower and brighter of the two. The planets Mars and Mercury may be seen at dawn — Mars in the southeast while Mercury appears low in the east at mid-November.

NOVEMBER'S BEST SIGHTS — In the eastern evening sky, the fall star groups really shine — These include Taurus (where the planets Jupiter and Saturn appear) and Auriga (featuring the bright golden star Capella). The western evening sky features the retreating star groups from summer evenings, including the Summer Triangle. The brightest star of the Triangle is white-blue Vega, sparkling in the west-northwest.

NOVEMBER ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES — Each Sunday the Frostburg State Planetarium has two free public presentations, at 1:30 p.m. and 7 p.m., lasting about an hour. The November feature is "Galaxies: Star Kingdoms," a look at the largest things in the universe filled with billions of suns. The planetarium is just off the front lobby of Tawes, with nearby convenient parking.

The Cumberland Astronomy Club will have its monthly meeting on November 17 at 7:30 p.m. at the LaVale Public Library. All interested sky gazers are welcome. Several club members are residents of Garrett County, including the vice president, Gus Johnson of Swanton.

Dr. Bob Doyle directs the planetarium at Frostburg State. Since the mid '70s, Doyle has been writing sky columns for beginners who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask a sky question, call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270 and press 4. Doyle also hosts "Skywatch," a brief program on days of the week and sky sights, which airs on weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM, Frostburg State's radio station that transmits at 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and at 96.3 FM around Oakland. Dr. Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.

Aurora School Float Winner In Fest Parade

The 2000 edition of the Buckwheat Festival float representing Aurora School was awarded first place in the recent Buckwheat Festival School Day parade.

The theme of the float was "Honoring the Past... Experience the Future," developed to honor the old Aurora School destroyed by fire in May of 1993 and to present the new Aurora School where community children can "experience daily an opportunity for a good education."

The school's bear mascot towered eight feet tall over children portraying students from years past in the old school, as well as modern day students in the school today. The float was built by teachers and PTO parents from the school. Financial sponsor is A & W Lawn & Garden.

This float was also placed in the Autumn Glory parade.

Church Observes Centennial Of Present Building

The congregation of the Terra Alta First United Methodist Church celebrated the 100th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the present building on Sunday, Oct. 8.

At the conclusion of the morning worship service, the group moved to the church portico for the burial of a time capsule in a specially prepared vault in the floor of the church porch. Included in it were a copy of the Preston County Journal as well as the Preston County News; the pictorial book Preston County by Charles Thomas; "Traditions for the Future," a history of the present church by Betty W. White; a color panoramic picture of the congregation; a ruby-colored juice glass, at least 50 years old, from the remodeled church kitchen; a copy of a Terra Alta history book, The Past Is a Key to the Future, by Betty Whittaker White; and the church's October newsletter.

The rededication of the church was led by Pastor Michael Daniels. When the time capsule was closed, the minister concluded that part of the celebration with prayer.

Rich Hopkins was in charge of assembling everyone for a color panoramic photograph. It was taken in front of the church by Mark Crabtree of Crabtree Photography, Morgantown, using a restored 19th century camera, which uses film the same size as the finished photograph. Following the historic photo-op, those with meal reservations assembled in the fellowship hall for a catered lunch. Reverend Daniels gave the invocation.

Afterward, short remarks were made by the following church leaders: Kay Royce, Administrative Council chairman; Jack Keim, lay leader; Don Loudermilk, chairman of the board of trustees; Rich Hopkins, representing the Centennial Committee; Ruth Teets, church treasurer; Charlotte Freeland, president, United Methodist Women; and Charles Harriman, eldest male member of the church. Several other people spoke extemporaneously of church memories and affiliation.

Letters

To the Editor:

I have always been under the impression that all Americans have rights protected by our Constitution. It appears in Garrett County only Republicans have the right to free speech. They openly display their campaign signs for Bush-Cheney on their lawns and the signs are never touched. However, when Democrats put up signs for Gore-Lieberman, they are ripped down soon after. Now, you may not agree with the Democrats' candidate for president, but they have a right to express their opinion. It seems some need to be reminded of Voltaire's words, "I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it."

Sincerely,
Beth Luers

To the Editor:

In my opinion, the letter in last week's Republican criticizing the use of our tax dollars to build recreational facilities at the lake is right on the money!

I believe that this project, the way it is described, should be left up to private investors to risk their money, if it is ever to be built.

Let me be very plain here. Despite the figures that are put out by local officials, Garrett County residents are very much underemployed and overtaxed. Many drive hundreds of miles each week to earn a "living wage." Many more have found local jobs that pay just enough to get by on with little or no benefits, such as affordable health insurance for their families.

Meanwhile, the property taxes that we pay have constantly increased due to higher assessments, driven in large part by the "Deep Creek Lake factor." We haven't had a tax rate decrease in more than a decade, thanks to elected officials who seem to find more and more ways to spend our tax dollars!

Now we are told that the wealthy businessmen and investors at the lake need millions of our tax dollars to "jump start" a sports complex that may benefit us someday, in the ultimate sense of "trickle down" economics, as more low-paying jobs! That is, if more tourism results from our sacrifices now.

In other words, yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus! That is, if you happen to be able to tap into the public trough in Garrett County.

One of our commissioners was quoted as saying that he thinks it's a shame that we don't have facilities for ice skating. Well, we do! Winter provides us every year with many frozen ponds and even Deep Creek Lake itself. And guess what. It doesn't cost us a dime!

Really, folks, this has to stop! Our public servants need to understand that every dollar of ours they spend is precious. It's not their money after all, even though in recent years, you wouldn't believe it.

I'll tell you one thing. The devil himself will be on ice skates before I agree with this obscene waste of our hard-earned tax dollars.

Jerry Plauger
Mtn. Lake Park

To the Editor:

In the closest election of a president of the United States since 1960, the nation literally is held hostage to the latest polls. With both candidates moving toward the center, the passion for either candidate seems lost in the voter's heart. We have been told by partisan politics that George is not "up to the job," and that Albert is too "exuberant."

One of the observances is the passion of the candidates' wives. Laura Bush appears quiet and has told the press she would prefer a less visible or audible participation. That contrasts with the display Tipper Gore shows at every rally. One almost has to take away her microphone. An undecided voter can read into those remarks whichever way they wish.

Something that should concern many of us who rely solely on CNN, and the other major networks, is the ownership of the networks. If you tune into CNN and its polling, it has consistently shown a 5% to 7% edge to Bush, as opposed to CNBC and the Gallup, Zagby polls which show the contest at 1% to 2% for either candidate. The major revenue from commercial advertisement for CNN comes from the major pharmaceutical companies, and one of its owners is Ted Turner, a long-time Republican conservative — hmmm.

A result of this election and perhaps future elections is simply that a less informal public will be responsible for electing the president of the United States. Like it or not, what we lack in our society is a good old-fashioned Walter Cronkite or Edward R. Murrow to give the news to us straight so that we are able to make up our own minds, without being bombarded by pundits and spin rooms who over-analyze even the sighs of a candidate or the inability of another to pronounce the names of foreign leaders.

Good luck to Al and George. They both deserved better journalism.

To the Editor:

I am a concerned youth and citizen of Garrett County. I feel that our county is dangerously overrun with black bear. They are becoming a serious danger. Living in Garrett County, I expect to see some black bear and an abundance of wildlife in our county, but I don't expect to be chased out of the woods and across a field by one. Yes, I am serious. I have had two very dangerous encounters with black bears that could have been deadly.

I have had two experiences while hunting. My most dangerous experience was when a black bear came up out of the woods and followed me across a field and would not leave. I was scared and could have been seriously injured if I had not been able to scare it away. My other experience was when a female bear treed her cubs 10 feet from me, and I had to walk by her to get out of the woods.

These experiences could have been deadly, if I had not had the knowledge to handle the situation. I am concerned about the young children and the tourists who visit our area. I do not feel that they have any knowledge about dealing with the bears and that they could be in serious danger if the population continues to grow.

I have talked to the DNR several times about the problem, but between them and the people in the cities trying to save the bears, nothing is being done. This is not what I expected from the DNR when I reported my cases with the bear.

It is not just hunters having problems either. The farmers are constantly being harassed by the bear and are losing herds of animals. They are also losing many crops because the bears are destroying them. These farmers are not receiving any help from the government because too many people don't understand the danger of these animals. Along with farmers and hunters, these creatures are harassing the people around the county and at Deep Creek Lake. Trash disposal units are being destroyed and the bears are attacking pets. As a citizen of Garrett County, I feel the black bear has become a hazard to us all.

I feel that a controlled season on the black bear would be an effective method of controlling the black bear population. This would work, because just caging and relocating the bear is not helping because the bears come back and continue to overpopulate the county. I hope that the government will soon step in, because I am afraid that the only way that the problem will be properly addressed is when someone is seriously hurt or killed. I hope this won't happen, but it just might be what it takes. I feel that more people should push for a controlled black bear season in Maryland and try to control the problem safely and easily. A season would also end a lot of black bear poaching that is slowly beginning to rise in the area.

To the Editor,

The students and staff of Swan Meadow School would like to thank all the wonderful people of this area who come to the Pleasant Valley Community Center each year on the last Friday in September to support the P.T.O.'s annual Harvest Sale. This event would not have grown for 51 years without the generous patronage it receives from this community.

Local businesses that kindly contributed to the Harvest Sale this year include Agway, Book Mark'et, F&M Bank, Gregg's Pharmacy, Manor Builders, Miners and Merchants Bank, Proudfoot's Pharmacy, Pugh Apple Orchard in Romney, West Virginia, and Southern States.

It is hoped the Harvest Sale will thrive for another 50 years. With the support of this community, it surely will.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Linda L. Fleming,

To the Editor:

I drove around this county a few weeks ago to enjoy autumn's colors. This year was better than the past couple of years. Another thing that I noticed was the lack of house numbers posted out front of the house.

I'm not sure just what is going through some people's minds. But they need to think a minute. What if something happens?

Without the house number out front, no one knows where you live. That's fine if you don't want relatives to find you, but what about emergency services? If your house catches fire, will they find you in time? The other way they'll find your house is with a large orange glow in the sky. Then everyone will know where you live. God forbid you should need an ambulance. If you have a stroke or heart attack, with your life passing before your eyes, why should the ambulance waste time looking for your house because you don't have a sign?

To the developers and contractors, you people go by lot numbers to build these nice homes for people. How about including a nice sign out front with the 911 address on it? You've given the owners a complete package. They won't have to worry about their address; it will be there. Might be a nice gesture.

To the county commissioners, the three of you, with Mr. Nelson driving — take $20 of my tax money and drive down Sandy Shores Dr., the Pinnacle, Rock Lodge Heights, or pick your own area. Check it out.

I think there is a regulation, or something like it, on the books, explaining how high off the ground, size of lettering, etc. Don't just read it, enforce it.

People will try to blame the fire department or rescue squads for not arriving sooner. They will probably try to bring judgment against the fire and rescue service, or blame someone else for their own failures.

To the Editor:

Halloween is for children, and grown-ups who still like to dress up and enjoy the spirit of the season. It is one of the most pleasant times of the year. It is a wonderful thing to see children dressed up in their costumes, as they go out in our beautiful autumn weather.

But, this time an adult had to ruin it! My grandchildren returned to my home, excited about dressing up, and most important of all, the candy they received. They sat down to enjoy their candy. They handed me a pamphlet from their bag.

The pamphlet was an endorsement for Republican candidates Bush and Cheney. I am sure this came from some dim-witted Republican who doesn't know that children who go out on Halloween are not old enough to vote.

You know who you are, so please read this very slowly so that you will understand what you are reading. If not, maybe someone will read it for you. My grandchildren, ages 7 and 9, cannot vote. I resent your handing out the pamphlets on a night that is for children.

Whom you vote for is your business, and whom I vote for is mine. I placed your Republican trash in the bottom of my bird cage, and would be glad to return it to you the next time I change the paper.

Now you know what I think of your antics. Next time, think before you do this again. Think of the children.

Thank you,
Edith Dawson Beeman

To the Editor:

As everyone knows, the number of black bears is growing throughout the state of Maryland. In the past two years black bears have even been spotted in some of our urban counties. On July 12 a segment of "Planet Maryland" on MPT aired concerning the spread of black bears. Residents of the suburbs thought that they probably could co-exist with bears in their backyards. Only time will tell.

Those of us who live and farm in Garrett County have tried to co-exist. We have seen crop and livestock damage from the bears increase. Farmers have to provide mountains of proof to receive a little money for their losses. The sale of black bear stamps has generated little money.

Maybe when some suburbanite's $1,000 landscaping shrub or their Mercedes' paint job is destroyed, urban residents will once again reconsider a limited bear season for Maryland residents.

Sincerely,
Bobby Barnard

To the Editor:

After following numerous negative letters and information concerning Loch Lynn's mayor and council persons, I decided to voice my opinion relevant to Mr. Friend's "team," that he felt was most qualified to fulfill these positions in the upcoming elections. I am not a resident of Loch Lynn, just a faithful reader of The Republican newspaper. However, I decided to make Loch Lynn my home for a couple hours on Saturday, Oct. 28, from 6 to 8 p.m., at which time the town celebrated its annual "trick or treat" night. During this time I made an observation concerning Mr. Friend's "team," or as you sometimes call yourselves, "concerned citizens." I was very surprised to learn that not one of your team members, including yourself, Mrs. Corley, and Mr. Ron Friend, were concerned enough to offer small children a Halloween treat. Now what could you possibly offer your town?

I also observed that your present elected officials did participate in the annual event. Obviously, Mr. Friend, your concern is not genuine, but perhaps a power struggle. Hopefully, the residents of your small town will see through your negative intentions prior to the Nov. 6 election and get out there and vote. Think about it, citizens, if you have nothing that small to offer, the chances of your making a real change or contribution to your community are very small.

Sincerely,
Betty Brown

Miller Is Guest Speaker At Annual Farm Bureau Banquet

Robert G. Miller, who grew up in the Accident area of Garrett County, was the guest speaker at the 63rd annual banquet and meeting of the Garrett County Farm Bureau.

Miller grew up on a 160-acre crop and livestock farm near Accident, and was a 1942 graduate of Accident High School.

His talk and slide presentation showed what changes have taken place over the past years in Wicomico Co., where he served as a 4-H agent in charge of agricultural programs. In 1980 Wicomico Co. had a population of 39,500, but has grown to 80,000 in 2000. He said that in 1980 there were 1,763 farms in the county and that now there are only 580 farms. These declining number of farms, however, are producing more major commodities and earning much more money. Soybeans, broilers, corn, and vegetables are now the major crops grown in Wicomico Co., he said.

Dr. Don Forrester, supervisor of secondary education with the Garrett County Board of Education, spoke on the importance of the Ag in the Classroom program being carried on in Garrett County schools. He said the program has been very successful and has benefited all the children in the county schools. He credited Gary Fratz for transporting the Ag in the Classroom trailer from school to school.

Comments were presented by both Garrett County Farm Queen Melissa Upole and Allegany/Garrett Dairy Princess Alicia DeWitt, who both discussed their activities since gaining their titles, and their appearance in the recent Autumn Glory Parade.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg was also a guest at the banquet.

A report was given on the success of the ice cream booth at the Garrett County Fair. In 2000 there were 770 gallons of ice cream sold, while last year only 554 gallons were sold. Farm Bureau extended its appreciation to Fike's Dairy for donating the milk the booth uses at the fair. Ice cream booth proceeds go to the Farm Queen Scholarship and the Farm Bureau Scholarship each year.

Two resolutions were passed by those members present. Those resolutions follow:

Garrett County Farm Bureau resolves that members are urged to vote in the upcoming presidential election, and;

Garrett County Farm Bureau resolves to oppose any co-permitting tied to nutrient management regulations.

Five Gold Star Awards were presented to Garrett County Farm Bureau committee chairpersons this year by the Maryland Farm Bureau. Those receiving awards were: Debbie Barnard, Women's Committee; Art Lake, Membership Committee; Rebecca DeBerry Tasker, Information Director; and Brooks Hamilton, for both Public Affairs and National Affairs.

Officers were elected, with W. Brooks Hamilton maintaining his position as chairman, and Paul D. Miller, his position as vice chairman. Director for the Accident area is Carl Bender; for the Friendsville-McHenry area, William Enlow; for the Grantsville-Bittinger area, Delmar Yoder; for the Swanton-Deer Park area, Kenneth Bachtel. Delegates chosen to represent the county at the state convention are W. Brooks Hamilton, William Enlow, Donald Ringer, and Clark A. Kolb.

The Women's Committee co-chairpersons will continue to be Debbie Barnard and Rebecca DeBerry Tasker. Representative to the committee from the Oakland-Red House area is Linda Evans; from the Friendsville-McHenry area, Kristen Enlow; from the Accident area, Carla Miller; from the Grantsville-Bittinger area, Alta Birkby; and from the Swanton-Deer Park area, Shelly Upole.

Farm Bureau is now taking orders for its annual Florida citrus fruit sale. Offered are oranges, grapefruit, tangelos, and orange juice concentrate. To place an order, persons may call 301-746-8616 by November 15.

Farming In Maryland.....

Dry Weather Trend Continues

The dry weather conditions experienced last week allowed for 6.8 days suitable for field work in Maryland, according to Ray Garibay, state statistician with the Maryland Ag Statistics Service. He said that while the dry conditions are desirable for corn and soybean harvesting activities, some area farmers report that fall growth of pasture, cover crops, and small grain crops are slowing due to the lack of moisture.

Corn harvest continued to run behind schedule with 74% harvested for grain, which is 8 percentage points behind the five-year average. Delays at the elevators continue to hamper harvest. Currently, soybeans are 44% harvested, 2 percentage points below the five-year average. Small grain planting has been hindered in some areas due to the slow harvest.

The persistent dry weather in Maryland continued to lower soil moisture conditions. The surplus in topsoil moisture has been depleted. Topsoil moisture rating was 5% very short, 36% short, and 59% adequate. Subsoil moisture rating was 4% very short, 14% short, 81% adequate, and 1% surplus.

Crop progress for the week which ended Oct. 29, listing the crop and percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, in that order, follows:

Small grain seeded: barley 86, 72, 88, 87; wheat 53, 32, 58, 57; rye 58, 46, 63, 70.

Crop harvesting: apples 95, 90, 89, 89; sorghum harvested 63, 55, 70, 59; corn harvested for grain 74, 70, 84, 82; soybeans harvested 44, 34, 42, 46.

Hay harvested: other hay, 4th cutting 84, 80, 88, 84; alfalfa, 4th cutting 95, 93, 83, 94; alfalfa, 5th cutting 55, 45, 50, 47.

Crop conditions for the week which ended Oct. 29, listing the crop, and percentages for very poor, poor, fair, good, and excellent, in that order, are: barley 0, 3, 20, 73, 4; rye 0, 1, 8, 89, 2; winter wheat 0, 3, 16, 75, 6; range and pasture 0, 9, 19, 63, 9.

MASS Releases October Crop Production Info

Based on conditions Oct. 1, corn and soybean production in Maryland is expected to be up from 1999, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Yields for this month remained unchanged from the Sept. 1 report for corn, soybeans, and tobacco. Corn production is forecast at 62 million bushels, up 85% from last year and 42% from 1998. Yield is projected at 155 bushels per acre, up 62 bushels from last year's estimate of 93. If realized, this would be the highest yield on record. According to the Crop Progress Report for Oct. 2, corn condition stood at 1% very poor, 1% poor, 4% fair, 48% good, and 46% excellent.

Soybean production is forecast at 18.62 million bushels, up 21% from last year and 31% from 1998. This would be the largest production since 1994. Yield is forecast at 38 bushels per acre, up 6 bushels from 1999's final estimate of 32 bushels per acre. From the Oct. 2 Crop Progress Report, soybean condition was rated 2% very poor, 7% poor, 17% fair, 48% good, and 26% excellent.

Corn grain production across the United States is forecast at 10.2 billion bushels, down 2% from last month, but up 8% from 1999. Based on Oct. 1 conditions, yields are expected to average 139.6 bushels per acre, down 2.2 bushels from last month but up 5.8 bushels from a year ago. If realized, this would be the largest production and yield on record. Acreage for harvest is estimated at 73 million acres, down 50,000 acres from last month due to extremely dry weather in Colorado.

Soybean production is forecast at a record high 2.82 billion bushels, down 3% from Sept. 1, but 6% above 1999. The yield forecast, at 38.7 bushels per acre, decreased 0.8 bushel from last month, but is 2.1 bushels above the 1999 final yield. Acres expected for harvest are forecast at a record 73 million acres, down 1% from September, but up 1% from 1999. Acres expected for harvest are forecast at a record 73 million acres, down 1% from September, but up 1% from 1999. Acres expected for harvest were decreased by 450,000 acres in eight states due to abandonment or harvested for hay. Downward adjustments to harvested acres were made in Alabama, Arkansas, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and Texas.

Old crop corn stocks in all positions on Sept. 1, 2000, totaled 1.72 billion bushels, down 4% from Sept. 1, 1999. Of the total stocks, 793 million bushels were stored on farms, down 1% from a year ago. Off-farm stocks, at 922 million bushels, were down 7% from a year ago.

The June - August 2000 quarter indicated disappearance is 1.87 billion bushels, 2% above the disappearance of 1.83 billion bushels during the same period a year earlier.

Old crop soybeans stored in all positions on Sept. 1, 2000, totaled 288 million bushels, down 17% from Sept. 1, 1999. On-farm stocks totaled 113 million bushels, down 22% from last Sept. Off-farm stocks, at 175 million bushels, are 14% below a year ago.

Indicated disappearance for the Sept. 1999 - Aug. 2000 marketing year totaled 2.72 billion bushels, 5% above disappearance during the comparable period a year earlier. The 1999 soybean production was revised to 2.65 billion bushels, up 10.9 million bushels from the previous 1999 estimate.

All wheat stored in all positions on Sept. 1, 2000, totaled 2.37 billion bushels, down 3% from a year ago. On-farm stocks are estimated at 823 million bushels, down 7% from last year. Off-farm stocks, at 1.54 billion bushels, are down 1% from a year ago.

Foreign Persons Owning Ag Land Must Report

Any foreign person who holds, acquires, or transfers any interest in agricultural land must complete form FSA-153, Agricultural Foreign Investment Disclosure Act Report, not later than 90 days after the acquisition or transfer of land, according to Mike Kozier, county executive director, Farm Service Agency (FSA).

Kozier said the form can be obtained from, and must be returned to, the FSA office in the county where the land is physically located. Failure to submit the report, or knowingly submitting a report that is incomplete, misleading, or false, is subject to a civil penalty of not more than 25% of the fair market value of the land on the date the penalty is assessed, said Kozier.

Glickman Announces Signup For $500 Million Oilseed Program

Agriculture secretary Dan Glickman has announced that the USDA began signup in October for the 2000 Oilseeds Program. Under this program, $500 million in payments will be made available to producers of the 2000 crops of certain oilseeds, as provided for by the Agricultural Risk Protection Act of 2000.

"This assistance is greatly needed for the more than 600,000 oilseed producers who are continuing to receive low market prices for their oilseed crops," Glickman said.

To be eligible for the 2000 Oilseeds Program, a producer must share in the production of an eligible oilseed that was planted in 2000. The eligible oilseeds are canola, crambe, flaxseed, mustard, rapeseed, safflower, sesame, soybeans, and sunflowers.

Payments will generally be based on the higher of the producer's 1997, 1998, or 1999 acreage and yield for each individual oilseed. Only producers who planted an oilseed for the first time in 2000 can use their 2000 acreage and yield for payment purposes.

The following projected payment rates are calculated based on the five-year average price for each oilseed, adjusted to keep spending within the $500 million authorization:

Crop Projected Payment Rates

- Canola $0.2526 per hundredweight
- Crambe $0.2526 per hundredweight
- Flaxseed $0.1240 per bushel
- Mustard $0.3222 per hundredweight
- Rapeseed $0.2742 per hundredweight
- Safflower $0.3414 per hundredweight
- Sesame $0.5795 per hundredweight
- Soybeans $0.1400 per bushel
- Sunflowers $0.2603 per hundredweight

Actual payment rates may be more or less than the projected rates and will be determined after signup is complete.

Producers can sign up for this program or obtain additional information at their local Farm Service Agency office or USDA Service Center.

Nutrient Management Shock!

During the last few years we have written many nutrient management plans for farmers. Most farmers found the plans useful in planning their cropping system and minimizing associated costs. But now there is a law that changes the picture of yesterday. The new law requires that a farm's nutrient management plan be kept current in every detail and that the farmer keeps records to verify every field, every crop, every pound of fertilizer, and every ton of manure.

Many farmers are going to experience a serious culture shock as they come to grips with the record-keeping requirement required by the regulations. Farmers must keep the following records for three years:

* Application dates and field locations of all fertilizers, manures and biosolids applied to the farm;
* Receipts for purchased nutrients;
* Soil analyses for all fields and manure analyses;
* Justification for all plan modifications and updates.

Then for five years farmers must keep crop yield information for every field - every bushel of grain, every ton of silage or haylage, every bale of hay. Some farmers may already have documentation of grain yields, but very few farmers document their yields of corn silage, ryelage, alfalfa haylage or dry hay. But this is the year to begin because our yield records will determine how much manure or fertilizer nutrients can be applied to each field. I would suggest that all farmers organize a field by field record keeping system (a notebook is fine) to document grain yields (use weigh tickets or measure storage), silage yields (count loads or measure storage) and hay yields (count bales to figure yield). If we can be of any assistance, please give us a call.

Establishing Grass

It is a very common practice in our area to seed orchardgrass or timothy under a small grain "nurse" crop. From the observations of the grass plots at the Western Maryland Research Center, this practice may delay the proper establishment of the grass and greatly reduce first year yields.

In a multi-year Penn State study, timothy was seeded with and without a wheat nurse crop. Timothy hay yields for the first year showed an advantage of about one ton per acre for the September seeded grass versus the October seeding of grass with wheat. Perhaps very late grass seedings can use a nurse crop to protect young grass and prevent winter erosion. But if we are serious about growing grass, we must remove any source of competition from the seedling grass. Nurse crops, established grass, and weeds all provide competition to young grass stands delaying or preventing proper establishment, reducing yields and stand life.

New Uses Of "The Magic Bean": Soy-based Latex Paint To Debut

The soybean has been hailed as "the magic bean," its protein offering proven health and disease-fighting benefits as a human food source. Now, the bean's protein and oil are being used in a broad spectrum of commercial and industrial products. And more are on the way.

Steve Wildes of Omni-Tech International, Ltd., speaking at the second annual Maryland Commodity Classic last July, presented an impressive and exciting list of new products that have been developed or are in the process of being developed for use other than food.

"Historically the soybean has been an excellent raw material for many food and feed products," Wildes said. "Ninety-five percent of soybeans have been used for food until recently.

"The two main ingredients of soybeans—protein and oil—offer also significant utility as industrial chemical intermediates."

Spearheading the search for alternative uses for the bean is the United Soybean Board's New Uses Committee through the national soybean checkoff program.

The New Uses Committee has the responsibility to discover, develop and commercialize new industrial soy-based products focusing on five market segments: coatings and inks; adhesives; lubricants; plastics; and specialty products such as solvents, surfacants, and pesticides, Wildes said. Omni-Tech is under contract with the New Uses Committee to bring these new uses to the marketplace.

The market segments, Wildes said, were selected after thorough analysis showed, first, that significant volumes of soybeans could be used, and second, from a technical standpoint, that successful products could be commercially developed and compete in the areas of performance and economics. The New Uses Program has been operating for five years and several new products have entered the market since 1997.

For example, soy ink, soy adhesives, soy-based lubricants, and soy-based biodiesel fuel are already in production and on the market, Wildes said.

"We expect to have 60 new products become commercial by 2005. USB-sponsored research is well along on a new soy-based, water-based, interior primer paint that is scheduled for market launch this year. Soybean oil has traditionally been used in alkyd paints, but this will hopefully open up the latex paint market for soy-based coating intermediates.

"One of the exciting new technologies is the CytoSol Shoreline Cleaner developed by CytoCulture International, to clean up oil spills on coastal beaches and inland waterways. It can also be used to clean up old existing oil spills," Wildes said.

Another use for soybeans with enormous potential, Wildes said, is soybean oil as a replacement for fuel oil in ammonium nitrate explosives used in mining operations.

"A single one million pound explosive charge used in open pit coal mining would require 7,000 bushels of soybean oil at seven percent concentration," Wildes said. "Typically, a mining operation will set off three of these charges in a day."

And, Wildes added, with petroleum-based charges, you can't go back into the mine shaft for three days but with soy-based charges you can re-enter right away.

"The environmental performance and economic advantages of soy-based derivatives used in new industrial products, mainly industrial chemicals, has spurred widespread interest and support of the biobased replacement of petreochemicals by private industry and government agencies. In fact, hundreds of universities and companies of all sizes are now involved," Wildes said.

"Clearly, many challenges remain, but we are excited about the industrial opportunities for soy products and the progress that is being made toward creating new product opportunities for this versatile little bean."

For the world to eliminate God from our society, He must first be removed as the Creator of the universe!

Our youth are being taught that man was not created by God, but that he evolved from "prehistoric slime." Tragically, millions of our young people, including many of those from Christian homes, are hearing and gradually believing this satanic lie! In an effort to protect our families and youth, Mountain Lake Independent Baptist Church is presenting the facts! Seven fact-filled sessions that will strengthen your family's faith in God's Word and give you the knowledge you need to defend your faith!

Monday & Tuesday Evening - 7:00 p.m.

7 ways these sessions will help you:

- ✔ They will convince your children that you and your pastor are right when you say, "God created everything!"
- ✔ They will help your family see that evolution is a religion, and not science.
- ✔ They will provide solid scientific facts that will help your family defend your faith.
- ✔ They will reinforce the fact that all true scientific data supports creation, not evolution.
- ✔ They will equip your family to intelligently discuss this topic with your friends and associates.
- ✔ They will give you confidence to stand up against those who deny God and challenge the Creation position.
- ✔ They will bless and encourage all Christians and force even devout evolutionists to reconsider their beliefs.

FSU Will Host Violin-Piano Duo

The Frostburg State University Department of Music Guest Artist Series will host the Laura Kobayashi and Susan Keith Gray Duo in concert Thursday, Nov. 9, at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center Pealer Recital Hall. It is free and open to the public.

"Violinist Kobayashi and pianist Gray are widely praised for their technique, expressive musicianship, impeccable ensemble, and stimulating programming," stated an FSU spokesperson. In 1993, the duo toured South America and the West Indies as USIA Artist Ambassadors. In 1995, they were prize winners in the Contemporary Record Society's National Competition for Performing Artists. Touring throughout the United States, they perform standard works and highlight works by women composers. They recently completed Boldly Expressive: Music by Women, released on the Albany Records Label.

The program, titled "Music by Women Composers," includes "Romance, op. 22" and "Elegie, op. 34" by Dora Pejacevic; "Allegory" by Serra Miyeum Hwang; Grazyna Bacewicz's Sonata no. 3 for Violin and Piano and Dame Ethel Mary Smyth's Sonata in A minor for Violin and Piano, op. 7.

Among her many appearances, Kobayashi has performed as guest soloist with the Seattle, Spokane, and Grand Junction symphonies and the Northwest Chamber Orchestra and is a former member of the San Francisco Opera Orchestra. A native of Seattle, she received her bachelor's degree from the Juilliard School of Music, her master's degree from Yale University, and her doctor of musical arts degree from the University of Michigan. She is a member of the West Virginia University faculty, where she teaches violin and chamber music and performs with the West Virginia Piano Quartet.

Gray is a member of the piano faculty at the University of South Dakota and a member of that university's Rawlins Piano Trio. Noted as a collaborative pianist, she served on the instrumental faculty for the Music Academy of the West and has accompanied for numerous national competitions. Her recordings include American piano trios on Albany records and The Unknown Flower: Song Cycles by American Women Composers with soprano Charsie Randolph Sawyer. She has performed the complete cycle of Beethoven's piano trios and song cycles of African American composers for public radio and on compact disc. Gray holds degrees from Converse College, University of Illinois, and a doctor of musical arts from the University of Michigan.

Chamber Orchestra Kremlin To Give Concert At FSU

The Frostburg State University Cultural Events Series will continue with performances by Chamber Orchestra Kremlin on Sunday, Nov. 12, at 3 p.m. and Tuesday, Nov. 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center's Pealer Recital Hall.

During its nine years of existence, the orchestra has maintained a strong presence in the international music world, with an active touring schedule and 12 CDs to date. Music director Misha Rachlevsky founded the orchestra in response to an invitation from the Swiss recording company Claves to record discs of Russian music. Some have won prestigious awards, including Gramophone's Critic's Choice and the Diapason d'Or of Paris.

This 18-member string formation of young musicians has won rave reviews around the globe for its "distinctively impassioned, yet meticulous style." "The group is considered one of Moscow's best," says the Boston Globe. England's Gramophone describes the orchestra as "an expert body under the baton of a keen stylist."

The orchestra will offer different programs for each concert. Sunday's works include W.A. Mozart's Divertimento in F major, K. 138; Prokofiev's Visions Fugitives, op. 22; and Tchaikovsky's Souvenir de Florence, op. 70. On Tuesday, the orchestra will play Mozart's Divertimento in D major, K. 136; Shostakovich's Chamber Symphony, op. 100a (String quartet no. 8, arr. R. Barshai); J.S. Bach's Contrapunctus no. 1 from The Art of the Fugue; and Tchaikovsky's Serenade for Strings, op. 48.

In conjunction with the concerts, Giuseppe's Italian Restaurant in Frostburg is offering dinner-theatre specials with a choice of four-course, all-inclusive dinners. Alcoholic beverages are not included in the price. Dinner will follow Sunday's performance and precede Tuesday's performance. Transportation is included on Tuesday, and is available by specific request on Sunday.

Before Tuesday's performance, at 6 p.m., Rachlevsky will present a free open rehearsal, followed by a question-and-answer session. "He brings a wealth of musical experience and knowledge to the podium after developing his talent as a violinist by following the renowned path of the Russian school of strings, working abroad on three continents and founding three orchestras — the New American Chamber Orchestra, the Chamber Orchestra of Grenada, Spain, and Chamber Orchestra Kremlin," stated an FSU spokesperson.

This tour of Chamber Orchestra Kremlin is made possible by a grant from Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation in partnership with the National Endowment for the Arts Regional Touring Program.

For information, reservations, and menu selection for the dinner theatre, persons may contact the Lane Center Box Office at 301-687-4411, Monday through Friday, between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Based on availability, tickets may also be purchased at the PAC box office one hour prior to curtain.

Frostburg State To Present Fall Dance Concert

The Frostburg State University Dance Company announces its Fall 2000 Dance Concert, featuring works by two award-winning guest artists, student dancers, and artistic director Dr. Barry Fischer.

Performances are scheduled for this Friday, Nov. 3, and Saturday, Nov. 4, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 5, at 2 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center Drama Theatre. Admission is $4 for students with ID and $7 for the general public.

Guest artists Patik Bordovsky and Ursula Payne come from the world of collegiate dance to participate in an energetic and upbeat show for the "young and the young-at-heart," Fischer said. As student dancers, each artist earned the prestigious Best Student Performer of the Year award from Dance magazine and the American College Dance Festival.

Now a full-time member of the United States Air Force, Bordovsky brings hip-hop to FSU with his award-winning piece titled "Crazy," featuring Madonna's latest hit, "Music." Not long after emigrating to the United States from Eastern Europe, Bordovsky took a dance class at Anne Arundel Community College that inspired him to create "Crazy." He won Performer of the Year in 2000.

Payne, a full-time faculty member specializing in modern dance at Slippery Rock University, will perform two pieces. Her 1992 award for "All Aboard...Sojourner" is set to the music of Philip Glass. Her other solo, "Being Single and Surviving Romance," features music from the "Queen of Soul," Aretha Franklin. Payne recently received a $10,000 choreography fellowship from the Pennsylvania Council of the Arts.

The concert will also feature six works choreographed by student dance company members and two works by Dr. Fischer. The students' pieces include duet and group settings choreographed to classical, to contemporary, to African music. Dr. Fischer is contributing a solo piece and a group piece.

Tickets are available from the Performing Arts Center Box Office, Monday to Friday, from 2 to 4 p.m., beginning Oct. 30. For more information, persons may call the box office at 301-687-7462.

FIEDLER SUPPORTS FOSTER CARE - Cumberland Mayor Lee Fiedler served as keynote speaker at a recent banquet held at the Cumberland Country Club. The dinner, followed by a silent auction, raised nearly $4,000 for the Maryland Salem Children's Trust. Fiedler, speaking about his experiences caring for children placed in his home through the foster care system, encouraged the banquet guests to continue supporting Salem, now its second decade working with children in need to offer hope and healing to those needing a home, shelter care, special education, or transition education services.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

The leaves are almost gone, and the only things remaining on my maple tree are just a few little wing seeds. At least half the trees around here are pretty bare. I hate this time of the year. The world is just holding its breath for winter. The nice Indian summer has come and gone so fast and early. I predict winter this year in Bittinger to be a normal winter with a good-sized snowfall evenly spaced and no big dumps, but just enough to keep the ground covered during much of December, January, and February. Spring will start about the last week of March. That means it will be a good winter for cross-country skiers, but not that good for school kids who want lots of big storms. This is based on the caterpillars I saw and the crop of apples this year (which was very light), plus the amount of nuts (hickory nuts and acorns) that was already gathered by the squirrels. Cindy Stanton and I could hardly find any hickory nuts on the ground a couple weeks ago.

Sheila Southerly alerted us that the Peat Bog Monster was stirring last weekend. The kids around this neck of the woods checked this out Sunday evening prior to the real trick-or-treat trip down that road on Halloween. The Youth Group of Emmanuel Lutheran Church will not be collecting money for UNICEF this year, but hope to resume the custom of collecting for the children next year.

The kids of the new family who recently moved into the farm house on the Stephens farm (Greta and Hannah) were picked up by Rodney Glotfelty and family on Sunday night to check out the Bog Monster action. Their mother said that they had a ball when the monster chased them and then enticed them with candy. The Diehlmanns are formerly of Vermont, but love this neighborhood and feel very welcome.

My Caitlin already is a good pal with Greta, sharing sleepovers, and riding to soccer games together. My Mere and Hannah constantly phone each other and walk halfway between houses regularly. One time instead of coming straight to the house, they took a detour to the creek (or crick), but finally arrived here safe and sound. Hannah's grandparents, up from D.C., and I looked for them. It is great to have playmates for my girls living so near. Their mother used to be a former horsegirl like me, and she also loves cross country skiing. She will love the trails nearby. She and I plan to get our girls riding on the ponies. I almost forgot that the smallest of the Diehlmanns is Claire, only 3 years old. While their mother attends college at GCC, Claire is in Head Start in Accident.

For some reason this time of year I feel like going to bed as soon as it is dark, which is pretty early since the time changed. Unfortunately, that means I get up about 5 o'clock in the morning.

I missed this item last week, but here it is at last: The 18th annual turkey dinner to benefit the Lutheran Braille Workers Inc. will be served at the Northern High School cafeteria on Saturday, Nov. 4, from 4:30-7 p.m. The cost of the meal is $6 for adults, and $3 for children under 12. Carry-outs will be available, as well as baked goods and crafts. The dinner is open to the public.

The sixth and fifth grade youth of the Bittinger Lutheran Parish will be going on a hike. They will meet at the beginning of the Monroe Hiking Trail off New Germany Road this Saturday, Nov. 4, at 10 a.m. Wanda Reynolds will guide them on a 5-mile hike, then will meet at the bottom of the trail for a lunch cookout. Family and friends are invited to meet the group at the bottom of the trail (between noon and 12:30 p.m.) and join the group for lunch. Wear appropriate clothes and shoes and socks, bringing extra shoes and socks (in case you get your feet wet), along with bottled water and trail munchies. Family members: Lunch will be a "covered dish" hot dog roast. Bring hot dogs, buns, and cookout foods to share. Ketchup, mustard, drinks, and paper products will be provided.

A joint Thanksgiving service for the Bittinger Lutheran Parish will be held Tuesday, Nov. 21 at 7 p.m. at Emmanuel. Donations of canned goods and non-perishable food items are being collected for the Bittinger Food Pantry and can be brought to the church prior to or on the evening of the service. Your donations, time, and efforts to help others are appreciated.

Camp Melanchthon is a church camp for collegians (and those in that general age range). Camp will be held January 2-5, 2001, at New Germany State Park. the cost will be $85. the topic is "Mere Christianity: Being An Intentional Christian in a Post-Modern Environment." Call 304-296-5388 for more information.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
ANNAPOLIS, MARYLAND
PROCLAMATION OF THE GOVERNOR OF MARYLAND
DIRECTING THE PUBLICATION OF BALLOT QUESTION TITLES AND BILL SUMMARIES

WHEREAS, at its regular session of 1999, the General Assembly enacted Chapter 119; and

WHEREAS, at its regular session of 2000, the General Assembly enacted Chapters 205, 75, 111, 163, 194 and 202; and

WHEREAS, it is the duty of the Governor, under the State Constitution and Article 33 of the Annotated Code of Maryland to order the publication of the ballot question titles and bill summaries of these Acts of the General Assembly; and

WHEREAS, the publication of the ballot question titles and bill summaries must take place for three weeks immediately preceding the General Election of November 7, 2000, and

WHEREAS, there will be presented on the ballot at that election the following questions for adoption or rejection by the voters:

CHAPTER 119
(Senate Bill 510)

QUESTION NUMBER 1

Constitutional Amendment
Cecil County – Election and Terms of Office for the Board of County Commissioners

Excepts the Board of County Commissioners of Cecil County from the constitutional requirements that all State and County elections be held only in every fourth year on a particular date and that all State and County officers hold four-year terms, in order to allow staggered terms with elections held every second year.

Summary

Amends Section 7 of Article XVII (Quadrennial Elections) of the Constitution of Maryland to exempt all of the members of the Board of County Commissioners of Cecil County from the requirement that county officers who are elected by the voters of the County must run for election or reelection at the same election every four years. The adoption of this Constitutional amendment would allow the General Assembly of Maryland to provide for the election of the five Cecil County commissioners to provide that their terms of office are staggered so that the terms do not all begin at the same time.

CHAPTER 205
(Senate Bill 400)

QUESTION NUMBER 2

Constitutional Amendment
Prince George's County – Property for Redevelopment Purposes

Expressly authorizes the Prince George's County Council to take property immediately upon a finding of immediate need for redevelopment purposes; designates properties eligible for taking as those located between Suitland Federal Center and Silver Hill Road that are also within any two certain designated areas (a revitalization tax district, an enterprise zone, or a priority funding area); requires the Council to pay at the time of taking the appraised fair market value and also to pay any additional amount later awarded by a jury, and requires the Council to offer financial assistance and payments to displaced owners or tenants.

Summary

Amends Section 40A (Eminent Domain) of Article III of the Constitution of Maryland to allow the Prince George's County Council to provide for the immediate "taking" (that is, acquisition) of property by Prince George's County that is located both in the County between the Suitland Federal Center and Silver Hill Road and within two of the following three areas: a revitalization tax district, an enterprise zone, or a priority funding area, but only after the Prince George's County Council:

(1) has made a judgment and a finding that there is an immediate need for the property for redevelopment purposes;

(2) has appointed a real estate appraiser licensed by the State of Maryland to appraise the property to determine its fair market value;

(3) has paid to the owner of the property or into court the fair market value of the property as determined by the appraiser and has assured payment of any additional amount of money that may be later awarded by a jury; and

(4) has promised to the owner-occupant or tenant of the property who is displaced by the County's "taking" of that property to offer, at the very least, assistance and payments for which the owner-occupant or tenant would qualify as a displaced person under the federal law.

CHAPTER 75
(Senate Bill 509)
For Baltimore County Only

QUESTION NUMBER 3

Countywide Referendum
Baltimore County – Neighborhood Renewal Authority

Expressly authorizes Baltimore County to acquire and develop or dispose of property within certain described areas (Essex Middle River Waterfront area, the Yorkway area in Dundalk, and the Liberty Road area) for declared public neighborhood renewal purposes by amending a public local law; designates specific properties eligible for acquisition by eminent domain following the adoption of an implementation plan; requires the County to pay the owner just compensation for property acquired by eminent domain and to offer financial assistance and payments to displaced property owners or tenants; authorizes the County to sell properties acquired by eminent domain only if investment in the property equals or exceeds the purchase price paid by the County; and terminates the granted eminent domain powers on July 1, 2007.

Summary

Petitioned to a referendum of the voters of Baltimore County for their approval or rejection in accordance with Article XVI – The Referendum – of the Constitution of the State of Maryland

Repeals four sections from and adds six sections to the Code of Public Local Laws of Baltimore County to allow the County to:

(1) acquire, by purchase, lease, or gift, land and property within the boundary lines of the Essex-Middle River Waterfront, the Yorkway, and the Liberty Road renewal areas in the County, as set forth in the legislative enactment, for the purpose of residential, commercial, or industrial development or redevelopment of that property;

(2) acquire, by using the power of eminent domain (that is, the right of a government to "take" private land and property for public use, provided that just compensation is paid to the owner of the property), land and properties in the three renewal areas that are listed in the enactment by street address or by map, block, and parcel number for the purpose of residential, commercial, or industrial development or redevelopment;

(3) develop or redevelop land and property in the three renewal areas for residential, commercial, or industrial purposes; and

Adds Section 34–16 to the Code of Public Local Laws of Cecil County to authorize the County to impose by law a development excise tax on new residential units in order to provide funding for the construction of additional or expanded public facilities and other improvements in the County. Any tax imposed by the County under this enactment cannot exceed $3,500 for each new residential unit. A residential unit includes a house, an apartment, a residential condominium, a mobile home, and any other structure used primarily as a dwelling. The money collected by Cecil County from the tax imposed under the authority of this enactment must be deposited by the Board of County Commissioners into a special account. The money in the special account can only be used to pay, in whole or in part, for the costs of the additional or expanded public facilities or other improvements or to pay the debt for which the County becomes responsible if it borrows money to fund the additional or expanded public facilities or other improvements. Before the Cecil County imposes or alters the tax authorized by this enactment, the Board of County Commissioners must:

(1) hold a public hearing on the proposed tax or alteration of the tax and publish notice of the time, date, and subject of the hearing;

(2) ensure that the development tax is imposed on a countywide basis, including within municipal corporations in the County; and

(3) require that the tax be paid at the time a building permit is issued for a new residential unit in Cecil County.

CHAPTER 194
(House Bill 1390)
For Queen Anne's County Only

QUESTIONS A and B

Question A

Question submitted by General Assembly

Board of County Commissioners – Election of County Commissioners Who Reside in Designated Districts

Do you favor altering the method of election of commissioners to the Board of County Commissioners for Queen Anne's County from the current system where the voters of the entire County elect commissioners who reside in any area of Queen Anne's County to a system where the voters of the entire County elect commissioners who reside in designated districts in Queen Anne's County?

Question B

Question submitted by General Assembly

Board of County Commissioners – Number of Commissioners

Do you favor altering the number of commissioners of the Board of County Commissioners for Queen Anne's County from 3 commissioners to 5 commissioners?

Summary

Requires two questions to be placed on the ballot in Queen Anne's County at the November 2000 general election to determine the sense of the voters on two issues. The first question is whether the voters from the entire County should continue to elect candidates for the Board of County Commissioners from any part of the County or should the voters from the entire County elect candidates who reside in designated districts. The second question relates to whether the membership of the Board of County Commissioners of Queen Anne's County should be increased from three to five members. The outcomes of the votes are advisory only.

CHAPTER 202
For Somerset County Only

QUESTION A

Straw Poll

Somerset County High School Consolidation

Are you for or against a proposal for a Consolidated High School?

Summary

Requires that a question be placed on the ballot in Somerset County at the November 2000 general election to determine the sense of the voters on whether to consolidate the two public high schools in Somerset County – Crisfield High School and Washington High School. The outcome of the vote is advisory only.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, PARRIS N. GLENDENING, GOVERNOR OF MARYLAND, by virtue of the power and authority conferred upon me by the Constitution and Election Laws of Maryland, do by this proclamation ORDER that these ballot question titles and bill summaries be published in at least two newspapers in each county where so many may be published, and where not more than one may be published, then in that newspaper, and in three newspapers published in Baltimore City, once a week for three weeks immediately preceding the General Election to be held on November 7, 2000, at which election these ballot questions shall be submitted, in the form prescribed by the General Assembly to the qualified voters of the State for adoption or rejection.

GIVEN Under my Hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland, at the City of Annapolis, this 21st day of August in the Year of Our Lord, Two Thousand.

Federal Program Benefits Local Fire Companies

Three Garrett County volunteer fire companies — Accident, Gorman, and Bloomington — have been awarded federal funding through the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Volunteer Fire Assistance Program. The taxpayer-funded program assists volunteer fire companies in the protection of human life, livestock, wildlife, crops, orchards, farms, or other properties and improvements in rural areas.

Maryland received a total of $18,082.25, which was distributed to 25 volunteer fire companies throughout the state. In the four western counties (Garrett, Allegany, Washington, and Frederick), $8,332.25 was distributed. The funding criteria is based on a point system, with points allocated according to the degree of protection in the company's locality, necessary equipment requirements, the amount of previous funding awarded through the program, and need.

RAM Notes

•The Southern Garrett Athletic Association will hold its fall awards assembly on Sunday, Nov. 19. This event, designed to recognize the athletes involved in fall sports, will be held in the Southern High cafeteria beginning at 6:30 p.m. There is no admission charge, and the public is invited to attend. Please make a note of this date because reminder notices will not be sent this year.

•SHS hosted its first Critical Friends visit from October 29 to November 1. These visitors traveled to SHS from Michigan, Hawaii, Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia, California, and downstate in Maryland. They observed our classes and teachers as they went about the regular school day. They were most interested in our use of technology in the classroom, hands-on projects, and in hearing our own unique perspectives on these and other educational topics.

•Kevin Savage, SHS class of 1993, and Lynn Savage, SHS class of 1991, were guest lecturers in Mr. Mayfield's advanced placement physics class on Monday, Oct. 23. Both of the Savage brothers are members of the U.S. Air Force. Kevin is an electronics munitions maintenance soldier, who repairs missiles and bombs before they are loaded on planes. Lynn is a 1st lieutenant in the Air Force and is an F-16 fighter pilot. He is a graduate of the Air Force Academy and two flying schools.

The brothers used a power point presentation to demonstrate the importance of physics in the flying of fighter planes. They used a CD ROM to show footage of the dropping of munitions in the war in Kosovo. Lynn explained the importance of physics and electronics in the precision bombing that the F-16 can produce. He revealed to the class some of the psychological and physical challenges that he has in flying the F-16.

Lynn explained to the class the importance of the concepts of projectile motion and other different physics topics related to carrying out his missions. He showed a videotape of some of the actual target bombing that he performed during his pilot training. Both brothers then answered questions from the class.

•The student body of SHS, under the leadership of Ms. Lou Ann Watson and Mr. Dave Bender, took part in an e-vote project during the advisory period on November 2. This project consisted of an ideology survey, a mock voter's registration form, a quiz about the presidential candidates and the issues surrounding the election, and finally, a mock election.

The goals of this project, which was inspired by the character trait of the month — citizenship — were to help the students be comfortable with registering and voting, understand the election process, and learn how to be informed voters. The results of the voting done in each advisory period were logged onto one of three national Internet mock voting sites. The schoolwide results are being tabulated and will be available by Friday, Nov. 3.

•SAT prep classes are being offered after school again this year. Math sessions will be taught by Ms. Carol Slagle, and verbal sessions will be taught by Ms. Heather Miller. All sessions begin at 3:30 p.m. and are open to all students on a first come, first served basis. Class size is limited to 15 per session.

Session 1 is already in progress; session 2 will be December 12 (math) and December 13 (verbal); and session 3 will be February 20 (math) and February 21 (verbal). Sign-up is in the guidance office.

•Report cards go home on November 8.

•The ASVAB test will be given to sophomores on November 14 and 15.

•Parent conferences will be held on November 15, 5-8:30 p.m.

•There is no school on Friday, Nov. 17.

ROTARY DONATES - Grantsville Rotary recently gave a $700 donation to Grantsville Elementary for its "Beautification" program. Creation Science Seminar Set At Mtn. Lake Church

MIKE SCHULTZ

Mountain Lake Independent Baptist Church has slated a free seminar on biblically based creation science and the theory of evolution seminar for this Sunday, Nov. 5, at 9:45 and 10:45 a.m., and 4 and 7 p.m. later in the same day. Additional sessions will take place at 7 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 6 and 7.

Presented by Mike Schultz, a representative of Creation Science Evangelism, the seminar is designed "to give people a better understanding of the creation-evolution conflict and provide answers to some of the questions in this vital subject," said Rev. Dennis Leatherman, pastor of the Mountain Lake Independent Baptist Church.

"All over America, concerned parents have removed their children from the public school system to place them in private schools or to teach them at home. Discerning parents know that evolution is a dangerous and unscientific religion that destroys the moral fabric of their children and gives them a false worldview," said Leatherman.

Schultz will be presenting material developed over the last 25 years by Dr. Kent Hovind. Using the latest technology — a video projector and PowerPoint — and nearly 2,700 visuals, the sessions will "provide documented evidence against the unscientific theory of evolution," stated Leatherman, who also noted that Creation Science evangelism has a long-standing offer of $250,000 for persons who present scientific proof for evolution.

There will be "hands-on" displays and a question and answer period after each session. The church is located at 1005 Broadford Road in Oakland, and transportation is provided for all services. Interested persons may call the church at 301-334-3234 or 301-334-4042 for more information.

EVEN THE ARMY DOCTOR, who had seen all manner of the things of war, blanched when he pulled these bullets from Dick Friend's chest pocket following an ambush by North Vietnamese Army soldiers three decades ago. The paper ammo box the 20-year-old Oakland resident had been carrying had been pierced by an enemy bullet, which traveled through two of his M-16 bullets and lodged in a third. Had the enemy bullet not been stopped, or if one of his own bullets had exploded, Friend would not have been able to wield his hunting knife, which he had purchased in Oakland, to foil an NVA attacker about to throw an explosive device into a vehicle filled with American soldiers. The incident of May 21, 1967, earned Friend several medals, including the Distinguished Service Cross (centerpiece of the lucite box shown above), second to only the Medal of Honor in the military's hierarchy of recognitions. Grant Given For "Facelift" Of Oakland Façades

Some of Oakland's most prominent building façades will be getting a facelift soon, as a $100,000 grant has been awarded the Oakland Main Street Program through Garrett County Community Action by the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development's Neighborhood Business Development Program.

"The awarding of this grant and the resulting facelifts to some of our downtown's most notable structures fits in well with the ongoing revitalization plan of our community," said Glenn Tolbert, Oakland's Main Street program manager.

The grant was applied for through Garrett County Community Action, which supplied the non-profit designation for the Oakland Main Street program. Oakland mayor Asa McCain said he was "delighted" about the news of the successful cooperative effort between the two organizations. The mayor said he sees the façade improvement program as "perfectly complementing" his, the town council's, and the Main Street program's ef-

OVER 100 DISCUSS TAYLOR'S PLAN — An emergency meeting of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce took place last Thursday evening, with 100 members showing up to discuss the topic of bi-county tourism. Speaker of the House Casper Taylor has proposed that Garrett and Allegany counties team up on tourism through the formation of a Mountain Maryland promotion committee that would work under the umbrella of Allegany County's designated Heritage Area. Taylor has met with local officials for some time about the idea, as he hopes to introduce legislation at the 2001 General Assembly to combine the counties' tourism efforts. The proposal has prompted a noticeable response from local residents and business owners, with most who spoke at Thursday evening having significant reservations about the idea. While many say they can see the worth of the combined effort, others worry about the loss of Garrett County's autonomy. A five-member committee has been appointed by the commissioners to work with another five-member group from Allegany County in figuring out the problems and investigating the possibilities of working out an agreement that satisfies both counties. Ken Wishnick, president of the chamber, reports on the meeting in this issue's Chamber Update, found in this section. An in-depth article about the proposed legislation and the stances of several local officials will appear in an upcoming issue of The Republican.

Clarification Noted To Child Abduction Case

The news report of disposition of the recent court case that stemmed from a September incident when Frederick resident Lisa Renee Sweitzer, 33, removed an infant from a Mtn. Lake Park day care facility to her home stands in need of clarification.

Sweitzer was handed a probation before judgment by Garrett County District Court judge Ralph M. Burnett on a misdemeanor charge of "abduction" as defined under Family Law Article 90-304, pertaining to the removal of a child by a relative. The felony charge of "kidnapping" filed by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation was amended by Garrett County state's attorney Lisa Thayer Welch to reflect the misdemeanor charge prior to trial.

The infant has been placed back into the care of her Garrett County foster parents.

Assault, Child Abuse Charges Are Dismissed

A case of alleged assault and child abuse against an Accident man was dismissed in Garrett County Circuit Court last week. Galen "Spud" Resh, 54, was arrested in March by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation (GBI), having been accused of assaulting four young girls. The Department of Social Services had assisted in the investigation, according to a report from the Garrett County state's attorney's office.

"At this time, there is insufficient evidence to prove the defendant guilty beyond a reasonable doubt," said Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney, at last Thursday's proceedings.

In other circuit court news, a Swanton man pleaded guilty to first degree assault. William Henry Cogley, 36, was then sentenced by Judge James Sherbin to four years in jail.

Cogley was arrested in April by GBI officers, accused of first degree assault

CDS, Alcohol Charges Filed By State Police

A traffic stop on I-68 last Friday led to the arrest of three Martinsburg, W.Va. men on charges that include drug and alcohol violations.

Tfc. J. LeMay from the McHenry barrack of Maryland State Police reported that he stopped a 1993 Ford Probe which was traveling 88.5 mph in a 65 mph zone.

LeMay said that a subsequent search of the vehicle and occupants revealed a small amount of suspected marijuana, drug paraphernalia, 48 cylinders of nitrous oxide, several large balloons for inhaling nitrous oxide, approximately one case of beer, one fifth of grain alcohol, one gallon of spiced rum, one fraudulent West Virginia license, and one fraudulent Ohio identification card.

The occupants of the car were driver Christopher Williams Gain, 20, and passengers Joshua Paul Alderton, 19, and Jason Dupree Roberts, 18, all of Martinsburg. Charges filed against them were for possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS), possession of CDS paraphernalia, possession of nitrous oxide with intent to distribute for unlawful use, possession of a

Nothing Close About Local Vote For President: Bush Garners 71%

While the country awaits the final outcome of Tuesday's General Election for president of the United States, Garrett County's totals for that top position left nothing to mystery. With a relatively heavy voter turnout of 65%, local residents chose George W. Bush with 71% of the vote, or 7,135 nods, over 26.5% for Al Gore (2,661). These numbers are the unofficial counts, as the absentee ballots will be counted today, according to officials at the Garrett County Board of Election Supervisors.

In the state of Maryland, however, Gore was the victor by 17 percentage points, winning 57% of the vote compared to Bush's 40%. Ellen Sauerbrey, chairperson of the Maryland for Bush campaign, reportedly expected better returns for her candidate.

"We made thousands of calls and did not get the kind of results as we thought," Sauerbrey said to a Capital News Service reporter.

Bush raised more money in Maryland, according to the Federal Election Commission, taking in $1.8 million from the first of the year through Oct. 18, compared to Gore's $1.5 million.

Other presidential nominees and the local (unofficial) votes they received are as follows: Harry Browne, 26; Pat Buchanan, 23; Ralph Nadar, 186; and Howard Phillips, 7.

Paul Sarbanes retained his seat as senator in the statewide vote, although Garrett Countians favored challenger Paul Rappaport, giving him 5,557 votes compared to Sarbanes's 4,020.

Tax Assessment Limit Capped At 5% By County

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners took action on October 31 to formally reduce the cap on the rate of real estate tax for homeowners in Garrett County. This action was taken to help homeowners deal with large assessment increases by the Department of Assessment and Taxation, according to a press release from the commissioners.

Through the Homestead Credit law, every county and municipality in Maryland is required to limit taxable assessment gains to 10% or less each year. The county commissioners can fix the rate between 0% and 10%. The rate was previ-

CHRISTMAS IS COMING, and in the spirit of the holidays, second grade students from Accident Elementary paid a visit to Keller's Christmas Tree Farm on the Accident Bittinger Road near Accident, owned by Rich and Susan Keller. The main purpose of the visit was to choose a tree, which was donated by the Kellers, to be planted at the school and decorated each year by students. In addition to this important task, though, the students were given a tour of the tree farm with explanations of the growing and harvesting process by Sue Keller. Keller also answered questions the students had which illustrated what they have been learning in school about economics, goods and services, and supply and demand. After the tour, students were given green ribbons to tag their favorite tree. The tree with the most ribbons will be planted today, Thurs., Nov. 9, in the school yard by the Kellers. Keller's Christmas Tree Farm will open for the public on Nov. 30 this year. Pictured listening to Sue Keller (far left) are second grade students of Mary Jo Johnson and Lori Otto. Seib Named To Garrett CC Trustees Board

Ruth Seib, general manager and co-owner of Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, has been appointed to the Garrett Community College board of trustees by Governor Parris Glendening, according to an announcement from college president Dr. Steve Herman.

Seib, who has been an adjunct instructor at GCC, holds a bachelor of arts degree with honors in visual arts from Eckerd College, Fla., a Maryland Associate Real Estate Banker's License, and a Graduate Realtors' Institute designation. Her experience in the arts includes service as artist-in-residence at the Arts Center in St. Petersburg, Fla. After moving to Garrett County in 1979, she managed the Echo Marina on Deep Creek Lake for 10 years.

Seib has served in many capacities in her current profession, including as director and past president of the Garrett County Board of Realtors and chair of various committees. She is an at-large director of the Maryland Association of Realtors, and a director of the Garrett County branch of that organization. In 1993 she was named Realtor of the Year. She is also a director of the Garrett Rural Information Cooperative, and an appointee to the Bi-County Tourism Legislation Study Task Force.

Seib's interests also extend to early music and the recorder, and she is a founding member of the Marsh Mountain Consort. She also performs with the Garrett Choral Society, the St. Mark's Lutheran Church choir, and the Autumn Glory Octoberfest Oompah Band. A native of Ohio, Seib and her husband Daniel reside near Oakland with their sons Daniel and Andy.

BOE Announces Monthly Meeting

The Garrett County Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 14, in the board of education meeting room. The board will meet in closed session from 4:10 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. and reconvene in open session immediately thereafter. The public is invited to attend.

The agenda for the meeting includes the review of the 2000 fiscal audit and information on staff development activities. Action will be taken on the Family Life program of studies, text, and supplemental materials. Recognition awards will be presented to several schools for MSPAP achievement.

Correlation Between Animal Cruelty And Human Violence To Be Discussed

"Animal Cruelty/Human Violence — Make the Connection." This is a logo of the Humane Society of the United States, as that organization works to raise awareness on the topic of animal abuse and its relationship to human violence. In conjunction with the national group's efforts, the Garrett County Humane Society will host an open forum on this topic, to be held at Our Town Theatre (OTT) on Tuesday, Nov. 14, at 7 p.m.

The public is invited to join members of the humane society, various social service organizations, law enforcement, clergy, county and local government, and schools in a discussion on the well-documented link between animal cruelty and human violence.

According to information documented by the national humane society, numerous studies have shown that violent offenders in society frequently have childhood and adolescent histories of serious and repeated animal cruelty. The FBI has reportedly recognized this connection since the 1970s, when its analysis of the lives of serial killers suggested most, as children, had killed or tortured animals.

On a more common level, other research has shown consistent patterns of animal cruelty among perpetrators of familiar forms of violence, such as child abuse, spouse abuse, and elder abuse. The American Psychiatric Association has reported that it considers animal cruelty to be a diagnosable symptom of various conduct disorders.

The definition of animal cruelty is varied, although any suffering inflicted on an animal is cause for concern, authorities note. Cruelty can range from neglecting an animal in one's care to maliciously killing it. Most cruelty reported by humane officers is unintentional neglect that can be resolved through education, according to information from the national organization. Intentional cruelty or abuse includes such behavior as knowingly depriving an animal of food, water, shelter, socialization, or veterinary care, or maliciously torturing, maiming, or killing an animal.

The link to domestic violence is of supreme importance, humane society members stress, and is should not go unnoticed. The national humane society has published a number of awareness posters on this issue, with one including the following paragraph:

"Violence is hard to forget. When adults abuse their children, children learn about violence. A child may destroy his stuffed animal. He may hurt the family pet. If a child hurts an animal, someone has probably hurt that child. Report all abuse: You'll be helping the animal and the child. Break the cycle of violence."

For information on this issue, persons may contact the national humane society at 1-888-213-0956. Local persons are also encouraged to attend the forum next week.

"By bringing together various professionals who work with children and families in challenging situations, we hope to begin a dialogue with one another on ways we can address these issues in Garrett County," a humane society member said. For more information about the evening discussion, persons may call Annette Robinson at 301-334-2699 or Gloria Salazar at 301-334-2302.

The forum is one part of a 10-day schedule of activities hosted by the humane society and OTT to promote animal/pet awareness in Garrett County. In addition to next Tuesday's forum, the theatre is currently presenting the play Sylvia, the story about a Manhattan couple and their newly adopted dog (see separate story for details). And at the theatre on Monday, Nov. 13, the humane society will host an evening for children, as volunteer readers from the theatre and the humane society will join children from the Garrett County Head Start centers, among other youngsters, to share animal stories and sing songs. Area children of Head Start age are welcome to attend the event.

Another event will be a local visit by members of the Mountaineer Kennel Club, who will be bringing their trained animals to give agility and obedience demonstrations. See separate story.

Kennel Club To Visit OTT After Play Sunday

Audience members who attend the Sunday 2 p.m. matinee of Our Town Theatre's play Sylvia will be given the opportunity to learn about dog obedience and agility training, as members of the Mountaineer Kennel Club will be giving a demonstration with their pets following the show.

The dogs are trained in obedience and agility, both popular among dog owners nationally, according to a Garrett County Humane Society spokesperson. The training provides a strengthened bond between the dog and handler, the spokesperson said, and also provides exercise and recreation for both.

Dog agility is the fast-paced sport in which the animal runs through an obstacle course as commanded by its handler. The courses, ranging in difficulty from "beginners" to "masters," include jumps, tunnels, contact obstacles, and weave poles. It is a competitive sport, with points detracted for missed obstacles or exceeded time limits.

Obedience trials also range in difficulty and require a high degree of understanding between the animal and owner, the spokesperson explained.

The presentation on Sunday is part of a 10-day promotion of the humane society to raise awareness about pet ownership. See separate stories.

For more information about the dog performance and the play, persons may call Our Town Theatre at 301-334-5640 or Annette Robinson at 301-334-2699.

BUYING A BRICK, SUPPORTING THE LIBRARY - Contributing to the reNEW Grantsville Library building fund, Marcia Simmers recently purchased a brick in honor of Maryland Mountain Trust. Executive director of the non-profit land trust, Simmers noted that the new library will provide a much needed resource in the rural community. Accepting the $100 donation from Simmers is reNEW committee member Jack Caruthers.

Tickets Remain For Our Town Theatre's Sylvia

Tickets are still available for Our Town Theatre's production of Sylvia, a play written by A.R. Gurney. The show is a comedy about a couple in New York City who adopt a dog and learn to deal with this new addition to their family.

Jane Avery, director, said there are tickets left for this Friday evening's show at 8 p.m., and for the Sunday, Nov. 12, matinee at 2 p.m. Tickets are also still available for next week's performances, slated for Nov. 15-18 at 8 p.m. each evening, and Nov. 19 at 2 p.m.

A family-oriented production (for adults and children over the age of 10), this show will feature actors Tom Peterson, Matty Raye, Carol Peracchio, Chelsea Stuck, Thea Ayre, and Matt Eary.

After the matinee on Sunday, Nov. 12, the theatre will host a visit from members of the Mountaineer Kennel Club, who will demonstrate various dog obedience and agility training techniques. The event is in conjunction with the Garrett County Humane Society's "animal awareness" observance, taking place from Nov. 8 through Nov. 19. A variety of activities is slated to help raise awareness about caring for animals, as well as the documented link of animal violence to human violence. (See separate story.)

For reservations to the show, persons should call the theatre at 301-334-5640. Tickets are $5 each.

Assault Charges Filed Against Oakland Woman

Kimberly Jane Dillon, 39, Oakland, was arrested by Oakland City Police last Wednesday at 11:30 p.m. According to Pfc. S. Fratz, he responded to call concerning a disorderly subject at an Oakland retail business. Fratz said that when he arrived on the scene he saw Dillon with an alcoholic drink and informed her that she could not drink alcohol in public and should pour out the drink. After Fratz allegedly repeated this request several times, Dillon threw the drink on him, he said.

Dillon was placed under arrest and charged with second degree assault, disorderly conduct, and consuming an alcoholic beverage in a retail establishment.

The Republican Now Published With Soy Ink

In an effort to reduce ink "rub-off" and to produce a more environmentally safe product, Sincell Publishing Company now prints The Republican newspaper with soy ink. The ink has been used for several months and has proven successful, according to Don Sincell, editor of the paper and co-owner of the company.

"We had complaints over the years about the petroleum-based ink we used to use because it rubbed off so easily. And we know that the soy ink is much better for the environment. So far, we've been very pleased with it," Sincell said.

The addition of the soy ink augmented the company's already environmentally conscious practices of recycling the paper waste. The newsprint used for the newspaper is at least 50% recycled, and any returned newspapers or waste paper are sent for recycling. No newsprint is sent to the landfill.

"We firmly believe that everyone should be responsible with waste and try to recycle as much as possible. A business like a newspaper company obviously can generate a lot of paper waste, so we're doing our best to be careful with its disposal," Sincell said.

PARENTS WALK KIDS TO SCHOOL - The recent mild autumn weather provided extra incentive for parents of children at two Garrett County schools to take part in the National Walk Our Children to School Day. Brenda Frazee and Nancy Brady, outreach workers from the Garrett County Health Department, coordinated community members in Kitzmiller and Friendsville to join in the walk. "These walks promote physical activity, concern for the environment, awareness of how 'walkable' a community is, and how improvements might be made," said Frazee. In the photo are Friendsville Elementary School students and parents as they enjoy the early morning trek to school.

Oakland Man Charged After Sunday Assault

An Oakland man faces an assault charge filed by Garrett County sheriff's deputies after a Sunday evening domestic altercation near Crellin.

Keith Allen Chapman, 33, was not on the scene when deputies arrived at the Crellin Mine Road residence where the assault reportedly took place at 5:15 p.m. He had reportedly been to the residence shortly beforehand, in violation of an active protective order, and allegedly struck and choked Brenda Kaye Chapman.

Located a short time later in Oakland, Keith Chapman reportedly admitted to being at the residence and was arrested on charges of second degree assault and violation of a protective order. Oakland city police officers assisted sheriff's deputies in making the arrest.

Chapman is being held in the Garrett County Detention Center on a $50,000 bond as set by a district court commissioner.

In other sheriff's news, an Oakland man was arrested for disturbing the peace early Tuesday morning, and was also served with an arrest warrant dating back to 1982 involving charges of drug possession and sexual offense.

William Harry Madigan, 40, was reportedly playing music loudly in his Lewis Naylor Drive apartment, when deputies asked him to turn down the volume at 12:30 a.m. He initially complied, but shortly afterward turned up the volume again. When a second request was made, the reportedly intoxicated Madigan grew verbally abusive and was taken into custody. He was released after posting a $1,000 bond. Details concerning the 1982 arrest warrant were not available.

Four Arrested For Detonating Explosive Device

Oakland Police arrested Joshua Matthew Rodeheaver, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, Darwin Harold Dimick, 19, Oakland, and two juveniles following an explosion on Monday, Oct. 30, at 9 p.m. in the parking lot of the Burger King restaurant.

Investigating officer Cpl. E. Alexander stated that the manager of the Oakland restaurant reported that the explosive device was detonated in the parking lot as he passed within about 10 feet of it. The manager noted the tag number of the suspect vehicle.

The subsequent investigation led to the arrest of the four suspects, who face charges of manufacturing an explosive device, possession of an explosive device, reckless endangerment, first degree assault, and second degree assault. Though the incident occurred during business hours, no injuries or property damage was reported.

The two adult suspects were incarcerated on $25,000 bond, and the two juveniles were released to the custody of their parents.

Tuesday Mishap Injures Four On Maryland Hwy.

Four persons were injured when two vehicles collided in Mtn. Lake Park Tuesday night, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. Three of the victims remain hospitalized, while a fourth was treated and released the same evening.

Shortly after 9:30 p.m., a 1993 Jeep Cherokee driven by Helen Wright Wheeler, 61, Oakland, was traveling northbound on G Street when it reportedly failed to stop at the intersection with Maryland Highway and entered the main roadway. Her vehicle struck the side of a 1994 Chevrolet Blazer, operated by Helen Jane Gibson, 47, Terra Alta, W.Va., which was traveling west on Maryland Highway.

Gibson and her three passengers, Sue Kisner, 95, Lucille Wolf, 81, and Juanita Pase, 71, each sustained injuries and were subsequently transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad. Pase was subsequently transported to Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va., by ambulance, where she remains hospitalized in "good" condition. Kisner is hospitalized in GCMH's Intensive Care Unit in "guarded but stable condition," and Wolf remains in GCMH, where she is listed in "fair" condition. Gibson was treated and released from the local hospital the night of the accident.

Charges are pending, according to the sheriff's office.

A Friday morning single-vehicle accident injured a truck driver along National Highway in northwestern Garrett County, sheriff's deputies said.

Thomas Lee Hill, 52, Apollo, who was transported by the Northern Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released, was charged in the 5:45 a.m. accident. Hill was hauling a load of dry cement to the Deep Creek Lake area, when he lost control of his 1996 Volvo tractor along eastbound National Highway just east of the Pennsylvania state line.

The rig went into a ditch and turned onto its side, and it took two towing companies four hours to remove the vehicle from the roadside. Hill was charged with failure to give full time and attention to his driving.

Terra Alta Man Arrested After Vehicle Pursuit

Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested David Scott Meier, 21, Terra Alta, W.Va., on numerous traffic-related offenses after a Saturday night vehicle pursuit that covered nearly four miles. Speeds during the chase reportedly exceeded 100 miles per hour along Hutton Road.

At approximately 11 p.m. Saturday night, DFC Robbie Zimmerman was traveling east on Route 39 approaching Gank Road, when two oncoming vehicles approached in the westbound lane. The rear vehicle in the westbound lane reportedly began to pass the lead vehicle in a no-passing zone, putting the deputy at risk of a head-on collision.

The police cruiser managed to avoid the vehicle in his lane, and swung around to begin a pursuit. The vehicle did not stop, and continued west at a high rate of speed, crossing the centerline several times. The chase continued on into West Virginia on Route 7, and in Corinth turned onto a dirt road, then onto a hardtop road near the town's Post Office, before running off the roadway into a ditch.

As the deputy pulled up he observed a male exiting the driver's side of the vehicle and run into a wooded area nearby. With a Historic Times...

History is literally unfolding before our eyes this week, as never before in our nation's nearly 225 years of existence has the winner of a presidential election been so up in the air. We have had extremely close elections before, we have had presidential elections that could not be determined for several weeks because of the closeness of the vote, and we have had presidents elected with fewer popular votes, but more electoral votes, than their opponents. But we have never had a situation where we have extreme closeness in the vote coupled with the possibility of illegal ballots and voter irregularities in the very state (Florida) that will determine which of the two major candidates will ultimately win the presidency.

Just how this will be resolved, and when, is a huge mystery. If the courts are involved, which is quite likely, it could be dragged out for months. Already individual voters in Florida have begun filing suits against the election board for producing ballots that are at least confusing and, at worst, illegal. When one sees a heavy Jewish vote for Pat Buchanan, one knows something has gone terribly awry.

The courts, which are always hesitant to jump into the political arena, may just throw out these cases on the basis that Florida voters, just like the rest of us, received sample ballots, giving them an opportunity to study the ballot and know exactly how to mark it according to the voter's wishes. To those who made a mistake, too bad. They should have done their homework better.

However, if the ballots are indeed illegal, if they are in clear violation of Florida state law, we don't see how the courts can simply dismiss these complaints.

Should there be a new ballot and a second election just in Florida? If so, would the campaigning resume there in the few days preceding such an election? Would such an election be open only to those residents who voted in this past Tuesday's election? Wouldn't that place the election of our president entirely in the hands of just Florida voters, a grossly unfair situation for the other 49 states, D.C., and U.S. possessions?

There are many questions right now and few answers. Frankly, the whole matter is rather unnerving, but for those who enjoy living in historic times, it's hog heaven at this very moment. Consider also the fact that for the first time in our nation's history a "sitting" First Lady and a dead man have been elected to the U.S. Senate.

This historic run will continue until the moment either Al Gore or George Bush raises his hand to take the presidential oath. Stay tuned.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

This Monday, Southern's football team and student body found out that they would not be having a pep rally or bonfire in preparation for the Northern Huskies' arrival in town on Friday. (For those of you who are "Ram transplants," the Northern/Southern rivalry is a great one.)

Why? Where's the Ram spirit? Have these boys not earned our respect and pride? Has our football team not given us a wonderful season? The "fan predictors" were giving our boys in red a 2-8 season. They're 5-4, playing against teams twice their size, both in bulk and numbers. No one could have blamed them for a losing season, but they wouldn't accept that. They've practiced long hours, ignored injuries, beaten the odds, and asked for nothing in return. Why? Because they love football! They love being part of a team. They've given this town a true example of what "team" means, working as one and giving the fans a wild ride in the process.

Now, due to lack of interest (on whose part, we're not sure), we cannot celebrate their success with a pep rally or bonfire. This was a cheerleading responsibility when I went to school. Things have changed, I guess.

However, let's not accept this! Let's show the Rams we're part of their team by decorating the town in red and white. Come to the tailgate party at 5:00 in the football field parking lot (bring a covered dish). Then stay for the game at 7:30, with noise makers and team spirit in tow. Let's give them fan support like nothing this town has ever seen! Let's make this last game of the season one they'll never forget, because a great game from them is an absolute guarantee!

See you at the game!

To the Editor:

Well, it happened again today. I encountered one of those narrow-minded (make that close-minded) individuals who have big mouths, but very little factual information to back what they say. I calmly tried to explain to the individual that what he was saying was simply not true. We never got to the point where I could show him documentation that would refute what he said because he went into a tirade about "you people come up here and think you know everything and want to just tell us what to do" and "why don't you go back where you came from?" and more of that kind of thing.

I have met many Garrett Countians, and the vast majority are courteous, friendly people, but there are a few stupid people like this person who are giving Garrett County a bad name. I can't tell you how many times that I have heard comments from visitors to the county, as well as those who have moved to the county, concerning this very ignorant attitude that some people have.

That ignorance stems from their being uninformed. Usually these people will also make comments about the awful changes that have taken place over the years presumably because of "the newcomers." They fail to recognize that most if not all of those changes resulted from actions of their own "native sons," the Adventure Sports boondoggle being a prime example. I suspect that deep down they feel frustrated and have to take it out on somebody, but don't have the guts to stand up to the real culprits in the county.

I have lived my entire life in the state of Maryland, and nobody is going to tell me which part of the state I can live in. I have many friends in this county, and I will not be intimidated by a few pitiful people whose only answer to every issue is: "I was here first."

George Falter Jr.

P.S. To all of my friends in the county, I say thanks for all of your kindnesses; to those others I say, "get a life!"

To the Editor:

How could 40 states in the United States afford to lose millions of dollars? Congress provided 4.2 billion dollars in allotment funds to states for children living in low income families; 1.9 billion was unspent. These states had poor excuses for not using their full allotments. There are no legitimate reasons why these children should suffer. States should spend the funds for the children.

I, being a student at GCC attending Terry Kasecamp's sociology class, have learned within a few short months that children in the United States are dying each and every day. According to James E. Henslin, author of our book Essentials of Sociology, most children live at poverty levels and some also learn to live with discrimination as well as racism. Allotment funds could solve these problems. Children would get medical care they need and deserve.

Sociologists Dennis Gilbert and Joseph Kahl (1993; Gilbert 1997) have developed a 6 class model structure of the United States. The Capitalists class, the wealthiest, who make up 1% of our population, need not worry about the millions in child health funds going unspent. However, the lower middle class, working class, working poor, and the under-class are in desperate need of these allotment funds. The poverty-stricken people without a high school diploma can receive only a minimum paying job at $10,712 annually before deductions. If these people can barely afford their own everyday-life expenditures, how can they be expected to pay hundreds of dollars each month for health care for their children, much less themselves? The answer is that they simply cannot; therefore, the funding should go to all families, especially those in poverty.

"So what can we do as a community?" we may be thinking. We elect senators for our states to represent us in Congress. All we simply need to do is write a letter to our senators to make the unused funding a national matter and make sure that these poor children receive benefits well needed. Teachers say that the children of today will become the leaders of tomorrow. Should we not take care of the children who one day will be taking care of us?

Sincerely,
Kathy Curry

To the Editor:

My daughter first met "Bastion" as she was sitting around a campfire in a well-populated, affluent neighborhood. He was starving, scared, and limping. He had been hanging around for a couple of weeks, but nobody fed him — he wasn't their dog. She fed him graham crackers that night after spending much time coaxing him to come near.

A week passed and still no one took pity on this starving and injured dog. My daughter used her own money to buy a bag of dog food for him. Another week passed and the residents decided to take him to the animal shelter — nobody wanted him. My daughter brought him home and nursed his injured leg. He became devoted to her. He lost his limp and became a beautiful, shiny, mostly black Labrador.

I told her we just couldn't keep him; we already had two dogs and were living on a subsistence budget. Sadly, her little dog of 10 years died. She was so broken-hearted that I couldn't bear to tell her that she had to give up Bastion too. After that he slept in her bed every night. He became the most loving, gentle dog — almost as if he knew he owed a debt of gratitude to her. She used her own money to pay for his shots and vet check-up.

One night I accidentally let him out with my dog and they went for a jaunt. The next morning only my dog came back. We called our neighbors, we scoured the roads in our area, but we couldn't find him. We knew he wouldn't run away. He didn't. He was shot. He died trying to come home to the girl who loved him. An innocent beautiful animal was killed simply because it was easy to pull a trigger. It was hunting season — Was this a sport, was it fun, was it target practice for a drunken hunter?

It's been two years now. I wanted to write Bastion's story before this, but it was too painful. Even now I want to cry for that loving, beautiful dog. I want to cry for my daughter, who had already endured more losses in her life than most adults twice her age. We taught him to trust people — Must I think we did a cruel thing?

It is animal awareness week in Garrett County. It is also hunting season. I want to enter a plea. When you see an animal running loose, be it hunting season, be it in a town neighborhood, don't pull that trigger; don't leave him to starve. Think of the family who might have invested a lot of love in that animal. There are people who care. Contact the Garrett County Humane Society or the Garrett County Animal Shelter.

THE LAST TOMATO

We ate the last tomato the other night in a salad that accompanied spaghetti with tomato sauce. The tomato sauce was made from tomatoes canned from the garden only a few weeks ago, but I did not do the canning. The house has been getting all of my spare time and, much of my time that was not spare. Grandma kindly canned tomatoes for me. Opening a jar of them reminds me of her.

In other years I have had a box of green tomatoes, wrapped in newspapers, which have sometimes lasted until Christmas. This year I had good tomatoes, but they ran out of steam about the time of the first frost. I brought into the house as many green tomatoes as I could gather in buckets, and have been eating them ever since.

This time of year is given to lots of last things. There is the last mowing of the yard, the last gathering of the leaves, the last of outdoor painting, the bringing in of lawn furniture, the putting away of screen doors, the replacement of screens with storm windows.

Farmers are getting in the last corn, and are steadily working away at harvesting soybeans. A few farmers are even chopping one last cutting of alfalfa. Nature's clock is ticking. We have an accurate awareness that time is running out, and that certain things must be done now or that they may never be done.

One of the tasks which I have performed this past week was to feed my bees a sugar syrup laced with an antibiotic. Beekeeping has become an increasingly precarious enterprise over the past decade. There are two types of mite which will destroy a bee colony through their parasitism. There are various diseases which have become more rampant.

Overall the state of honeybees is one of constant debilitation. A few winters ago half of all the honey bees in the state of Maryland died. Hardly a whimper was heard in the press. One can imagine the kind of alarm which would be sounded if half the cows or horses should die in one winter.

People think of honeybees as things that sting. A yellow jacket or wasp is much more likely to sting a person than the relatively gentle honeybee. What people forget is that the work of pollination is undertaken very substantially by honeybees. Without them the production of fruit and vegetable crops would decline precipitously.

Even when management is good there can be fluke circumstances which will decimate the bee yard. Last winter was one such occasion when hives were lost through such flukes. I cannot boast to being among the good beekeepers. I did lose my hives. This year I replaced them with a new box of bees. We then had the worst honeyflow in memory. One of my neighbors who is a highly skilled beekeeper had one quarter of his usual honey crop this year.

In order to keep hives going until springtime, beekeepers will have to feed their hives sugar syrup all winter long. Last Friday in the warm sunshine of Indian summer I went, veiled and gloved, to my one hive. I put on two quarts of medicated syrup, and inspected the condition of the hive.

The bees looked well, but the hive was all but empty of honey. Without the syrup they would not have survived Christmas.

One by one I accomplish the last things. The warm afternoons are fewer and fewer, and the length of them shorter and shorter. Like many good things in decline the sweetness of them intensifies.

That last tomato was not as good as the first one of the summer past. It was nothing like the bounty of tomatoes when there were more than could be eaten, put by, or given away. I delighted in it because for more than half a year to come there shall not be another. Thus shall my puritan revels continue until cold weather comes on hard.

forts at revitalizing the community.

"This is definitely good news for our downtown, and it fits in well with the ongoing sidewalk improvements, the work being done by the Historical Society at Daily Park, and other efforts we have been making at fixing up the town," McCain said. "With the train station ren-ovated and now with façade improvement on some of the more prominent buildings in town about to take place, things are really working out nicely."

Eight owners of buildings responded to the publicity seeking applicants for the grant. Building owners have to match the grant by paying half the cost of alterations to their structures' façades. Some will also face certain stipulations set forth by the Maryland Historic Trust.

The buildings involved in the project include The Republican newspaper office at 108 South Second Street, Our Town Theatre at 121 Center Street, Robert Watson's property at 300 East Alder Street, Trackside Restaurant at 308 South Second Street, the Garrett County Historical Society Museum at 107 South Second Street, Grand Central Station at 312 South Third Street, Englander's at 205 East Alder Street, and Marvin's Men's Wear at 200 East Alder Street.

Garrett County Chamber of Commerce UPDATE

By Ken Wishnick, President

Last week, our Chamber's board of directors chairman, Jerry Geisler, called an urgent general membership meeting to discuss the bi-county legislation proposed by House Speaker Cas Taylor. The meeting drew approximately 100 people.

Chairman Geisler explained the details of the proposal and how Garrett County would be impacted. He was joined up front by Bob Browning of Deep Creek Outfitters, Rol Palmer of the Wisp Hotel, Nancy Railey of Railey Mountain Lake Vacations, and Ruth Seib of Coldwell Banker. Together, these five individuals have been named by the commissioners to serve as Garrett County's representatives to a bi-county negotiating team attempting to resolve problems in the proposed legislation.

The following needed changes to the legislative proposal emerged from the meeting:

DON'T RUSH THE PROCESS

The legislation should not be introduced until there is enough time spent on research and review. If this cannot be done by January 1, then the legislation should be held until next year. The chamber membership requests an additional meeting to review the legislation prior to it being introduced.

MISSION LIMITED TO CULTURAL HERITAGE PROJECT DEVELOPMENT

The bi-county authority should focus all its resources on "bricks and mortar" development of cultural heritage projects.

APPOINTMENTS TO THE AUTHORITY MUST BE DECIDED LOCALLY

Having the governor appoint Garrett County representatives to the expanded Canal Place Authority is not acceptable.

AUTHORITY MUST HAVE EQUAL REPRESENTATION

Both counties must have the same number of votes.

ADVANCE AGREEMENT ON FUNDING DISTRIBUTION

The legislation should require a provision calling for the fair distribution of grant funds between the two counties.

SUNSET AGREEMENT SHOULD BE IN LEGISLATION

There should be a provision that ends the bi-county authority after a fixed number of years unless it is renewed by legislative action.

TOURISM MARKETING RESPONSIBILITIES TO REMAIN UNCHANGED

The marketing of tourism attractors, including cultural heritage, should remain with the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

ACCOMMODATIONS TAXES/GRANTS TO REMAIN AT CHAMBER

The bi-county legislation must not divert any financial resources for tourism marketing (including state grants) from the chamber or curtail any current chamber tourism promotion function.

STREAMLINE TOURISM MARKETING DECISION-MAKING IN ALLEGANY CO.

Allegany County is requested to combine its tourism marketing entities as a prerequisite to joint cooperative efforts with the Garrett County Chamber.

VOLUNTARY BI-COUNTY TOURISM PROMOTION

Joint Allegany/Garrett efforts to promote tourism should be on a voluntary cooperative basis. Each project should be reviewed on a case-by-case basis to ensure that both counties see a benefit.

The Garrett County contingency will be meeting with its Allegany County counterparts on November 15.

Chamber members made it clear at the membership meeting that the future of this proposal is of great concern. Everyone is urged to continue to be involved in the process through communications with their county commissioners, state senator and delegate, and through the five individuals designated to negotiate on their behalf.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

The Sussman family had a birthday celebration for me on Sunday, Nov. 5. It was one day before my actual birthday due to the competition schedule on Monday, especially since Caitlin headed down to Virginia for a two-day retreat for Bittinger Lutheran Parish confirmation students. As a result she must miss not only my birthday, but also her soccer team's, (North Side FC) annual championship dinner and awards. Their soccer team last week won their final game for the Under 15-squad champions. They defeated the Jammers, a team that Caity's team had many serious games with over the past years. Max Beitzel, Matthew Bass, Scott Pusateri, and Caitlin from the Bittinger area turned up on top this time. Our new neighbor and my kids' buddy, Greta Avis, will pick up Caity's trophy for her. They were sponsored by Railey Mt. Lake Vacations, coached by Dale Curtis.

Caitlin certainly grew a lot in her soccer skills in the few years she has played, and she already has quite a few trophies for soccer. My three girls already have piled up quite a collection of soccer trophies, even faster than my sister Carol and I piled up for our horse riding. But they still have a long way to catch up with us. I imagine we still have around here hundreds of horse trophies. What can I do with them? I am inclined to donate them to the county 4-H program or to the Garrett County Fair. If someone would switch the tops and replace the brass name plates, they would be good enough for any sports activities.

Well, here it is my birthday. As Paul Simon once wrote in "Still Crazy After All These Years," "I hang another year on the line. What the heck?" Guess how old I am. The first presidential election that I can remember was when Kennedy squeaked by Nixon. I will soon be having my 30th high school class reunion. When our 15th was held, I was pregnant with my oldest daughter, and she is now a freshman at Northern High School. Sally Poholsky knows how old I am since I am just one year older than she. Sally's son Torrey signed a "Happy Birthday" card for me with my exact age.

Let's see, what other clue can I give you? How about that I am one year younger than my brother Rodney and Cindy Stanton. We are still on the right side of the 50's.

I know I packed a whole bunch of living in my years. I pursued six widely different careers, including teaching, theatre, equestrian, writing, art, and a few other odds and ends jobs. I traveled in at least nine countries, including the U.S.A. I lived in at least four states. I still have close friends, who were close friends in the first grade. Steve Schlosnagle, Linda Bowman Neidelberger and I started to school together at Accident Elementary School and attended Northern High School and the University of Maryland, College Park, where we graduated together in 1975. We still maintain close contact. Linda ran up from Capon Bridge, W.Va., for a quick visit a few weeks ago. They are joined by a whole bunch of various diverse characters as close friends of mine.

I met many high-flying celebrities, including Jackie Onassis, a gold medal winner, Angela Lansbury, Paul Simon, and a bunch of heavyweight Broadway personalities, who are not widely known this far off Broadway. I voted in seven presidential elections. I voted for the winner just about half of the times. Tomorrow it looks like it is too close to call. I have always admired Ralph Nader, but he is messed up now. He belongs in the private sector, especially since he has a perfectly good candidate who has excellent credentials in his big issue, the environment, who is Gore. I was really impressed by Gore's book about the environment. I can't understand what Nadar thinks he can accomplish positive for his cause.

During my immediate family's celebration of my birthday on Sunday evening, we got a surprise visit from an old friend of Lloyd and me, Joe Howe of New Germany area, who brought his new family recently imported from Melbourne, Australia, his second wife Andrea and her two daughters, Sirobhan and Sarah Wilcock. Sirobhan is in the same class at Northern Middie School as our daughter Caitlin. Sarah is the same age as Meredith, but she attends Grantsville Elementary School. Meredith and she plan to get better acquainted.

A nasty cold-type virus ripped through my kids and their nearby playmates, namely, a couple of the Glotfelty kids, and also hit the Diehlmans' household. My nose is pretty stuffy today too.

Lesa Whittemore's knee is just somewhat worse after her big marathon run. By the way, I reversed the whitewater injuries last week. It was Mike Hall who hurt his knee and Walter Haydel who hurt his shoulders. His wife Sue said he can't even sleep on his side. It is hard to tell which is the worse injury for a cross country skiing fan.

Here is a bold prediction, based on nothing except a gut feeling, that we get our first major snowfall on December 13. That would be my little brother Scott's 40th birthday, if he were still alive. He was too young to go to Northern at the same time as when I was there. That's the last clue. No, there is one more — I was born on the 49th birthday of Margaret Hershberger's father, Lawrence Brenneman.

Just now I got a birthday visit and gift from my former office mate at GCC, who is one year older than I. She can remember a saying from the 1956 election, "Ike is in the White House waiting for election, Stevenson is in the garbage can waiting for collection." She also saw Kennedy during the '60s election when he took a campaign swing to Baltimore suburbs in a convertible down at the end of her street. It is always a delight to talk to Beth about politics since we are twin souls about it. She reminds me of a humorus slogan from the 1968 Chicago convention, "Vote early, and often."

Lesa Whittemore always remembers my birthday, and we went out for lunch last Friday, since she couldn't do it today.

The Northern Band had a victorious competition victory at Frankfort last week, where they scored the highest score yet at Northern High School. They are on to the big regional competition in Scranton, Pa., this Sunday. Marci and Rodney Glotfelty plan to make that long trip. Both Robbie and Claire are very serious about those band contests. They are currently busy selling pizzas to help raise funds for their trip to Las Vegas in March next year. That sounds like a very expensive trip, so let's hope they will sell plenty of pizzas.

Now here is an interesting birthday item. My brother-in-law, Kevin Bass, is also celebrating his birthday. He was born in Japan on November 7, but back in the U.S.A. it was November 6. He never really knows when his birthday actually is. Most of the time we celebrate on November 7. It is possible that we may have a combination dinner cooked by his wife Carol on Tuesday evening.

In the Bittinger Lutheran Parish a bunch of adorable babies will join the congregations by baptism soon. Brody Douglas, son of Kim and Doug Collins, will be baptized on November 26, and at St. John's, Bob and Michelle O'Brien's son, Luke Thomas, will be baptized on December 3, and also Robert and Kendra Grove's daughter Tiffany, on November 19. Justin Kyle Peck, at St. John's, received the rite of baptism on Sunday. St. John's altar flowers were given to the glory of God in honor of Justin's baptism by his grandparents, Bob and Carol Peck, and Russell Klotz.

An item just in: Clinton Maust, son of Kenneth Maust, has a litter of baby hamsters to give away. Call Clinton at 746-8534 if you could take one of these hamsters. If he can't find homes for them, they may be destined to go to the pet store for snake food. Pretty gruesome, isn't it!

During the Advent Season, the Bittinger Lutheran Parish will join with the Accident Parish on Wednesday evening each week for a service of prayer and healing, beginning Nov. 29. Plan to spend your holiday preparation time focusing on the true "reason for the season."

A joint parish Thanksgiving service will be held Tuesday, Nov. 21, at 7 p.m. at Emmanuel. Donations of canned goods and non-perishable food items are being collected for the Bittinger Food Pantry and can be brought to the church prior to or on the evening of the service. Your donations, time, and effort to help others are appreciated.

The youth from Glade Church are hosting a Christmas musical and inviting musically inclined middle and high school students (or anyone who is still young at heart) from the community to join them in presenting a non-typical energetic program. For details contact Chester Yoder at 301-746-8727 or Glade Church at 301-245-4285.

Ferne Beachy, Lottie Brenneman, Mary Simpson, and Linda Buckel from Emmanuel Lutheran Church Women attended the WELCA Fall Retreat at Jacksons Mill, W.Va., over the weekend.

The family of Lottie Brenneman attended a crab feast at the home of Lana and Larry Roby on Friday night.

Ashlin Gray, Hanover, spent several days last week with relatives in the area. Other guests of Julius and Karmen Carey Saturday evening at their home near Frostburg for pizza and dessert were Dwaine, Lisa, Adam, and Amanda Platter, Smithsburg; Jodi Platter, Grantsville; William and Linda Oester, Salisbury, Pa., and Jim and Donna Glotfelty.

Sunday dinner guests at the home of Ida Reckner were Linda Oester, Salisbury, Pa., Charee Reckner and Michaele Puliti, McHenry; Dwaine, Lisa, Adam, and Amanda Platter, Smithsburg; Jodi Platter, Grantsville; and Jim, Donna, Cheryl and Tim Glotfelty.

STUDENTS LEARN PREVENTION — Red Ribbon Drug Prevention activities were in full swing during Red Ribbon Week recently, and third grade students and staff at Dennett Road School were given the chance to see how badly vision and coordination can become impaired through a "fatal vision" goggles demonstration. The goggles are a safe way to simulate how dangerous it would be to take drugs or alcohol. Outreach workers Michael Gibbons and Sharon Custer from the Garrett County Health Department also provided additional education and stressed the importance of keeping one's body and mind drug and alcohol free. "This works really nice because we have a variety of fun activities for kids to participate in, plus they pledge to stay drug free and healthy," Gibbons said. Pictured here is Dennett Road substitute teacher Mary Ann Murphy trying to walk the police line with the fatal vision goggles on, as Gibbons and students look on.

BANK DONATES TO LIBRARY - Jason Rush, community service officer of the Grantsville branch of First United Bank, recently presented a check to Sheila Miller, chair of the reNEW Committee for the Grantsville Library. The check represented the proceeds of the Community Helper CD, offered at the Grantsville branch.

In Loving Memory of

DeReck Adam DeWitt

1982-1999

A year has passed, and we continue to struggle with our loss. Our son and our friend, DeReck Adam DeWitt, died on November 13, 1999, in a senseless accident. Every day is a challenge for us as we try to move forward, forging ahead from that horrible moment in our lives. But we remember him every hour, and we hope all those who loved him do, too. He lives on in our hearts and our memories — his quick smile, his sense of humor, his love for his mom and family.

Take a moment to remember DeReck — his ability in auto mechanics, his dream of being a graduate with the Southern High School class of 2000, his devotion to Rusty Wallace. He was a precious part of our lives and we will never stop missing him. But because of an accident with a gun, he's gone.

In honor of DeReck, please remember to take guns seriously. They are not toys. They are deadly, and they take loved ones every single day. No one should have to endure the pain we have suffered. Be wise, be careful, be smart.

And remember DeReck.

Emmanuel Holds Dedication And Installation Serv.

A service of dedication and installation was held recently at Emmanuel Lutheran Church in Bittinger.

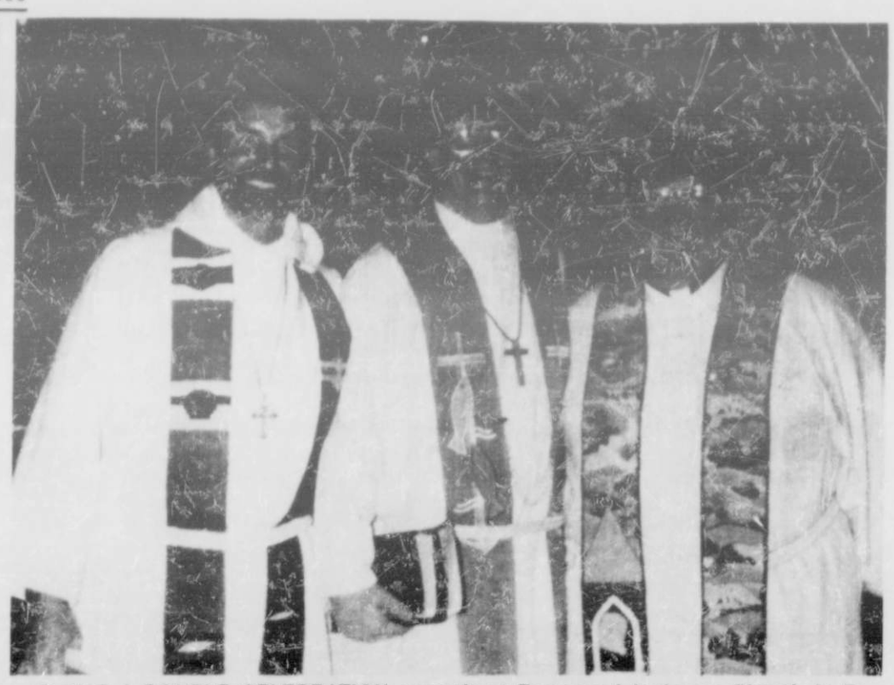
The Rev. Ralph Dunkin, bishop of the West Virginia-Western Maryland Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, was present for this special day.

Bishop Dunkin led a service of dedication of the newly constructed Emmanuel Church. New hymn books (With One Voice), a window in the front of the chancel, and a banner were also dedicated.

Three former pastors of the Bittinger Lutheran Parish participated in the service. The Old Testament lesson, taken from I Kings, was read by Rev. Louise Knotts; Psalm 84 was read by Rev. Douglas Knupp; and the epistle lesson from the eleventh chapter of Hebrews was read by Rev. David Rockwood.

The gospel lesson, recorded in Matthew, chapter 28, was read by Rev. Alex Black, retired bishop of the West Va.-Western Md. Synod, who had come to the parish for administering holy communion several times during the recent pastoral vacancy.

The message for the day was delivered by Bishop Dunkin, who presented a challenge to "move forward, increase outreach, and accept greater responsibilities."



IT WAS A DOUBLE CELEBRATION recently at Emmanuel Lutheran Church in Bittinger, where the congregation welcomed a new pastor with an installation service, and also dedicated the new church building. Nearly a dozen pastors were on hand to witness and/or participate in the special service. Installed as the new pastor was Rev. Patricia Pittsnagle, pictured above left, who was ordained September 24 at the Moorefield (W.Va.) Presbyterian Church on September 24 by Rev. Ralph Dunkin, bishop of the West Virginia-Western Maryland Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. Bishop Dunkin was also on hand for the installation and dedication service, as were three former pastors of the parish, pictured above right. From left are: Rev. David Rockwood, Rev. Douglas Knupp, and Rev. Louise Knotts. See story for details.

The hymn of the day was "We Are All One in Mission."

The service of installation of Patricia A.T. Pittsnogle as pastor of the Bittinger Lutheran Parish was conducted by the bishop also. The letter of certification of the call was presented by Floyd Baker, vice president of the Bittinger Lutheran Parish joint council. Prayers were offered by Rev. Black.

Pastor Pittsnogle was commissioned at the front by Floyd Baker of Zion, Jennings; at the pulpit by Robert Harkins of St. John's, Meadow Mountain; and at the altar by Larry Maxim of Emmanuel, Bittinger.

A service of holy communion followed. Visiting pastors and bishops assisted in the administration of the sacrament.

Lay persons participating in the service were: Sheila Southerly, organist; Lana Roby, soloist; Tyler Southerly, acolyte; Torrey Poholsky, Crucifier; and William and Andrew Hady and Landon Southerly, ushers. The communion elements were presented at the altar by Joann Maxim and children. Margaret Hershberger and Beulah Moon served as greeters.

Aside from Bishop Alex Black, the following visiting pastors were introduced by Bishop Dunkin: Rev. Roland Nairn, Accident Lutheran Parish; Rev. William Connelly, Aurora-Red House Parish; Rev. David Rockwood, Grace Lutheran Church, Fairmont, W.Va.; Rev. Louise Knotts, St. Stephen Lutheran Church, Mifflintown, Pa.; Rev. James Caton, St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Clarksburg, W.Va.; Rev. Douglas Knupp, Trinity Lutheran Church, Martinsburg, W.Va.; Rev. Michael Robinson, St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland, who had served as interim pastor of the Bittinger Parish during the recent vacancy; and Rev. Michael Taliaferro, St. Paul's, Frostburg, who is currently serving as interim pastor of Mt. Calvary Westernport and Trinity Keyser Parish during a pastoral vacancy.

Rev. Robert Cassell, now retired and living in Ironton, Ohio, was also a visiting pastor. Pastor Cassell, former president of the former Synod of West Virginia and pastor at Mt. Calvary Church in Westernport, had conducted worship at an evening hour during the pastoral vacancy in the Bittinger Parish in 1952-1953.

Pastor Pittsnogle introduced members of her family who were in attendance.

Daughters of former pastors who attended the special dedication event were: Edda (Runze) Brenneman and Ruth Ellene (Curran) Schaffer and her husband Harry.

Lowell Leitzel, a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland, was also in attendance. Leitzel has conducted worship in the Bittinger Parish as a lay associate during various pastoral vacancies. One other lay associate who served during the past vacancy, and was present for the service, was Dick Schrock from St. Paul's, Aurora, W.Va.

A banner bearing the words "Grow In Christ," made in celebration of the dedication of the church was made by Vicki Teets, who had also designed the worship bulletin cover.

A fellowship hour and reception was held at the Bittinger fire hall following the service. Guests also included the Mission Builders' families and many who had assisted in construction of the new church.

Rotary Program Features BBBS History, Success

The guest speaker at a recent Oakland Rotary Club meeting was JoAnn Fletcher, Garrett County coordinator for Big Brothers Big Sisters. Fletcher spoke of the community-based organization's history in Garrett County and the successes achieved in matching adult mentors with young girls and boys.

Fletcher emphasized the great need for Big Brothers and Big Couples because of the great number of boys currently on the list of children waiting for mentors. Volunteers are also needed in the new schoolbased mentoring program at Dennett Road and Accident elementary schools. The Lunch Buddy program has mentors (high school seniors and up) meeting with a child during lunch and recess time for one hour per week during the school year.

For more information about the mentoring programs, interested persons may call 301-334-3591 or 800-400-0735 to reach Big Brothers Big Sisters.

After-School Program Events Open To All

Participants in Southern Middle School's All Star After-School Program invited their families to join in celebrating Halloween at their party recently. Parents and students enjoyed a pizza dinner, and students participated in games and a costume contest.

Among the winners of the various games were Lydia McCready, who won the candy corn game; and Amber Everett, who was the winner of the "guess the mess" bucket. Winners of the apple bobbing contest included Andrew Dale, Tyler Ewing, Kayla Legeer, Sarah Anderson, Josh Brown, Pricillia McCready, Cody Ferguson, Amber Everett, Michael Kave and Patty Gallagher. Volunteer assistants included Amanda Glotfelty, Russell Gift, and Kristin McCasky.

The All Star After-School Program is open to Northern Middle and Southern Middle school students. The activities include a homework focus, as well as alcohol and tobacco prevention, hobby development, recreation, service projects, career education, and character-building activities. After-school programs are offered each weekday from 3:30 to 6 p.m. Activity buses are available to transport students from the middle schools to various stops throughout the county.

For permission slips or more information about both Northern Middle and Southern Middle's All Star After-School programs and the activity buses, interested persons may contact AmeriCorps staff by calling 301-533-0113.

Clarke House Among Those In Red Cross Tours

The American Red Cross Home for the Holidays House Tours will feature the home of Peggy and Mike Clarke, located along Crestview Drive in Oakland. Two other family homes will be included in this year's event, as well as the recently restored Oakland train station.

The tours will be held on Dec. 1 from 4 until 9 p.m., and Dec. 2 from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. This annual event is a key fund-raiser for the local chapter of the ARC.

HOME OF MIKE AND PEGGY CLARKE

The Clarke home was built in 1978, purchased by Peggy Clarke from Dr. James Jones in 1995. Located on a 1.1 acre hillside lot, it is a unique 3,000-square-foot contemporary passive solar house with a two-car garage and cathedral ceilings and skylights. There are three bedrooms, two baths, a family room, exercise room, conservatory, hot tub/greenhouse room, living/dining room, kitchen (with a Jenn Air grill in the island), laundry, and an office upstairs.

Upon entering the house, guests will step into the foyer, where they will see immediately before them the conservatory area, which can be accessed by any of six sets of sliding glass doors. This area has skylights throughout, which make it an ideal growing area for many plant species. This area is the permanent home of a 20-foot Norfolk Island tree, a 12-foot rubber plant, two 10-foot yucca trees, and a pair of 15-foot yucca trees surrounded by an area of ferns — all growing naturally from the floor. This area also has a 14-foot ficus tree, numerous bromeliads, various types of orchids, nephytis, ivy, and spider plants.

Moving through the conservatory to the hot tub room, which doubles as a greenhouse during the winter months, guests will see many more plants in a semi-outdoor garden area. An extensive deck (approximately 1,200 square feet) wraps around a 10-foot stone planter, with extensive deck lighting to allow guests a complete view of the trees and flowers growing in the back yard.

The conservatory, hot tub room, and kitchen have white ceramic tile, and white berber carpeting is featured throughout the rest of the house.

The living/dining room has cathedral ceilings with ten side windows and three large windows overlooking the deck and back yard. This living area is furnished with three white leather sofas, a large brass and serpentine cocktail table, and a black marble dining table — all imported from Italy. A 12-foot glass and mirrored étagère houses many treasures and personal memorabilia at the far end of the room.

A 62-inch television with a five-speaker Bose Home Theater System provides "surround sound," making this a gathering and party area for watching special events such as the Super Bowl, Olympics, and other televised happenings. A seven-foot 25-year-old philodendron also occupies a significant area of space, and adds to the forest-like atmosphere.

The family room has another 10-foot glass and mirrored étagère, in which family crystal, treasures, and a hidden 35" television are located. A rattan love seat, chair, and ottoman, and a green leather sofa furnish this area. Two sets of sliding glass doors open into the paneled exercise room, which has three sky lights and seven windows with warm earth-tone brown ceramic tile, surrounding yet another floor planter with numerous plants.

An upstairs bedroom has been converted into a modern-day office, with a custom built, black faux marble horseshoe work station and shelves, constructed by Snyder Cabinets. One wall is completely covered with floor-to-ceiling bookshelves. A wall-mounted television, multiple computers, printers, fax machine and copier, and a sofa provide for a private reading and napping area, which doubles as a fourth bedroom as needed.

As with any new buyer, the owner has elected to add her own personal decorating touches, including the extensive use of ceramic tile, both inside and outside lighting, painting throughout, and various upgrades in hardware and electrical systems. Additional refurbishing is being considered.

At the time of the Red Cross tours, directional signs will be placed at intersections to help guests find each house. Red Cross yard signs will be placed in front of each home as well. A raffle will be held at each location for gifts donated by local businesses. Businesses participating in this year's raffle are Country Treasures, Simon Pearce, 4 All Seasons, and Flowers by Webers. Joanne Glotfelty is also providing a raffle prize.

Persons should note that the home of Jim and Nancy Bauer, located along Lakeshore Drive, which was originally part of this year's lineup, has been removed from the tour event because of damages caused by a fire at the home about two weeks ago.

Tickets for all ages will be $5 in advance or $7 at the door. Advance tickets can be purchased at Proudfoot's and Gregg's pharmacies, Flowers By Webers, Arrowhead Market, and the Deep Creek Pharmacy.

Sines Certified In Hospice Work By Nat'l Board

Hospice Care Corporation, Kingwood, W.Va., announces that Marie Sines, R.N., B.S.N., has passed the Certified Hospice and Palliative Nurse Examination.

The certification is provided by the National Board for Certification of Hospice and Palliative Nurses. To be eligible for the certification, an R.N. must have worked within the hospice environment for a designated number of years and provided exemplary direct patient care.

"I am very excited about joining ranks with other certified hospice and palliative nurses," Sines said. "Being a nurse in the hospice environment allows us to provide much needed care to the terminally ill and their families."

Malene Davis, executive director, said, "For a member of our staff to successfully obtain this certification is a reminder of how dedicated we are to providing hospice services that are above and beyond the requirements."

West Virginia has 51 CHPNs in the state, and four of those work with Hospice Care Corporation. Nationally, the Board for Certification of Hospice and Palliative Nurses recognizes 5,624 nurses as obtaining this certification.

State Jobless Rate Steady, County's Higher

Maryland's surging economy continued its record-setting pace during September, according to state job figures released this week by Governor Parris N. Glendening. The state's employment rate reached a record high for the month of September, while the state's unemployment rate remained steady at 3.4 percent for the third consecutive month, below the national average of 3.8 percent.

"This incredible run is a real testament to the ongoing strength of Maryland's economy and our aggressive efforts to make long-term investments in education and in enhancing the quality of life through Smart Growth," said Governor Glendening. "More Marylanders are working and enjoying greater opportunities as a result of this unprecedented prosperity."

Garrett County's jobless rate increased from 5.6 percent in August to 5.9 percent in September. The September rate last year was 5.2 percent.

Maryland's labor market exhibited rather traditional seasonal patterns in September, with summer workers continuing to exit the labor market as workers in education re-entered to begin the fall semester. These countering movements stabilized the job market, helping to maintain the unemployment rate at 3.4 percent for the third consecutive month.

Nationally, downsizing in the labor force lowered unemployment to 3.8 percent in September. However, Maryland's unemployment rate remains lower than the national level.

On the local level, unemployment rates either declined or remained the same in 16 jurisdictions, with more than half of the jurisdictions reporting unemployment rates below the statewide average. Among the lowest unemployment rates were 1.7 percent in Montgomery County, 1.9 percent in Frederick County, 1.9 percent in Howard County, and 2.1 percent in both Charles and Talbot counties.

Continued reductions in seasonal jobs caused employment to decline as normal during September. Even with this decline, employment was reported at a record-setting level for the month, exceeding last September's count by more than 57,300 people. Workers leaving the job market helped to stave off rising unemployment.

During September, recalls in education and the end of the communications strike, coupled with hiring in business services, health services, and general merchandise stores, more than compensated for normal seasonal reductions in construction and in select retail trade and services industries.

Area Vet's Story Shows That Wars' Moments Can Have Lasting Impact

by David Foster

Veterans Day salutes the military service of men and women to their country, each of whom has a story to tell. This story is not what historians tell of war — the great engagements between massive armies that change the course of history — but more what veterans tell of war, those scattered, intense encounters among small groups of men that alter the course of individual destinies. The unthinkable heroism, as well as the unspeakable horrors, of war often come in small, quick bursts — like gunfire.

Somewhere today in this wide world there are a number of people who owe their lives directly to Oakland's Dick Friend. Over the course of just a few moments, Friend single-handledly thwarted part of an enemy attack that would have certainly killed and maimed a number of his fellow American GIs.

South Vietnam, 0800 hours, May 21, 1967

A convoy of eight U.S. Army vehicles speeds along at 30 miles per hour from Suoi Cat to Xuan Loc along 23 miles of clay hacked out through the jungle. Aboard are 46 GIs of the 11th Armored Regiment, including 20-year-old Spec. 5 Friend, making his first supply run, having arrived in Southeast Asia just a few weeks before.

The soldiers with more time in-country, savvy with experience, likely noted with trepidation that when the convoy pulled up to a village, no children, or even dogs, came out to greet them. Totally silent, the village had been cleared out just hours before by North Vietnamese Army soldiers aware, as they were of so much of our Army's movements, that a convoy would be passing through that morning.

Just as ominously, in retrospect, North Vietnamese Army (NVA) motor barrage had pounded the Americans' position at 2 a.m. that same morning, providing cover for some 300 communist soldiers to dig in along the roadway.

The convoy rolls on — into the jaws of a trap.

Ambush

"One hundred meters beyond the deserted village, all hell broke loose," Friend recalled during a recent conversation. "We were hit with heavy fire from both sides of the road, and our lead vehicle, a tank, struck a landmine, spun sideways, and was disabled right in the middle of the road. The entire convoy got jammed up behind the tank. I was riding in the fourth vehicle down the line, and we could hear bullets hitting the side of our jeep before the driver was shot through the neck, and we ran off the road and into a bunch of rubber trees."

Thrown clear of the careening jeep when it hit a tree, Friend himself impacted face-first on the tree trunk. Stunned momentarily, with a broken nose, broken teeth, his helmet and rifle lost in the underbrush, his natural reaction of fear and panic quickly kicked into a survival mode.

"I ran back toward the road, and when I came up the embankment I could see the NVA soldiers advancing with guns firing. I crawled into some tall elephant grass, with no idea of where I was going except to keep away from the NVA while staying close to the road, because you could easily get lost in the jungle. Keeping to the left of the dust raised by the fighting on the road was the only way I could keep my bearings."

After several minutes, Friend could see some elephant grass moving close by; then it stopped, and he heard the staccato-like conversation of Vietnamese phrases. He crawled another 10 meters on his belly, rose to his knees, and found himself facing two enemy soldiers.

"They were standing shoulder-to-shoulder, but had their rifles at rest, not pointed in my direction. I needed to get one of those rifles, so I went into them like a buzzsaw, going completely crazy, kicking, punching, hitting them in any way I could. I knocked them both to the ground, they started yelling, and I ran 25 steps to the road and started running toward our lead tank, which was probably 75 meters down the road, because I thought I could either get in it or under it."

Friend started down the road in a flat-out sprint, looking to his right where the main concentration of enemy fire was coming from. He saw two NVAs sitting in a fox hole just off the road with their rifles at rest across their laps. "I thought, 'I don't want to get shot in the face,' so I turned my head away from them and ran as fast as I could. They didn't seem to be in a hurry to shoot at me, and a colonel later said that they may have been 'meat packers,' NVAs assigned to pack out the bodies of their fellow killed and wounded soldiers so Americans couldn't get an accurate body count."

Continuing his run through the gauntlet, Friend saw an NVA soldier jump out from the brush into the road in front of him and start trotting on ahead toward an American Armored Personnel Carrier (APC) that was trapped behind the disabled tank and a deuce-and-a-half blocking the road. Ten American soldiers were in the APC, two of whom were returning fire into the brush, five who were severely wounded, and three who were dead.

Tunnel Vision

"Everything comes flashing back when I talk about it," Friend said. "It's as if there's a video machine in my head. That NVA runner had a regular military uniform, very faded light green, wearing a helmet and web gear, with a carbine rifle slung over his shoulder, and what looked like a small leather saddle bag hanging from his shoulder and flapping at his waist."

Quickly closing the gap, the sprinting Friend drew up behind the enemy soldier as he saw him take the bag off his shoulder to reveal a ball of wire. From his training the young American soldier knew this was a bad sign, as the bag was likely an explosive device, a 'satchel charge,' that would be tossed into the open hatch of the APC, a sitting duck, to kill everyone inside. Satchel charges were composed of several sticks of dynamite attached to wires. The job of an NVA explosives runner was to toss the satchel bag at a target, run off a few feet and touch the wires to one another to detonate the explosion.

"I came up behind the NVA soldier as he was about 10 meters from the APC," Friend said. "Two reactions — I wouldn't even call them thoughts — shot through my mind: 'I've got to stop him from throwing that satchel,' and 'I've got to get his rifle.' The survival instinct was in full force, and I had nothing but tunnel vision zeroed in on his back; here I was running through the middle of a firefight, but I didn't know anything else was going on around me.

"I pulled out my hunting knife, the only weapon I had left, and made it to the NVA soldier just as he was reaching for the rail to pull himself up to the APC's open hatch. I hit him full force between the shoulders, and the knife went in beyond its five-inch blade. My impact flattened him up against the side of the APC, and he slid off the side and rolled onto the ground as I scrambled up and into the vehicle.

"What I saw inside the APC was a horrible sight; it was like coming up on a terrible car wreck. One guy had been shot in the leg and had a bloody T-shirt wrapped around it; another guy had been hit in the face with shrapnel, one of his eyes was gone, and there were holes in the side of his face."

Trapped like fish in a barrel, Friend and his fellow soldiers hunched down inside the APC as bullets and shrapnel ricocheted off its armored plating. A few minutes later a second APC pulled alongside, and the living grabbed up their wounded comrades and the bodies of their dead and threw them into the rescuers' vehicle, which then squeezed past the disabled tank and truck blocking the road. There are many faces of the American military veteran.

Who is an American veteran?

She's a retired lady who lives down the street from you, who ferried aircraft across the pond in World War II.

He's the city councilman, who fought with the Marines in the fire and ice of Korea.

She's your high school biology teacher, who worked as a nurse to save the lives of hundreds of wounded G.I.s during Vietnam.

He's a police detective, who during Desert Storm served in the U.S. Army's Armored Calvary.

She's your neighbor's daughter, who just got out of the Navy and now works at a high-tech firm.

On this Veterans Day, The American Legion salutes all of our nation's veterans. America owes her freedom to these patriots.

This November 11, let them know you remember and appreciate their service. Send them an electronic greeting card, compliments of this publication with living, wounded, and dead Americans, the second APC sped off at top speed as the bombs from an American air strike, summoned from Ton Shon Nute airbase in Saigon, forced the NVA attackers to withdraw into the jungle. After what seemed an eternity, the attack was over.

Vet's Story

One-half mile up the road Friend saw something that sickened him even more than the attack itself. "There was a unit of maybe 140 fully armed South Vietnamese Army regulars stopped within earshot of the ambush. They had been there the whole time and hadn't lifted a finger to help us," Friend recalled. "When we saw that, the only thing that stopped us from opening up on them was our desire to get help for our wounded.

"It put a sour taste in my mouth for the rest of my stay in Vietnam, and I still had 10 months to go. After that all I wanted to do was get out of there in one piece."

Startling Discovery

After the more seriously wounded had been tended to at the field hospital, the Army doctor turned his attention to Friend, who had sustained a broken nose, broken teeth, shrapnel wounds in his arm and leg, and a deep abrasion over his eye. "The doctor noticed some gunpowder falling from the chest pocket of my shirt, and he said, 'I think you've been shot, are you all right?' He felt around on my chest, and pulled out my paper box of M-16 ammunition. His eyes got huge — it gives me goose bumps even today to think of the look on his face — but I was so drained after running on solid adrenalin during the attack that I didn't realize what he was talking about.

"The doctor left, and came back a couple of hours later, knelt down in front of me and said, 'Son, you hold on to these, you'll want to keep them,' and handed me the bullets. It was then I realized that I had been shot during the attack, probably as I was running after the NVA with the satchel charge. I remembered a feeling of being poked in the chest with a stick as I was running."

That realization, combined with what the doctor had handed him, took Friend's breath away. The casing of one of his bullets had been nicked by an enemy bullet; the casing of a second had been completely pierced; and the enemy bullet was embedded in the casing of the third.

Friend held his life, and the lives of several fellow American soldiers, there in his hand.

The Impact

The spot of earth where Friend left that North Vietnamese soldier lying could have easily become the killing ground for himself and other young American men, little more than boys at the time, who have since likely married and raised children of their own. Some of those men may be watching their grandchildren take their first steps — another generation in continuing family lines that could easily have been cut short 33 years ago on a dusty jungle road 10,000 miles from home.

The impact is even greater when one considers it multiplied by the brave actions of countless other American servicemen over our nation's history, those unselfish sacrifices that have helped ensure freedoms so easily taken for granted.

Happy Veterans Day to all Garrett County veterans.

The family of Thomas Carr wishes to express our deepest appreciation to everyone who sent food, flowers, cards, and to all who gave up their time to help us during our time of sorrow.

Your prayers were greatly appreciated and words cannot express the love we felt from everyone. Thank you so much.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

PUBLIC HEARING

A public hearing will be held at the Aurora Elementary School on Thursday, Nov. 16, at 6 p.m., when the West Virginia Public Service Commission makes its first-ever appearance in Preston County. The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss the proposed natural gas-fired power plant to be constructed near Horse Shoe Run.

Mega-Energy Inc. recently asked that Phase Two of its application for a certificate of convenience and necessity (construction of 10 one-megawatt (mw) wind-powered turbines) be withdrawn until a later date. The company hopes to begin operation of Phase One, construction of two 5.3 mw gas turbine power plants and a 69 KV transmission line, by May of next year, according to a company spokesperson.

Because of a letter from Horse Shoe Run residents Joseph and Betty Viola requesting a local hearing, the commissioners have decided to come to Preston County. They are trying to accommodate those who, because of jobs, family or another reason, would not be able to make the trip to Charleston.

The commission appeared in Tucker County recently for a hearing there concerning the erection of approximately 80 windmills along a seven-mile ridgeline of Backbone Mountain. This $90 million project would be the largest one on the East Coast and was accepted with unanimous approval by those attending the hearings held at Thomas and Parsons, the spokesperson said.

The public is invited to find out more concerning Mega-Energy's plans and intentions.

REVIVAL AT MAPLE SPRING

Joyce Brennan was also honored for being a KOPS (Keeping Off Pounds) for 13 years.

FLU SHOTS

There have been inquiries as to whether there would be a flu shot clinic at the Union Ambulance squad hall. Because of the short supply of vaccine, the Preston County Health Department has not been able yet to do one for this area, but if it receives another shipment later this month or in early December, it will be arranged. For further information, or to be put on a calling list, persons may contact Ellen Harsh at 735-5468, or another squad member.

AURORA CEOS

The Aurora CEOS met Oct. 17, at the Union Ambulance squad hall. Janice Tackett read "When October Comes Over the Hill" and "Falling Leaves," and her devotions concluded with prayer.

"Finding New Members" was the study topic addressed by Dean Sisler. Asking "Why do people join?" and "Where are the new members?" she concluded with some recruiting ideas.

At the membership tea, Wilda Stemple used a sugar and creamer, belonging to her great-great-grandmother, as her Heritage feature.

Achievement Night for Preston County CEOS will be held at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building on Nov. 16 at 6 p.m. Opal Myers reported on attending Fall Conference at Jackson's Mill and some of the classes she had taken. She was also elected to a one-year term on the state board.

Lessons for the 2001 year were selected. Ressie Conrad was selected Member of the Year 2000. The Christmas meeting is planned for Dec. 9 at the Union Ambulance squad hall, beginning at 6 p.m., and will be for members and their families.

November devotions will be by Virginia Martin, with Mildred Stemple to provide the special feature. Janice Tackett will have the heritage feature and Opal Myers the program, which will be at 1 p.m. at the squad hall.

Rams Ousted From Playoffs By Wildcats

It was 1-1 at halftime of the 1A West Region semifinal match between the Southern High Rams and the favored Wildcats of Williamsport, played Friday night on the Rams' field, but the second half was altogether another story, as the Wildcats demonstrated why they were favored to win the region title. After intermission, the Ram defensive effort could no longer keep the visitors' shots out of the net, and the Wildcats coasted to a 6-1 victory.

The defeat ended the Rams' up-and-down season with an overall record of 6-8, while the Wildcats advanced to the regional title match against Allegany with an overall mark of 15-2. They defeated Alco on Tuesday, 5-2, to capture the West Region championship and a spot in the state semifinals.

It took the Wildcats only 1:45 to put the first goal into the net against the Rams on Friday, as Jason Knicley connected off an assist by Todd Knepper.

The Rams knotted the score at 1-1 about eight minutes later when Don Parsons scored off a feed by Clement Chauzat with 30:41 left in the first half.

Although the Wildcats kept the ball in Southern's half of the field much of the rest of the half, they could not get it past sweeper Bryan Schwalm, keeper Chris Menker, fullback Brandon Heselbach, and the rest of the Southern defensive unit, so the score was still 1-1 at halftime.

The Wildcats did find the mark the second half, however, as Ben Jordan scored off an assist by Ryan Beard at the 35:50 mark to give them the lead for good.

Carlos Gomez made it 3-1 with a goal off another feed by Beard about five minutes later.

Jordan scored again with 16:02 left in the match, again off an assist by Beard, to give the Wildcats a 4-1 lead, and John Lankford followed with an unassisted goal less than two minutes later.

Lankford put the final ball into the net with 5:33 remaining off Beard's fourth assist for the night.

Menker was credited with 14 saves, and Jeremy Draper turned away seven shots in goal by the Rams. Williamsport finished with a 23-12 advantage in shots on goal, and a lopsided 10-1 margin in corner kicks.

Southern Girls Fall To Wildcats In Playoffs, 3-1

The 12-1 Southern High School girls' varsity soccer team had high hopes of reaching the state 1A semifinals this season, but those hopes were dashed Friday night when the Rams dropped a 3-1 contest to visiting Williamsport in the 1A West Region semifinals.

The match was close from the opening tipoff, as the Wildcats finished with a 15-13 edge in shots on goal and the Rams had a 5-3 advantage in corner kicks.

One of the Rams' corner kicks gave them a 1-0 lead, as Megan Burner curved a textbook shot right over keeper Lindsay Dellinger's hands and into the net with 27:30 remaining in the first half.

Southern enjoyed that lead for less than four minutes, however, as Brooke Weimer scored unassisted for the Wildcats at the 23:35 mark.

Williamsport took the lead for good when Holli Bowers got a ball past Southern keeper Becky Martin with 9:01 remaining in the first half.

Weimer netted her second goal of the night, and the only goal of the second half by either team, with another unassisted shot at the 29:57 mark.

The rest of the half featured a number of close shots by both teams, but no more scoring. Martin was credited with 13 saves for the Rams, while Dellinger stopped five Southern shots.

Williamsport went on to defeat Beall, 2-0, on Tuesday to capture the regional 1A championship and a berth in the state championships.

Northside FC Tops Jammers For U-15 Title

Scott Pusateri scored a hat trick to lead the Railey Realty Mountain Vacation Rentals Northside FC to a 5-2 victory over the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Jammers last Wednesday evening on the Southern High School field. The win gave Northside the Mountaintop Soccer Association Youth Division Under-15 championship.

Also scoring for Northside were Jesse Curtis and Tyler Harvey with one goal each. Bobby Bonser accounted for both of the Jammers' goals.

The match concluded the 2000 season of the MSA program, which involved over 500 youth from all over Garrett County playing on approximately 50 teams and in several age divisions.

RAMS MAULED BY WILDCATS - The 2000 high school soccer season ended Friday evening for the Southern High School girls' varsity, as the Rams dropped a 3-1 decision to visiting Williamsport in the semifinals of the 1A West Region championships. The Rams went into the match with a 12-1 record, an 11-match win streak, and the area's number-one ranking, despite the fact that a number of starters all season were freshmen. In the photo above left, freshman Robbin Gregg, right, goes after the ball. In the background is Megan Burner, who scored the Rams' only goal. Above right, Southern sweeper Miriam Sincell "uses her head" to clear a ball away toward awaiting teammate Justine Pagenhardt. Pictured below are Southern's only seniors, Charlena Reeves, left, and Sarah Teets, right, closing in on an attacking Wildcat. The Rams were also unanimously voted the area champions (see story next week). Williamsport went on to win the regional title by defeating Beall on Tuesday. Photos by John McEwen.

SHS Jayvees End Season With 7-3 Mark

The Southern High School Junior Varsity soccer team had its best season yet, finishing with a 7-3 regular season record and a 2-2 record in a season-ending double-elimination tournament at Beall. This was the JV's best won-lost record since soccer started at Southern. This was the first year that they defeated Bishop Walsh, and there was only one team on the schedule that they didn't defeat — Beall.

The JV Rams were anchored by a solid defense, consisting of Chris Lantz, Matt Stephens, Steve Knepp, and Nick Perry. Lantz was responsible for leading the defense, mostly at sweeper, while Knepp harried strikers and midfielders from his fullback position. Stephens played the other fullback and also filled in at stopper. Perry, as a freshman, capably stepped right in at either fullback spot.

Goal keeper was a difficult position to fill because there were no experienced keepers on the team, according to Coach Mike Browning. "Brian VanBogelen and Dennis Tressler shared the duties and did a great job," Browning said. Tressler, with his basketball and leaping skills, and VanBogelen, with his sure hands and booming kicks, were very adept at keeping the ball out of our goal. Both players also have very good ball skills and were valuable at stopper and midfielder positions."

Midfield was strong, largely because of the contributions of three juniors — Bobby Burton, Bubba Lemley, and Kody Morfoot. With strength and aggressiveness, Burton often controlled the midfield and stole numerous passes from in front of waiting players. Lemley, Morfoot, and sophomore A.J. Bender served as unselfish playmakers and played good ball control soccer. Others filling in in the midfield were Sean Buckel and Aaron Riggleman.

As strikers, Adam Miller and Karl Hillen provided most of the scoring for the Rams. Miller, with his fakes and jukes (and even a header), and with his coolness when one-on-one against the goalie, netted 12 goals. Hillen, a talented freshman, tallied five times (including a hat trick), and between them they scored 17 of the 29 goals. Also contributing as strikers and midfielders were Christopher Miller, Brian Howell (one of the most improved), Brian Wolfe, and Chuck Burton.

At the season-ending tournament at Beall, the Rams lost their first game on penalty kicks to Allegany. They then came back and defeated Fort Hill on penalty kicks and downed a surprising Westmar team (which had previously eliminated undefeated Beall), 2-1. In their last game, the Rams ran out of energy, playing their third game without rest and losing to Bishop Walsh.

"Overall, it was a great season for our team," Browning said. "We outscored our opponents, 29-16, in the regular season. And we were a balanced team, with 12 out of 14 midfielders and strikers scoring at least one goal or getting one assist. We look forward to another good year next year, with another talented group of players moving up into the freshman class."

Assisting Browning was Karl Schwalm.

Northern Girls Edged, 3-2, In Shootout With Beall

After 100 minutes of soccer, there was still no winner in the 1A West Region girls' semifinal match between Northern and Beall high schools, played in Frostburg last Thursday, as the Huskies and Mountaineers were still deadlocked at 2-2. A shootout ultimately decided the outcome, and the Mountaineers won that competition by a 6-4 margin to be declared a 3-2 winner and end the Huskies' hopes for additional post-season play.

The Huskies came into the match with an even record of 6-6-2, having disposed of Westmar two nights earlier in a regional quarterfinal match. Beall upped its overall mark to 11-4-1 with the victory, and then lost to Williamsport, 2-0, in the regional championship match played Tuesday at Beall.

After being down 2-0 to the favored Mountaineers, the Huskies staged an impressive two-goal rally in the second half to send the match into overtime. They held their own against the home team through two 10-minute overtime periods, forcing the match into the shootout. Each team had 10 shots in the shootout, one for each player on the field when the second overtime period ended.

The Huskies' rally began when Sarah Kenner scored off a direct kick at the 21:29 mark. Then Trisha Kamp knotted the score at 2-2 with an unassisted goal with 6:33 remaining.

Ashley Warnick finished the match with nine saves in goal for the Huskies, while Beall's Crystal Martz recorded eight. The Mountaineers held a significant lead in shots on goal, 23-12, and also finished with a 4-0 advantage in corner kicks.

Local Soccer Coaches Earn Certification

Local soccer coaches Diana Slider Ashby and Cathy Menker recently passed the United States Soccer Federation's D certification exam, giving them the highest coaching certification available at the state level. They took the exam following an intensive four-day session in Middletown, instructed by Graham Ramsay, director of coaching for the Maryland State Youth Soccer Association, and nationally ranked coaching instructor Tony Corbett.

The focus of the course includes expanded skills, goalkeeping, and tactical development, plus a coaching practicum and an extensive written exam. Prior to taking the course, coaches must have successfully completed the two-day USSF's E certification training, which focuses on basic skill development for players.

Ashby is currently the assistant coach for the Southern High School girls' varsity team, while Menker has been a coach in the girls' division of the Arsenal Football Club since its start in 1996.

There are now four Garrett County coaches who hold this level of certification. The others are Mel Menker, president of Arsenal Football and assistant coach of the Southern High School boys' varsity, and Ron Petrella, president of the Mountaintop Soccer Association and head coach of the SHS girls' varsity. Two other Arsenal coaches will be taking the course later this month.

Wildcats End NHS's Perfect Run, 26-6; Southern Ahead

A pitched battle left Northern High School's varsity football team with its first loss of the year Friday night at Westmar, as the Huskies fell in a mistake- and injury-marred 26-6 contest. "We just shot ourselves in the foot," NHS skipper Phil Carr commented afterward. "We were only down one score late in the third quarter when we fumbled a pitchout that really hurt, and I was disappointed in our overall effort." The 7-1 Huskies are still in the hunt for a playoff spot, which would be clinched with a win at Southern (5-4) tomorrow night in what promises to be another hard-fought contest that will get under way at 7:30 p.m.

The Westmar (6-3) defeat, the first Northern loss after 17 consecutive regular season triumphs, was made even more painful by the fact that the heart of the Huskies roster, Mark Wolf, was forced to the sideline with a serious hip injury just after that fumbled pitchout. One of the best defensive minds in the state, NHS assistant coach Frank Ewing, was accidently struck on the sideline by a tackled player shortly before halftime and was immediately transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital for surgery on his broken leg.

Ewing is expected to be released from the hospital tomorrow or Saturday, and although he won't be making the trip to Southern for tomorrow night's showdown, he and Carr have been in phone contact mapping out their defensive strategy. "Frank's mind has been going full-tilt, and his spirits are good." Carr laughed. "We joked about getting a VCR into his room for him to watch scouting films, but the nurses didn't go for that. He'll be tuned into 92.3 FM to listen to the game on the radio, that's for sure.

"Still, our defense still continued to play fairly well into the fourth quarter, when the Wildcats' speed came into play as our guys began to wear down. Assistant coach Jon Houser had taken over the defense after Frank Ewing's departure, and he did a fine job."

Playing in a Westmar stadium that had an NHS home-field flavor (loyal Northern fans outnumbered the hosts by a probable 3-1 margin), the Huskies fell behind in the first quarter when Wildcat quarterback Bobby Alkire hit Josh Marsh with an 11-yard strike at the 2:38 mark. NHS struck back with 4:46 remaining in the second quarter when, on third down-and-22, Wolf streaked 81 yards for a touchdown carry that knotted the score at 6-all for the half.

Westmar's first possession of the second half began with a 19-yard punt return by the stellar Jeremy Sellers that put the 'Cats on the Northern 36. The probable All-State runner then carried the ball on all five plays of a scoring drive that concluded with his three-yard plunge across the goal line with 8:44 remaining in the third quarter to make the score 12-6.

Still well in the thick of things, the Huskies forged back with a drive that got them to the Westmar 19 yard line when, with 6½ minutes to go in the third quarter, disaster struck with a one-two blow. On a first-and-10 pitchout, quarterback Trey Brenneman and halfback Rob Dozier failed to connect and the fumble was recovered by the Wildcats. Wolf's game-ending injury came on the hosts' subsequent possession, and Northern seemed to lose its focus for the rest of the way.

After two possession exchanges, what turned out to be the knockout punch was delivered at the 9:53 mark of the fourth quarter when Westmar defender Seth Wigger picked off a short pass and raced 40 yards for a touchdown to make the score 19-6. "That was a big turning point in the game," Wildcat coach Gary Marsh observed. Alkire took the score to 26-6 with a 12-yard keeper with 1:26 remaining in the contest.

"Losing Mark definitely hurt," Carr remarked later. "We lost a lot of firepower on offense when he left, and it hurt our passing game because he's one of our better receivers. Dozier had an ankle injury in the fourth quarter that slowed him down quite a bit. There's no taking away from the great team Westmar has, and their fine performance, but we were also playing without starting split end, cornerback, and returner Jeremy Frazee, and starting lineman Josh Swandol."

Adding to the culminative effect of the injuries were five NHS fumbles, two of which were recovered by Westmar. "I was very disappointed in the way we were giving the ball away," Carr said. "Even those three fumbles we recovered hurt us, because they came at crucial moments and set us back. We also missed a lot of tackles that were in our grasp, and it was far from one of our better efforts of the year. We'll have to do a lot better to play with Southern, which is every bit as good as — if not better than — Westmar."

Northern must win tomorrow night to assure a playoff appearance for the second straight year, but it won't be easy. "It will be the same kind of game as Westmar," Carr predicted. "There will be a lot of hard hitting on the field, and you know Fred Gregg and his coaches will do a fine job of getting the most out of their players.

"Our kids will really have to step it up to win this one. Southern outsizes us on both sides of the line, and we'll have to rely on our quickness and technique to counter that strength. Their defense is excellent, just like ours, and although they don't have the obvious offensive firepower that Westmar does, they have some great athletes who can really hurt you."

Carr narrowed his long list of SHS players to watch down to four. "Their all-around best player is senior offensive guard/inside linebacker John Hayhurst (6-0, 219), who is their best blocker and tackler. We're also very concerned about senior quarterback Josh Sharon, who's quite a field leader with a nice arm and a runner's mentality. Our ends will have their work cut out for them trying to contain the corners of the line and keep Sharon from getting outside.

"Senior fullback/linebacker Jeremy Hayhurst (5-9, 175) hits the holes quickly and runs with good power, and junior defensive end Brad Palmer (6-3, 227) is known for pressuring opposing quarterbacks, and he has the mobility to give our option offense some real trouble."

All eyes will be on NHS's Wolf tomorrow night, who went over 1,000 yards for the year against Westmar. The senior co-captain has been "taking it easy" during practice this week, and is still showing effects of his painful hip-pointer. "Mark took a helmet hit directly to his hipbone, and that's the kind of thing that can put you out for a long time," Carr said. "Mark is a warrior, though, and will likely be out on the field when the game begins. He's the toughest kid I've ever seen, and played last year with a broken arm for half the season."

Should Wolf be sidelined again, his linebacker job will fall to sophomore Lee Yoder, who despite being only 5-5 in height turned in an excellent 11-tackle performance against Westmar. The Huskies will have the services of starter Jeremy Frazee as he makes his return after his two-week-old ankle injury, although Josh Swandol is out for the season.

If NHS defeats Southern, the Huskies clinch the region championship and will be slated to host a playoff game against an opponent from another region next weekend. (NHS's field is undergoing repairs.) If Northern loses, they could still make the playoffs should the unlikely scenario play out of a Westmar defeat at the hands of Beall (4-5), and Williamsport upsets (3-6) Francis Scott Key (9-0 team in 2A play).

"We don't want to back into the playoffs," Carr emphasized. "It's ours for the taking, and we need to prove we deserve it. Tomorrow night's game has a lot riding on it, and Southern is a great team. The stands will be full on both sides of the field, and we're looking forward to getting out there and playing a hard-hitting game."

Rams Succomb To Bigger, Faster Sentinels, 50-22

The size, speed, and power of the undefeated Fort Hill Sentinels proved to be too much for the Southern High Rams Friday night at Greenway Avenue Stadium in Cumberland, as the Rams were hammered by a 50-22 margin for their fourth loss in nine starts this season.

The Rams held their own against the heavily favored, 9-0 home team, at least until about midway through the second quarter. Southern trailed by a touchdown, 22-14, at that point, but two more quick touchdowns by the Sentinels before halftime ultimately sealed their victory. Fort Hill running back Greg Ewell rushed for 119 yards and two touchdowns on 10 carries from scrimmage, but finished with a total of 236 all-purpose yards. The 5-9, 145-pound senior returned two kickoffs, one for 73 yards, and caught a 27-yard touchdown pass.

Sentinel quarterback Trenton Lewis also had an excellent night throwing the ball, as he completed eight of 11 passes for 147 yards and three touchdowns, with end Zack Alkire catching four of those aerials for 83 yards and a TD.

Ewell put the game's first points on the board when he broke through the Ram line on Fort Hill's second play from scrimmage and raced 42 yards to the end zone with 11:34 remaining in the first quarter. The play was set up by an opening kickoff return of 44 yards by Ryan Shope. Chris Martin kicked the extra point to make it 7-0.

The Rams' first possession on the ensuing kickoff went nowhere, and Jeremy Hayhurst punted the ball. Ewing muffed the punt, however, and the Rams recovered the ball on the Sentinels' 20-yard line. Hayhurst capped a four-play, 20-yard drive with a three-yard touchdown run. He also booted the conversion point to tie the score at 7-7 with 8:08 to play in the first period.

Ewell took the next kickoff and raced 73 yards to the Ram 22. Four plays later he carried the ball over the goal line from the seven, and Martin's conversion kick gave the Sentinels the lead again, 14-7, with 6:04 left in the quarter.

The Rams were stopped on their next possession, punted the ball, and Fort Hill needed only five plays to cover 63 yards for a touchdown, scored on a 10-yard pass from Lewis to Joel Fradiska. The drive featured a 34-yard pass to Zack Alkire. Chad Keller passed to Fradiska for the two-point conversion to give the Sentinels a 22-7.

Ram quarterback Josh Sharon pulled Southern back within a touchdown when he broke loose on the ensuing possession and ran 52 yards for a touchdown with 8:19 remaining before halftime. Hayhurst's extra-point kick made it 22-14.

The Sentinels seized control of the game from that point on, scoring 28 unanswered points before the Rams could put one final touchdown on the board with just seconds remaining in the contest.

Lewis capped a 64-yard drive for Fort Hill with a one-yard touchdown run, and Martin tacked on the extra point with 3:32 to play in the first half.

A Southern fumble on the Fort Hill 45 set up yet another first-half touchdown for the Sentinels, scored on a 19-yard pass from Lewis to Alkire with just 50 seconds remaining. Martin again booted the extra point to give Fort Hill a commanding 36-14 halftime advantage.

Marcus Trimble extended Fort Hill's lead in the third quarter with a one-yard scoring run. He also had a 45-yard run in the drive. Martin's fifth conversion kick made it 43-14 at the 7:42 mark of the quarter.

The Sentinels' final points of the evening were scored on a fourth-and-five play when Lewis tossed a 27-yard touchdown pass to Ewell with 1:10 left in the third period. Martin again kicked the extra point.

Because Fort Hill's lead was then at least 35 points, the clock was allowed to run without stopping. With a number of second-team players on the field for both teams, the Rams marched 80 yards on 17 yards for a touchdown, scored on a one-yard run by back-up quarterback Ricky Curry with just 16 seconds left on the clock. Jay Tressler ran successfully for the two-point conversion.

Sharon led the Rams' rushing effort with 86 yards on 11 carries.

"We really didn't play badly," stated Southern coach Fred Gregg. "Our kids gave their best effort, which is all you can ask of them. Fort Hill is just bigger, faster, and stronger.

"It's also a good lesson for our kids," he said. "We consider Fort Hill's program to be the epitome of high school football. They are dedicated during the season, but also in the off-season. We want to try to emulate what they do to bring our program up to that level."

Gregg said most of his team came out of the scrap virtually injury-free, with the exception of senior lineman Billy Hebb, who sustained a hip injury and is listed as "doubtful" for this week's final game against Northern. Dan Thayer, who was injured in the Hampshire game, is also still out of the line-up.

This Friday's final contest of the season will be against county rival Northern, and is expected to be at least as exciting as any Southern-Northern clash in the past, as the Huskies are most likely play-off bound and will come to Oakland with a 7-1 record. They are also still stinging from a mild 26-6 upset by Westmar last Friday night.

Ram fans believe that, even though Southern has a modest 5-4 record, because their team plays a more difficult schedule, the Huskies will have their hands full. But Coach Gregg is quick to dispel the possible schedule strength imbalance.

"We had a similar situation last year, where we played a more difficult schedule, and Northern really stuck it to us (35-6)," he said. "So we really can't pay any attention to the schedules. We feel like we have to make up for last year, when our level of play and general behavior during the game was something that we are not proud of."

The Huskies have had great success this year with their wishbone offense, powered by senior running backs Mark Wolf (5-8, 195) and Rob Dozier (6-7, 200), along with junior quarterback Trey Brenneman (6-0, 210).

"Wolf and Dozier are

Ram Netters Bounce Northern From Volleyball Playoff Action

The Southern High School girls' volleyball team upset Northern High Monday night in Accident in a hard-fought 3-2 battle. SHS's overall record goes to 4-12, and the Rams are slated to host top-seeded Beall tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Oakland. Northern's season has concluded at a 5-11 mark.

The Husky hosts kicked off Monday's playoff battle with a 15-12 win; the Rams roared back to take the next two 16-14 and 15-10. NHS drew into a 2-all tie by notching a 15-11 win in Game 4, then Southern exploded for a convincing 15-8 win in the final to clinch the match.

The Rams' Holli Harris and Laura Johnson combined for 32 service points and 16 kills, as Harris accounted for 16 points and nine kills and Johnson contributed 16 points, seven kills, and two blocks. Heather Boyce had nine kills, Jessica Sharon tallied eight kills, four aces, and two blocks, and Kristen Rollman had eight assists.

Northern relied on 14 points from the duo of Nicole Sisler and Malia Collins. Karla Buckel contributed 10 points and three aces, Bridget Frazee had seven kills, Amanda Frantz had six kills, and Christie Flockhart had four kills.

NHS Athletic Boosters Set Team Pride Day

Members of the Northern High School Athletic Boosters Club have designated tomorrow, Friday, Nov. 10, as a day for fans of Huskies to demonstrate support by wearing blue and gold, the school colors.

"This is a day that students as well as members of the community can show pride in the efforts and accomplishments of the Huskies by displaying or wearing the blue and gold," a spokesperson for the boosters said.

Winter Sports Physicals To Be Given At SHS

Free physicals for students planning to participate in winter sports at Southern High School will be given this Saturday, Nov. 11, at the school, according to Matt Redinger, SHS athletic director. Given by Dr. Rick Perry, these physicals are for those student athletes who are not currently participating in fall sports.

All female athletes should report to the school at 10 a.m., and all males should report at 11 a.m. Those who do not report for a physical but plan to participate in a winter sport will be required to obtain their own physicals, at their own expense, by November 15, according to Redinger.

their two main weapons, and they are both excellent backs," Gregg said. "Mark Wolf is also one of the nicest young men in the county. It's real easy to be a fan of his.

"Trey Brenneman also does a fine job for them in running the offense," he said.

"They have good speed and great deception. Coach Carr has the wishbone down pat. They are very well coached," he said.

In asking Gregg about the Huskies' loss last week to Westmar, he said, "Westmar is a good team also, but I think they are very even teams. They both played well enough to win, but Westmar got the big play when they needed it most. We would have trouble with either one of these teams."

The Huskies' 5-2 monster defensive unit is anchored by senior lineman Toby Gilpin (6-2, 310), Wolf and Bill Rodeheaver (5-10, 200) at linebacker spots, and Dozier in the secondary.

"We're also really impressed with their nose guard, Lee Yoder," Gregg said. "He's not very big (5-5, 165), but he plays very well.

"They really have no significant weaknesses on either side of the ball," Gregg said. "We are going to have to play very well to beat them. I think it will come down to which team makes the fewest mistakes.

"Northern is a legitimate playoff team, but this will be our 'playoff' game, so we think our kids will give it everything they have," he said.

Friday's kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. at the Southern athletic field. It will also be Senior Night. All seniors on the football team, the cheerleading squad, and in the marching band, along with their parents, will be recognized in a pre-game ceremony.

Garrett Men's Hoop Squad Features Talent, New Faces

The Garrett Community College men's basketball team lost 11 players from last year's region finalist squad, but head coach Dennis Gibson is optimistic as he scouts the coming season. "We lost the nucleus from last year's team, but we return one key player from that group and have surrounded him with one of our best recruiting classes ever," the 16-year veteran coach said.

Returning sophomore Dustin Long, a 6-4 forward who played his high school ball at Northern, will be joined by four sophomore transfers — Antonio Lappegard, Robert Hall, Andy Brehm, and Damon Hamby — who will help provide the Lakers with leadership and experience. Nine freshmen round out the 14-player roster.

An essential reserve last season, Long is expected to be a prime scoring threat this year at both power forward and small forward. Long will be joined by 6-6 transfer Antonio Lappegard to form a potent forward tandem. Lappegard comes to McHenry by way of Division I school Virginia Commonwealth University, and in Gibson's opinion has the potential to be one of the best players ever to play at GCC after averaging 22 points and 11 rebounds per game his senior year of high school at Largo High in Prince George's County, where he earned First Team All-Metropolitan honors in the Washington, D.C. area.

Transfer Robert Hall, a 5-11 point guard, beefs up the backcourt markedly. Hall played at Essex CC two seasons ago, recording averages of 16 points, 3.9 rebounds, and 8 assists per game. He was awarded Essex's Outstanding Leadership Award that season, and "is primed for a breakout year at the point guard position," in Gibson's estimation.

Andy Brehm, another sophomore transfer, is a former standout for the Mt. Savage Indians who played soccer at Allegany College of Maryland last season. The 6-2 guard averaged 22 ppg his senior year at Savage, hitting for over 1,300 career points as he earned a slew of honors, including First Team WMIL and All-Area, as well as Second Team All-State.

The fifth sophomore is Damon Hamby, a 6-1 guard who attended Marshall (W.Va.) University last year on an academic scholarship. Hamby played at Woodrow Wilson High in Beckley, W.Va., where he was a key member of a highly talented squad.

"Our sophomores are all quality players and each has the potential to have an All-Region type of season; however, they must show they can do it night after night on the court. Dustin, Antonio, and Robert, as well as Andy and Damon, are special young men."

The talented roster is admittedly inexperienced at the collegiate level of play. The nine Laker freshmen hail from four different states and collectively represent the largest and perhaps the most talented group to ever play at Garrett, in Gibson's judgment.

Forward Kortaa Hall has looked impressive in scrimmages and is an experienced first-year player. Hall hails from Beckley, where he played at Woodrow Wilson through his sophmore year, then transfered his sophomore year to Fishburne Military Academy in Waynesboro, Va. An all-around athlete, Hall played basketball, football, and baseball at Fishburne, averaging 24 points per game for the cadet hoop squad and earning Second Team All American honors.

Lee Parris, a forward, also attended Woodrow Wilson and figures to play a key role for the Lakers. Parris averaged 17 ppg and nine rebounds per contest as he helped lead Wilson to back-to-back AAA championship games.

Forwards Ladon Garrett and Chris Prescott both graduated from Clarksburg Notre Dame and should add depth. Garrett averaged 17 ppg and 16 rebounds per outing, which included a First Team All-State honor. Prescott earned All-State Single A Division status, and averaged 12 points, 13 rebounds, and a stunning 8 shots blocked per contest.

Three Virginians all figure to be in the playing rotation and enrolled at GCC after impressive high school careers. Center Jontae Harrington of Norfolk, who averaged 17 points and 11 rebounds per game, will play inside, and his strength will be important in the physical JUCO contests. Guard Anthony Campbell averaged 19.7 points per game and earned Most Valuable Player honors for the T.C. Williams Titans. Fellow guard Kevin Brown, who was named Northern Virginia Region Player of the Year, averaged 14.5 points and 7 assists per game.

Sheldon Lynch, who averaged 12 points and 8 rebounds per game during his high school career, comes to GCC from Great Neck, N.Y. Ezequiel Ramos of Montgomery Blair High is a guard who was Most Valuable Player of his team and named to the Prince George's All-County squad, averaging 18.3 points per game.

"Our freshmen represent a considerable amount of talent. We may struggle early with so many new faces, but I like what these young men can do for our program," stated Coach Gibson, who has collected over 300 victories at the Lakers' helm. His assistants for the coming campaign are Dave Martin and Greg Becker.

The Lakers won 23 games last season before losing a heart-breaking one-point decision to Allegany College of Maryland for the right to represent Region XX in the National JUCO Tournament.

SHS Girls Qualify Again For State Cross Country Event

Even though the Southern High School girls' cross country team gave up its regional title last Thursday in the 1A West Region championships, held at Allegany College of Maryland in Cumberland, the Runnin' Rams will still compete as a full team at this Saturday's state championships, as they finished in third place with a team score of 62.

The top four teams from each region qualify for the state event, held annually at Hereford High School, and the top 15 individual finishers at the regional meet also qualify to compete as individual runners.

The Southern boys did not qualify as a team, finishing in seventh place; however, Ram Matt Frederick did qualify by virtue of his 14th place finish in the regional race.

The Southern girls, who are the defending state champions as well, were again led by All-State runner Melissa Durst, who placed third with a time of 20:18, while freshman teammate Natalie Domenick finished sixth in 21:03. Emily Cosner was 16th (22:27), Stephanie DiSimone placed 19th (22:34), Amber Stewart was 25th (22:58), Erin Lucas placed 35th (23:43), and Melissa Flanagan was 42nd (25:08). There were 55 girls in the race.

Smithsburg took the regional crown from the Rams with a team score of 40, while Williamsport was second with a score of 60, just two points ahead of Southern. Laura Stouffer was the fastest female runner of the day, finishing with a time of 20:10, and Anita Rhoderick of Boonsboro was second with a time of 20:13, five seconds ahead of Southern's Durst. Melissa Arch and Sarah Drury, both of Williamsport, placed fourth and fifth.

Boonsboro was fourth with a score of 81, followed by Allegany with 119, Beall with 128, Westmar with 181, and South Hagerstown and Clear Spring with incomplete scores.

Congressman Roscoe Bartlett retained his position in a comfortable win over Democrat Donald M. DeArmon in the District 6 race. The incumbent earned 75% of the local vote, with a tally of 7,236 for him and 2,379 for the challenger.

The only portion of the ballot pertaining to local candidates was for two seats on the Garrett County Board of Education. Incumbents Charlotte Sebold and James Raley ran for re-election, unopposed. Sebold earned 6,647 votes and Raley earned 6,141. There was a total of 105 write-in votes for these seats.

From the county's 10 voting precincts, the total number of ballots cast in Tuesday's election was 10,074. A count of about 700 absentee ballots took place this morning, although the results were not available by press time.

PANDORA'S BOX TEEN HEALTH THEATRE actors toured the county during Red Ribbon Week (Oct. 29-Nov. 4), making stops at elementary schools and entertaining children with original skits designed to education them about the dangers of tobacco and other unhealthful substances. The troupe mixed acting and puppetry in "James and the Giant Cigarette," representing peer pressure in a comic skit titled "Lemmings," and sang and danced in the musical number "Put It Out, Baby." The performers also spoke to the audience between skits about the poisonous content of cigarettes and the importance of getting "hooked" on "anti-drugs," which are hobbies or activities to help keep the children too busy to become involved in drug use. Shown are actors Brittany Craver, Christie Hamilton, Cheera Rinker, Lindsay Festerman, Heather Browning, Stacy Hetz, Destinee Hannas, and James Michaels (student director). Abuse Charges against his girlfriend and a juvenile, and other related charges for events that occurred at a residence in March. Cogley allegedly made threats, brandished a handgun, and fired shots within the home.

A Silver Spring man pleaded guilty to charges relating to burglaries and thefts that occurred in November 1995 at the American Legion and at the Farmer's Market in Oakland. Donald Leroy Hite, 42, entered guilty pleas to felony theft and possession of burglar tools. Sherbin sentenced him to five years for the theft charge and three years for the possession of tools charge. All of the jail time was suspended, and Hite was placed on five years of supervised probation.

The felony theft charge stemmed from an incident in Oakland after a Maryland State Police trooper patrolling the area observed a suspicious vehicle in the American Legion parking lot after hours. Apparently, Hite had been pursued by police officers and had gotten his vehicle stuck in a snow bank along Memorial Drive. Hite and a co-defendant, Charles J. Wassil, were apprehended shortly thereafter by the Garrett County Sheriff's K-9 unit. Further investigation revealed that the Legion had been broken into, and a safe had been removed and taken to the parking lot.

On the same day a burglary and theft were reported by the Farmer's Market, according to the state's attorney's office report. Sheriff's office detectives charged Hite and Wassil in connection with the crime after determining that items found in the vehicle had come from the store.

Hite failed to appear in Garrett County Circuit Court in 1996 because he was in jail in Tennessee, according to the report. He was recently returned to the local area on outstanding warrants and the cases scheduled for court.

"The passage of time has caused some procedural difficulties that could have been fatal to the entire prosecution," Welch said. "I determined this [guilty] plea was appropriate and contacted Hite's attorney with the offer. Hite has more recent drug-related charges to face in Talbot County, scheduled for next week. I have contacted the state's attorney's office in that county and have confirmed that the staff there is aware of Hite's background. They will be seeking incarceration, and I am satisfied Hite will not be a threat to the community."

In a separate case, a Meyersdale, Pa., man, Frank James Smith, 23, pleaded guilty to destruction of property over $300. Sherbin sentenced Smith to two years in the Department of Corrections and then suspended that sentence for two years of supervised probation. In addition to the general conditions of probation, Smith is jointly responsible for $4,000 in restitution for damages done to a residence.

Smith and four other individuals were charged by GBI investigators in March with burglary and assault crimes from an incident at a Grantsville area residence. Smith was apparently a passenger in the vehicle in which the group traveled from the Meyersdale area to Garrett County so one of the defendants could confront a local man about remarks allegedly made about a mutual female acquaintance. There was no evidence that Smith actively participated in any assault, according to the state's attorney.

Christopher Joel Wilt, 18, Grantsville, was sentenced last week by Sherbin to 30 days in jail. Wilt was arrested early this year after having allegedly disposed of property stolen from G&W Lumber in Accident during a burglary at that business. The incident took place on Jan. 13, according to the report. Wilt pleaded guilty to the charge of possession of stolen property.

Fourth Annual America Recycles Day Is Nov. 15

The Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling is joining thousands of other recyclers across the United States in celebrating the fourth annual America Recycles Day on Wednesday, Nov. 15. The theme of this year's event is "Recycling makes a difference for your family and the world."

America Recycles Day promotes recycling and buying products made of recycled materials.

"We can keep recycling working by buying products made from the materials we separate for recycling," said Gary Love, director of the local office. "You can find these products easily when you shop for groceries, hardware, auto parts, office supplies, and more. Read product labels and look for the highest percentage of recycled content, especially post-consumer recycled content."

Local residents can take part in America Recycles Day by pledging to step up their efforts to recycle and buy recycled. By making pledges, Americans 18 and older will become eligible to win the "American Green Dream House," a new home built with high-quality recycled products and energy-efficient materials on a site chosen by the winner. Those under the age of 18 who complete a pledge card are eligible to win a trip to Disney World. The winners will be chosen in a random drawing of the cards, which will take place on Dec. 20.

America Recycles Day pledge cards can be obtained at the Garrett County landfill and at all six refuse collection sites. They are also available by calling the office of solid waste and recycling at 301-387-0322. Persons may also pledge on line at www.americarecyclesday.org. The local office can also receive e-mail at gcsw@gcnet.net.

America Recycles Day is organized by a public-private partnership. Official national sponsors include the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Remanufactured Products, 100% Recycled Paperboard Alliance, the U.S. Postal Service, Waste Management, Home Depot, Rechargeable Battery Recycling Corp., the National Soft Drink Association, Ford Motor Company, Buy Recycled Business Alliance, and the Steel Recycling Institute.

LOCAL REPORTER RECEIVES STATE HONOR - Special Olympics Maryland held its 2000 Sports Leadership Conference and awards luncheon Saturday at the Maritime Institute of Technology in Baltimore, and a Garrett County reporter received the Mary Vane Memorial Award for Outstanding Media. Peggy Santamaria, who is a writer/reporter for The Republican newspaper, was named the recipient of that award, which is given for providing "the best example of extensive, accurate recording of Special Olympics at the area, city, county, or state level." Santamaria, who has been employed by Sincell Publishing Company for four years, is pictured above with Jason Schriml, district director of Special Olympics Maryland, left, and Chad Brown, director of Garrett County Special Olympics.

Tax Limit

ously established at 10% for Garrett County.

The result of this action by the commissioners reduces the rate of property tax increases for homeowners in Garrett County to 5%, or a reduction of one-half of the previous rate limit. Homeowners will be given credit and will pay no property tax on the assessment increase, which is above this limit each year.

Chairman Wendell Beitzel took the initiative to reduce the rate after the commissioners received a recommendation from a homeowner concerned about a large increase on real property taxes.

"The annual rate of inflation has been much less than 5% over the past 10 years, and a 10% or even 5% increase of property tax is often difficult to accept for many homeowners paying mortgages and maintaining their homes," stated Beitzel. "Homeowners already shoulder a large portion of costs of providing government services in the county through payment of real property taxes. Additionally, holding the line on homeowner taxes may encourage more people to make this county their retirement home, which will provide additional income tax that should offset any loss of revenue from the reduction of the homeowner tax credit."

Commissioner Ernest Gregg was also supportive of this initiative and said the action will encourage more people to keep their primary residences in Garrett County and will make the county more affordable for people to own their homes.

"This action sends the proper message that county government is committed to holding down homeowners' property taxes," Gregg said.

The local government will grant the tax credit when calculating the real property tax bill for the tax year beginning on July 1, 2001. The credit will be automatically granted to all eligible homeowners. No application is required to receive this tax credit.

sheriff's K-9 unit and an Oakland city police officer soon to arrive, the deputy opted to take the passenger, who had remained on the scene, into custody rather than risk a foot chase. A K-9 track into the woods proved unsuccessful, but officers were able to learn that the vehicle reportedly belonged to Meier, who was located later in the week and arrested on charges of fleeing and eluding, unsafe lane changing, reckless driving, speeding, negligent driving, passing in a no passing zone, driving left of center, driving on a revoked license, driving on a suspended license, operating an unregistered vehicle, and displaying tags for another vehicle.

Meier was released from the Garrett County Detention Center after posting a $2,500 bond as set by a district court commissioner.

DWI Arrests

Several driving while intoxicated (DWI) and/or driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs arrests were made by sheriff's deputies this week. Charged were: Harold Roger Markley, 52, Timothy Smith, 47, Jeffrey Lee Flanigan, 40, and Billy Joe McCartney, 22, all of Oakland, and Kenneth James Murphy, 20, Deer Park.

Healthy-O-Living in Garrett County

ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE was the topic of a training offered to the staff at Rob Michael's State Farm Insurance office. In the photo above, Donna McClintock of the Garrett County Health Department (standing) speaks to Michael, Amy Hartung-Jones, Paula Redinger, and Diana Everd about the symptoms of Alzheimer's disease.

Learning How To Work With Aging Clients

by Peggy Santamaria

Business owners in a rural area may find over time that they have served several generations of the same family in their community. They have the opportunity to see customers and clients raise young children, who themselves become parents. And they see the effects of aging as clients pass from middle into later years.

Rob Michael, who owns and operates a State Farm Insurance office in Oakland, reflected recently on the changes he has seen in the 25 years or so that he has been serving customers in Garrett County. Infants born to newly wed clients have grown up, come in to get their own auto insurance, and later returned to upgrade the policy when they married.

"Many of our clients are aging. The man I sold a policy to when he was 50 is now 75 years old," he noted, adding that for some, the aging process has been accompanied by memory impairment.

Michael said that he and his staff were encountering similar problems with several of their clients. "I have noticed clients repeating conversations to me. They may call and tell me something and a little while later tell me the same thing again," said Amy Hartung-Jones.

Paula Redinger commented on incidents in which a client would not remember what he or she was told about a policy and would deny having ever been told about it.

Michael decided to take a proactive step and get some education about Alzheimer's disease for himself and his staff. "I contacted Donna McClintock at the health department and asked her if she would give us a training session here at the office," he said.

McClintock, who oversees the Adult Evaluation Services and facilitates the Garrett County Alzheimer's support group, agreed to offer an informal seminar at the State Farm office.

"It was very helpful. I think any business that deals with the public could benefit from this kind of training," Redinger noted. Hartung-Jones pointed out that after the training she better understood how to interact with a client who is presenting symptoms of memory problems. "I realize that when a client says 'You never told me that,' I should not argue the point," she explained.

McClintock's training included general information on Alzheimer's disease and its symptoms as well as some tips on dealing with a person who is presenting such symptoms. "Keeping statements simple is one key factor. You don't want to give a lot of information at one time," she said.

Any business owner who would like to arrange such a training may contact McClintock at 301-334-8253 or 301-895-3113.

Sharing Pain Of Mental Illness: A Personal Story

Mtn. Top Mental Health Associates Inc.

The Families Subcommittee of the Mountain Top Mental Health Associates Inc. (MTMHA), which continues to learn from those who have mentally ill family members, asks that persons who have experienced mental illness themselves or through a loved one share their stories. Confidentiality is assured, and every effort will be made to help families resolve problems.

The Experience of Manic-Depressive Illness

There is a particular kind of pain, elation, loneliness, and terror involved in this kind of madness. When you're high it's tremendous. The ideas and feelings are fast and frequent like shooting stars, and you follow them until you find better and brighter ones. Shyness goes, the right words and gestures are suddenly there — the power to seduce and captivate others a felt certainty.

There are interests found in uninteresting people. Sensuality is pervasive, and the desire to seduce and be seduced irresistible. Feelings of ease, intensity, power, well-being, financial omnipotence, and euphoria now pervade one's marrow.

But somewhere, this changes. The fast ideas are far too fast and there are far too many; overwhelming confusion replaces clarity. Memory goes. Humor and absorption on friends' faces are replaced by fear and concern. Everything previously moving with the grain is now against — you are irritable, angry, frightened, uncontrollable, and enmeshed totally in the blackest caves of the mind. You never knew those caves were there. It will never end.

Madness carves its own reality. It goes on and on and finally there are only others' recollections of your behavior — your bizarre, frenetic, aimless behaviors — for mania has at least some grace in partially obliterating memories. What then, after the medications, psychiatrist, despair, depression and overdose?

All those incredible feelings to sort through...Who is being too polite so say what? Who knows what? What did I do? Why? And, most hauntingly, when will it happen again?

Then, too, are the annoyances — medicine to take, resent, forget, take, resent and forget, but always to take. Credit cards revoked, bounced checks to cover, explanations due at work, apologies to make, intermittent memories of vague men (what did I do?), friendships gone or drained, a ruined marriage. And always, when will it happen again?

Which of my feelings are real? Which of the me's is me? The wild, impulsive, chaotic, energetic, and crazy one? Or the shy, withdrawn desperate, suicidal, doomed, and tired one? Probably a bit of both, hopefully much that is neither.

Virginia Woolf, in her dives and climbs, said it all: "How far do our feelings take their colour from the dive underground? I mean, what is the reality of any feeling?"

People Sought To "Share Holiday" With Frail Elderly

"Share the Holiday" will again offer an opportunity for people to set aside a serving of a holiday dinner for a frail elderly neighbor in the community. This project, sponsored by Community Action's Area Agency on Aging (AAA), is accepting volunteers to take a Thanksgiving meal to a homebound senior who is without family.

Adina Brode, AAA director, explained the project. "Volunteers share the holiday by packaging a meal from their Thanksgiving table and delivering it to a homebound senior identified by the AAA."

The seniors identified live alone, are frail, medically unstable, and/or at nutritional risk. Occasionally the AAA will designate a couple in need of the service because they are both frail and medically/nutritionally needy.

Brode described the benefits of the project as multifaceted. "First, it provides a nutritious home-prepared meal to a senior in need; second, it addresses an emotional need of an individual who is isolated due to health and age; third, it provides a sense of satisfaction and fulfillment for the volunteer, who, for so little effort, reaps a priceless reward," she said.

Anyone wishing to participate in Share the Holiday may call 301-334-9431 or 888-877-8403 prior to November 17.

Great American Smokeout Slated Next Thursday

The American Cancer Society will host the 24th Great American Smokeout, next Thursday, Nov. 16. During that 24-hour period, the ACS said it hopes to help millions of smokers "kick the habit" and reinforce to young people the importance of never starting to smoke.

The Smokeout is the ACS's annual, nationally recognized day when smokers are asked to put down their cigarettes, cigars, spit tobacco, or any tobacco product for 24 hours. A spokesman for the ACS said that approximately 70 percent of smokers want to quit smoking. "Since the event began in 1977, the promise of an addiction-free life has encouraged many smokers to join the Great American Smokeout and live a day without tobacco," he said.

In 1999, 21 percent of smokers (over 10 million Americans) participated in the Great American Smokeout. Of those participants, 11 percent reported that they were smoking less or not at all one to five days later. "The 1999 Smokeout helped over 1.1 million people to a tobacco-free existence," the spokesman noted.

The ACS is working to prevent young people from becoming smokers. "More than 88 percent of current adult smokers started before they were 18 years old. The American Cancer Society, through the Great American Smokeout, hopes to communicate to young people the social disadvantages of smoking and provide them with the tools to recognize and avoid negative social influences," he concluded.

For more information on the Great American Smokeout and events in the area, persons may call the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345 or visit the web site at www.cancer.org.

Alzheimer's Assn. Offers Handbook

Home for the Holidays, a handbook developed for caregivers of loved ones with Alzheimer's disease, offers ways to help cope with the many challenges of maintaining a "happy home" during the holiday season. The handbook includes creative tips and practical advice on balancing one's needs as a caregiver, an individual, and a family member.

"For many, the holiday season is a time filled with loving family and friends, laughter and reminiscing, happiness and joy. Caring for a loved one with Alzheimer's disease can change those once special times into times of stress, frustration and loneliness," said a spokesman.

To request a free copy of Home for the Holidays, or other information about Alzheimer's disease or caregiving, persons may call the Alzheimer's Association at 800-696-6830.

New Test Can Help Diagnose Sleep Problems

Garrett County Memorial Hospital Mobile Medical Services now offers a new service that can help diagnose sleeping problems.

Through a procedure called an overnight saturation study, the amount of oxygen carried in the blood throughout the night can be monitored. Patients are connected to a device by a simple clip placed on the finger. The compact device gathers data throughout the night that is then downloaded to a computer at the hospital. Once downloaded, the Mobile Medical Staff at GCMH can analyze the amount of oxygen being carried through the blood while a person is sleeping, and forward the report to the patient's physician.

A lack of oxygen saturation can be a sign of obstructive sleep apnea (OSA), according to a GCMH spokesperson. This condition can have symptoms such as excessive snoring, waking up feeling unrested, or waking up with a headache. Doctors who suspect a patient's oxygen level is dropping at night can order an overnight saturation study at GCMH. If the study indicates the need for a full-scale sleep study, the physician would make the appropriate referral to a sleep center or other facility.

Eric Tribbey, director of Cardiopulmonary/Mobile Medical Services, said, "Medical experts claim that, in America, OSA is as common as diabetes."

The overnight saturation study is available through the hospital's Mobile Medical Services and does require a physician's order. Persons who believe they may be experiencing some of the symptoms of OSA are encouraged to contact their physician to see if an overnight saturation study can help.

CHARLIE'S ANGELS

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:38 - Released 11/3/00

For a movie that gets its inspiration from one of the cheesiest television shows of the extra-cheesy 1970s, Charlie's Angels is surprisingly cool. It's not too intelligent, and it doesn't try to be, and I think that's what makes the film so much better than its overrated small-screen predecessor. Written by Ryan Rowe, Ed Solomon, and John August, based on the TV show premise by the late Ivan Goff and the late Ben Roberts, and directed by freshman Joseph McGinty Mitchell under the moniker McG, Charlie's Angels stars Cameron Diaz, Drew Barrymore, and Lucy Liu as three crime fighters who are also martial arts experts, crack investigators, and all-around fabulous babes, working for a mysterious, wealthy gentleman they've never seen named Charlie (still the voice of John Forsythe), assisted by a bumbling-but-lovable sidekick named Bosley (Bill Murray).

McG's film does not fail to incorporate the blatant T&A sexism that made the show famous, with the girls parading around in everything from bikinis to Spiderman underoos to nothing at all, and campy humor wisely sprinkled in between the Bond-style action sequences. Sometimes the humor gets a little broad (pardon the pun) for its own good, but for the most part McG's movie brings the beautiful crime-fighting trio back to life with exuberance and genuine fun, including cameos and supporting performances by players like Tim Curry, Matt LeBlanc, Tom Green, and L L Cool J.

After the film begins with a spectacular airborne action sequence introducing the ladies and their many stunt doubles, we get down to the angels' first mission: as we hear from Charlie's voice over the '70s-style speaker-phone, Eric Knox (Sam Rockwell), a wealthy computer programming mogul, has been kidnapped by the evil and powerful Roger Corwin (Curry), and they must infiltrate Corwin's impenetrable lair to rescue him, with the help of Knox's partner, Vivian Wood (Kelly Lynch). But it's soon clear that things are not what they seem. With the help of a "creepy thin man" (the creepy and thin Crispin Glover), Knox kidnaps Bosley and attempts to kill the angels. Tossing their hair vigorously, they realize he and Vivian are working together to get at Charlie, and they jiggle bouncily into action to rectify the situation.

This film's writing team has crafted a fun sendup of the show that took itself so seriously it fell apart, wisely interspersing the action-oriented plot with a tongue-in-cheek silliness reminiscent more of Austin Powers than James Bond. Director McG also avails himself of the industry's best in special effects, however, incorporating huge fireball explosions, fast car chases, Power Rangers-style martial arts battles, and numerous disguises, even including making two of them up as men (Diaz looks like David Byrne; Barrymore looks like an amalgamation of John Lennon & Paul McCartney). The three women who play the angels obviously had a hell of a lot of fun, with Barrymore radiating sex, Diaz steeped in wide-eyed innocence, and Liu as the ice queen with all the moves but no cooking ability. Bill Murray is amusing but underused as Bosley, and Luke Wilson, Friends's LeBlanc, and wacky MTV guy Green all acquit themselves nicely in small roles as the girls' boyfriends. Tim Curry is quite amusing as the overblown villain, but Rockwell and Lynch are not quite as effective as the real bad guys, perhaps because they are not allowed to join in the film's campy humor. Finally, as has become an industry staple, the credits include out-takes and generally goofy behavior by all. In the end, Charlie's Angels is brainlessly fun, just like its characters. ★★★★

THE LEGEND OF BAGGER VANCE

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:07 - Released 11/3/00

The word "legend" in the title of The Legend Of Bagger Vance suggests mythical implications. This seems increasingly typical of director Robert Redford, whose films have often attempted to affix undue significance to subjects like...sports. Just look at his directing career so far: of his six films, three of them have been sports fairy tales. Before this reverential opus on the spiritual implications of golf, Redford helmed A River Runs Through It (fly-fishing) and The Horse Whisperer (equestrian), and if you count films he's starred in, you can include The Natural (baseball), The Electric Horseman (rodeo), and The Great Waldo Pepper (stunt flying). This guy is second only to Kevin Costner in his fixation on athletic myth.

I don't know how successful Steven Pressfield's novel is at conveying the importance of a down-and-out-golfer who finds his game with the help of a supernatural caddy, but Jeremy Leven's screenplay and Redford's direction failed to convince me. The movie does contain some heartfelt performances, especially by Will Smith as the titular Bagger, and tons of Redford's trademark scenery. But beautiful sunsets and fog-filled glens, and even good acting, can't make this film as important as it wants to be.

The story, which takes place in the early 1930s, involves a young golfer from Savannah, Ga., named Rannulph Junuh (Matt Damon), the winner of the 1916 Georgia Open who faded into anonymity after suffering a horrifying experience in World War I. Following his return home from Europe, Junuh abandoned not only his golf career, but also his pre-war lover, the wealthy Adele Invergordon (Charlize Theron). Ten years later, when the Depression hits, the suicide of Adele's father (and her inheritance of his huge outstanding debt) forces her to host a golf tournament at his newly completed resort in order to raise money. Inviting the nation's two top golf stars, Bobby Jones (Joel Gretsch) and Walter Hagen (Bruce McGill), Adele promises a $10,000 purse to the winner, but her local investors insist that Savannah be represented in the match, and so an effort is made to convince Junuh to participate.

While he is practicing drives at night, a stranger appears out of the darkness named Bagger Vance (Smith), who promptly begins making snide comments about Junuh's swing and offering sage advice on how to improve it. Surprisingly not kicking this sarcastic stranger off his property, Junuh hires Bagger as his caddy. The rest of the film follows the two-day, 72-hole tournament, with Junuh attempting to compete against the two reigning kings of the sport as well as exorcise his own personal demons, Bagger offering everything from snide comments to sage advice, and a starstruck boy named Hardy Greaves (newcomer J. Michael Moncrief) following along in hushed wonderment.

With all its romantic visuals, sweeping music, and grand trappings of the period, not to mention that it is narrated by Jack Lemmon (as the elderly Hardy Greaves), The Legend Of Bagger Vance seems like a vastly significant story. But it isn't. All the way through the film, I couldn't help thinking, what's the big deal? It's just golf, folks. Redford actually overuses the scenic element, if that's possible, as if throwing in a picture postcard every 5 minutes will compensate for the lack of meaning in the plot. Damon and Theron spend most of the film at odds; their chemistry doesn't exactly sparkle, and young Moncrief is adequate but not outstanding. Smith is warm and personable; his character is in a way more sympathetic than Damon's, which should really not be the case. Damon, who has mused on the pressure of playing a role Redford himself had originally planned to play, does as good a job as is called for, but the script just doesn't hold up to Redford's overindulgent directing style. Moreover, since much of the film all takes place during one two-day tournament, the requisite ups and downs that are inherent in any sports movie must be compressed accordingly. On this hole Junuh's behind, on that hole he's ahead, here he bogies, now he birdies... it's not unlike watching golf on TV, except everyone's in period dress.

With its release being timed as it is, I'm sure Bagger's producers (of which Redford is one) will be hoping for Oscar nominations. While it may be picked for costumes or cinematography, I can't imagine it getting a best picture nod without something more to say. ★★★½

Veterans Affairs Forms Accessible Via Internet

Veterans can now apply for benefits and health care on-line with the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA). Two new systems will allow veterans quick, easy, and secure access to apply for compensation, pension, rehabilitation benefits and health care.

"This is the first step toward an electronic VA," said acting secretary of Veterans Affairs Hershel W. Gober. "We will use the best in the business world and the latest in the high technology sector to deliver world-class benefits and care to veterans. That's a promise."

To apply for health care, veterans can fill out and submit an Internet-based 10-10 EZ application available today for the first time nationwide. Initially tested at 30 VA facilities, the 10-10 EZ is automatically e-mailed to the VA health care facility selected by the veteran. VA employees register the data, print the form, and mail it back to the veteran for signature. Veterans can also print out the completed form and mail it to a VA health care facility themselves.

SPANISH VISITORS TOUR GCC — The international flavor of Garrett Community College may be taking a Spanish turn in the near future, as visitors from Spain toured the campus and spoke of an interest in establishing an exchange program in the future. Shown from the left are Darlene Reed, coordinator of the GCC Center for Global Education; Stanley P. Smith, resident of both Oakland and Marbella, Spain; Doug Reams, current GCC student; and Spanish visitors Sonia Vazquez Sanchez, physical education teacher at a Granada high school, and Carlos Garcia Garcia, owner of a shoe shop and student at the language center in Marbella.

Spaniards' Visit Sparks Exchange Plan Discussions

The possibility of a Garrett Community College exchange program with Spain came up for discussed during a recent visit of Stanley P. Smith and his guests to the GCC campus. Smith lives most of the year at his home in Marbella, Spain, but maintains a home in Oakland, which he visits at least once a year.

Smith recently spent several weeks showing his guests around Garrett County, and also touring Annapolis, Baltimore, and Washington. Sonia Vazquez Sanchez, a physical education teacher at a high school in Granada, and Carlos Garcia Garcia, a business owner who is a student at the Language Center in Marbella, both agreed that they "love America."

The GCC visit was arranged by Doug Reams, a student at the college, and friend of Smith. The group was given a tour of the campus by Darlene Reed, coordinator of global education, and they met with Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of academic and student affairs; Dr. Nancy Priselac, coordinator of mathematics; and Joan Crawford, director of enrollment development.

During the conversation with college administrators, Smith expressed an interest in establishing an exchange program with GCC, saying that his home in Garrett County would be available to house exchange students. Such a program would add a new dimension to the global education program already in place with the country of Estonia and with the University of Maryland University College campus at Schwabisch Gmund, Germany, Reed said, and would provide further opportunity for GCC students to study abroad.

In addition to seeing the campus and facilities of the college, the visitors took part in an adventure sport activity when AVS student Greg Bentzel led them on a rock climbing expedition at nearby Cooper's Rock, W.Va.

ply for compensation, pension, and vocational rehabilitation benefits through the Internet. Completed applications are sent electronically to the veteran's local VA office. Processing begins right away and veterans receive a response letting them know the status of their applications.

"Of course, security is of paramount importance," said Gober. "These forms are individually encrypted, ensuring the privacy of veterans' personal data. This is part of VA's approach to department-wide security planning and management."

Later this year, VA plans to offer education applications on the Internet. Currently, veterans attending school under the Montgomery GI Bill can make their monthly certification of enrollment at www.gibill.va.gov.

Along with 10-10 EZ and VONAPP, VA has redesigned its Web page. "When veterans access www.va.gov, there will be no doubt that the focus and content reflects the department's commitment to veterans," said Gober. "The new design makes it easy to find information, as well as on-line applications."

VA aims to eventually put all its health care and benefits applications on-line; however, veterans are not required to apply on-line and can continue to use paper applications. To download other VA applications users can consult the site www.va.gov/forms.

"On-line applications, by coding for medications, computerized record systems, telemedicine, and, in the near future — 'Smart Cards' — are all examples of VA developing information technology on par, and often ahead of, the rest of the country," said Gober.

Interested persons can access Internet applications athttp://vabenefits.vba.va.gov/.

Wal-Mart Grant Assisting BBBS With Recruiting

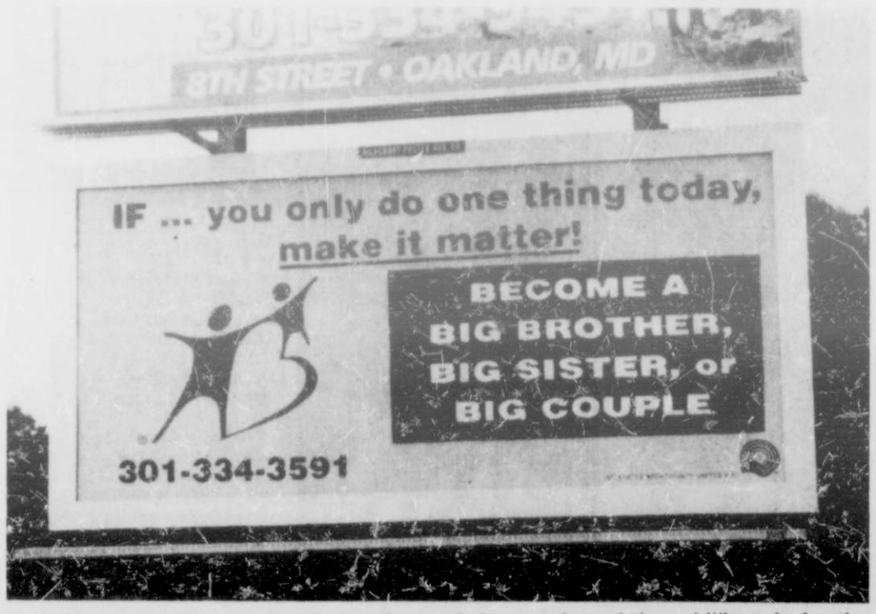
Three billboards located in the southern end of Garrett County have been financed via a grant from Wal-Mart of LaVale. The goal of the billboards is to recruit more volunteers for Big Brothers Big Sisters and create community awareness of the organization.

The two billboards which have already been erected are located along U.S. Rt. 219 near McHenry and along Rt. 135 past Loch Lynn. A third will be placed in downtown Oakland near Shaffer Ford Sales. Big Brothers and "Big Couples" are especially needed in these areas, as well as in the Grantsville, Friendsville, Kitzmiller, and Bloomington areas, according to Jo-Ann Fletcher, county coordinator of BBBS.

Big Brothers Big Sisters is the leading youth mentoring agency in the country, having been established in the United States for over 90 years, and has been in Garrett County since 1990. Its service is based on developing one-on-one relationships between adult volunteers and a child considered at risk. Volunteers serve as friends, mentors, and role models, helping children gain greater self-confidence and reach their full potential, and helping them see themselves as having happy and successful futures, Fletcher explained.

Volunteers have a choice in working with youth and children. They can either be community (core) volunteers as a Big Brother, Big Sister, or Big Couple; or they may choose to be a school-based mentor, called a Lunch Buddy. Mentors and children are in the process of being interviewed for the latter program at Dennett Road Elementary School, while plans are formulating to extend the Lunch Buddy program to Accident Elementary also. The billboards' aim is to recruit volunteers for both the community and school-based programs, according to Fletcher.

For more information, Big Brothers Big Sisters can be reached at 301-334-3591 or 800-400-0735.



A GRANT FROM WAL-MART has financed the erection of three billboards for the benefit of the Big Brothers Big Sisters organization. Two of the three are already in place, one along U.S. Rt. 219 near McHenry and one along Md. Rt. 135 near Mtn. Lake Park. A third will be placed in Oakland. See story for details.

Cub Scouts To Hold Food Drive

Cub Scout Pack 31 of Oakland will be holding its annual Scouting For Food drive this Saturday, Nov. 11. Scouts will be at the Farmer's Market in Oakland to collect donations from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Donations will go to the House of Hope food pantry.

All nonperishable items will be accepted. There is a need for dry goods, canned food (other than vegetables), and toiletries. Anyone wishing to make a donation may bring it to the Farmer's Market or call Tina at 301-334-5295 to arrange pick-up.

Md. Prepaid College Trust Goes On-line

The Maryland Prepaid College Trust has announced that parents, grandparents, or anyone interested in saving for the future college education of a child can now complete the entire enrollment process on-line through the state agency's web site at www.prepaid.usmd.edu.

With the start of the current enrollment period, which continues through February 28, the Trust has been placing more focus on the web site as a one-step resource. Web site visitors can access information, download enrollment materials, e-mail specific questions or requests, and find county-by-county listings of the Parent Information Nights sponsored by school districts and the Trust statewide. The site is continually updated to provide visitors with the latest legislative changes, or program enhancements made by the Maryland Higher Education Investment Board, which oversees the Trust.

The Maryland Prepaid College Trust is designed to make college more affordable, and is open to all children — newborn to tenth graders — provided either the child or the purchaser is a resident of Maryland or the District of Columbia. When enrolling in the Trust, parents, grandparents, or others are purchasing a contract based on the current cost of tuition and mandatory fees at Maryland's public colleges.

When the child goes to college in the future, the Trust will pay the full in-state tuition and mandatory fees at any Maryland public college, regardless of how much these may have increased over the years. If the child opts to attend a private or out-of-state college, the Trust will pay that year's weighted-average tuition, based on the cost and enrollment at Maryland's public colleges.

Backed by a Maryland legislative gurantee, the Trust also offers significant federal and state tax benefits.

DCL Board Sets Meeting

The Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board will meet at 7 p.m. Monday, Nov. 13, at the Deep Creek Lake State Park Discovery Center.

The meeting's agenda includes a report by Department of Natural Resources' staff regarding options for the management of larger tour boats on the lake. Bob Browning of Deep Creek Lake Outfitters has requested permission to place a tour boat approximately 62 feet in length on the lake for the 2001 summer recreational season. The boating regulations for Deep Creek Lake would need to be changed to accommodate his request.

The second agenda item will deal with issue identification by the board in preparation for the development of the Recreation and Land Use Plan for Deep Creek Lake. The plan will be used to guide DNR's management of the lake in the future.

Board meetings are open to the public, and all interested citizens can provide input and public comments. Further information can be obtained by calling DCL State Park manager Paul Durham at 301-387-4111.

YOU SHOULD CHOOSE ONE PHARMACY

Because today's medicines are so much more potent and so much more specific, it has become very important that a family choose one pharmacy to fill all their drug needs for both prescription and non-prescription drugs. A family should "shop" for a pharmacy they feel comfortable with in much the same manner they "shop" for a physician or dentist.

We hope you will choose our pharmacy for your family. We are dedicated to your better health and concentrate our efforts toward achieving this goal.

Some were young, having never before left the security of home. Others were older, raising families and engaged in established occupations. Yet, each had a common denominator. All of those brave men and women put a halt to their lives as they knew them, left familiarity behind, and traveled to foreign shores, risking their lives to protect our concept of democracy. Inevitably, many died for this noble cause.

Each time we cast our ballot...every Sabbath as we worship in the church or synagogue of our choice... whenever we express a political opinion without fear or reprisal, let us remember the months and years sacrificed by our veterans as they defended the rights which we enjoy today.

As Veteran's Day approaches, may we honor the selfless men and women who have paid with a portion of their lives that ours might be free.

WHAT WILL YOU LEAVE ME?

November 12, 2000

Background Scripture:
1 Kings 2:1-4; 3:1-15; 1 Chronicles 29:22-25; 2 Chronicles 1:1-13.
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 119:101-9.

In David's life there came the time that comes to all of us. After a reign of 40 years, the man whom God anointed to be king over Israel was facing the hour of death. He had built up a strong kingdom and accumulated much wealth. We can imagine that some of David's heirs were already wondering what their rich and powerful father would leave to them. One of David's sons, Abiathar had already tried a power play to seize the throne for himself, a ploy which Solomon's mother, Bathsheba, had quashed.

David, however, had something even more important to give Solomon than riches and power, the essence of what his father had learned over the years. David charged his son: "Be strong and show yourself a man, and keep the charge of the Lord your God, walking in his ways and keeping his statutes, his commandments, his ordinances, and his testimonies...that you may prosper in all that you do wherever you turn that the Lord may establish his word which he spoke concerning me, 'If you sons take heed to their way, to walk before me in faithfulness with all their heart and with all their soul, there shall not fail you a man on the throne of Israel'" (1 Kings 2:1-4).

It seems sad to me that, although we pass on to our children and the coming generations much in the way of material wealth, we are much less likely to pass on to them what we have learned. Perhaps that is because, despite the longevity of our lives, we think that we haven't learned all that much. Or perhaps we do not value spiritual advice as much as material goods. I wish that I could leave each of my children with a nest egg amount that would provide them with help in buying a house. The chances for that are not very great, but I can actually leave them something more important: what I have learned.

Walking In His Ways

David's advice to his son is simple and straightforward: "Be strong and show yourself a man, and keep the charge of the Lord your God, walking in his ways and keeping his statutes, his commandments, his ordinances, and his testimonies, as it is written in the law of Moses, that you may prosper in all that you do and wherever you turn' that the Lord may establish his word which he spoke concerning me, saying, 'If your sons take heed to their way, to walk before me in faithfulness with all their heart and with all their soul, there shall not fail you a man on the throne of Israel'" (1 Kings 2:2-4). What had David learned from which Solomon, his son, might profit? David had personally experienced the goodness of God who permitted him to prosper and grow as King of Israel when he kept the charge of God and walked in his ways. If you go with God, he is saying, and follow his lead, you cannot fail as King of Israel. Unspoken, but at least implied, is the fact that, although David had also learned much through success, he had also learned through failure, with which he had much experience also. When he arrogantly abused his power and sinned with Bathsheba, plotting for the demise of Uriah, her husband, David had experienced the judgement as well as the forgiveness of God. In the midst of all his terrible travail with his son Absalom, he had found God's presence the only means of living through this terrible time.

So now, David died and "slept with his fathers" and Solomon at last succeeded to the throne, although not without some struggle. Then, while at Gibeon, a place of worship, he had a dream in which God came to him and asked, "Ask what I shall give you?" (3:5). Solomon replies by first thanking and praising God for his "great and steadfast love to thy servant David, my father." He also thanks the Lord for putting him on his father's throne. If Solomon's words were sincere, this is a humble prayer: "...thou hast made thy servant king in place of David my father, although I am but a little child; I do not know how to go out or come in. And thy servant is in the midst of thy people whom thou hast chosen, a great people, that cannot be numbered or counted for multitude" (3:7,8). (Later in his life, Solomon would be arrogant, not humble, but I take his words here at face value.)

Bequeathing Wisdom

It is in this continuing state of humility that Solomon now answers God's request to "Ask what I shall give to you." "Give thy servant, therefore," he prays, "an understanding mind to govern thy people, that I may discern between good and evil, for who is able to govern this thy great people?" (3:9). God is favorably impressed with Solomon's attitude and responds, telling him that because he asked nothing for himself, "long life or riches or the life of your enemies," he will give him what he asks for, "a wise and discerning mind," unequaled by anyone who lived before him or will come after him. Apparently, Solomon was thus gifted and his enduring reputation is that of the "wisdom of Solomon"—although as the latter parts of his story will show, he didn't always exercise that wisdom.

The story of Solomon's ascension to the throne also tells us something more about what God bequeaths to his obedient and faithful children: God said to Solomon, "I give you also what you have not asked, both riches and honor, so that no other kind shall compare with you, all your days" (3:13). It reminds us that Jesus taught his disciples, "Instead, seek his kingdom, and these things shall be yours as well" (Lk. 12:31). That doesn't mean we will inherit Solomon's riches nor his prominence, but, that if we walk closely with him, the Lord will give us all we really need. I like the way C.S. Lewis paraphrases this: "Aim at Heaven and you will get earth 'thrown in'; aim at earth and you will get neither."

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Michael S. Phillippi, son of Dawn E. and Michael E. Phillippi of McHenry, is currently halfway through a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea and Arabian Gulf while assigned to the destroyer USS Briscoe, home ported in Norfolk, Va.

Phillippi's ship participated in several multi-national exercises, including Veritas VI. These exercises focused on developing friendship, trust, and teamwork between coalition nations and increased their combined military readiness for contingency operations. While participating in Veritas VI, an aircrew from USS Briscoe rescued 12 Moroccans adrift at sea.

Phillippi's ship visited cities in Israel and Spain, where sailors had the opportunity to shop, sightsee, and enjoy the local culture and cuisine. Crewmembers also participated in community relations projects.

According to a Navy spokesperson, destroyers like Phillippi's ship have traditionally been the workhorses of the U.S. Navy, defending battle groups against threats from land, air, and above and below the sea. Equipped with Tomahawk cruise missiles, harpoon anti-ship missiles, and Sea Sparrow Missiles, USS Briscoe is capable of hitting enemy targets hundreds of miles away. In addition, Phillippi's ship carries two helicopters with sonar and torpedo capabilities, expanding the ship's reach.

Phillippi is a 1991 graduate of Southern Garrett High School, and joined the Navy in February 1992.

U.S. Navy Lt. Scott C. Luers, son of Jane S. King of Keymar and Robert F. Luers of Swanton, is halfway through a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea and Arabian Gulf while assigned to the attack submarine USS Albany, home ported in Norfolk, Va.

During the deployment, Luers' submarine is defending U.S. policy and supporting international interests in the Middle East and Europe.

According to a Navy spokesperson, Luers' submarine is one of the most sophisticated in the world. Equipped with torpedoes, harpoon anti-ship missiles, Tomahawk cruise missiles, and mines, the warship can provide surveillance and intelligence, support special operations, and launch missiles at enemy ships or land targets.

Luers is a 1991 graduate of Westminster High School, and joined the Navy in May 1995. He is a 1995 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy, with a B.S. degree.

TALL TALES TOLD - The 10th Tall Tale Story and Book Festival, part of the Autumn Glory celebration, was described as a "success" by coordinator Dr. Gail Herman. Following the elementary and middle school students, the adult story-tellers took their turns at the microphone and spun yarns, shared true adventures, and one even sang a tale. The narratives ranged from a harrowing survival story, set in the Donner Pass of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, to an account discovering diamonds in Garrett County. The judges of the story telling competition chose two first place winners: Joan Whetsell, for her humorous you-can't-please-all-the-people donkey tale, and Peggy Santamaria for her report on a morning spent with a bear cub. "Doc" Savage took first place as the most humorous for his yarn of the understated response to "Did anything happen while I was gone?" Prizes for the winners included a white-water rafting trip for two, compliments of Garrett Community College, a $50 U.S. savings bond, donated by First United Bank and Trust, and gifts contributed by local merchants. In the photo at left is Gordon Williams of Deep Creek Lake, whose whimsical rhymes won him the prize for the most poetic tale. At right is Whetsell of Addison, Pa., as she illustrates a point in her story.

Herman Takes Part In National Video Broadcast

Dr. Steve Herman, president of Garrett Community College, was one of three community college presidents who participated in a recent national telecast sponsored by the Rural Community College Initiative. Titled "Bridges to the New Economy," the program focused on "how community colleges can help span the digital divide in rural communities."

In his introduction, moderator John Johnson told the audience that 40 institutions from 24 different states were downlinking the program. He then introduced what he called "three success stories" from rural colleges.

Dr. Robert Templine, director of the Moreno Institute of Washington, D.C., spoke about rapid growth and rate of change in technology today, saying that jobs in technology are growing at twice the rate of other jobs in today's economy. He pointed to convergence as the next wave of telecommunications that will change the face of business. "Work will be anywhere," he said. "It is what you do, not where you are. We will constantly be reinventing our community colleges."

Herman's presentation included a brief video of Garrett County's scenic and natural resources, as well as a historical view of the "cyberage" in rural western Maryland and the surrounding region. He explained that the need for a telecommunications infrastructure and a trained workforce led to the establishment of the Garrett Rural Information Cooperative (GRIC) and then to the Information Advanced Technology Center at GCC. The proposed Garrett Information Enterprise Center, which will be built on the McHenry campus next year, will serve as an incubator for new, small, information intensive businesses, said Herman, who expressed his belief that new businesses will be attracted to Garrett County by the quality of life and four seasons environment.

Other community college spokespersons who related their success stories were Judith Pepper of La Plaza Community College near Taos, N.M., and Dr. Cecil Groves, president of Southwestern Community College in a sparsely populated area of North Carolina.

Thank You

I want to take this opportunity to try to thank all the wonderfully compassionate people who for this past year have overwhelmingly shown my family and me so much kindness. There are so many people, some known and many unknown, who have given us the greatest gift of all: the gift of love. The Lord speaks much on this subject. However, one point is very clear- we are to love one another. Your love for us brought prayer to help us. Your love brought food for us to eat. Your love brought kind and sincere words to comfort and encourage us. Your love understood our difficulties. Your love has supported us. When Rita's struggle was over, your love shared our pain, bore our grief, and gave us hope. Indeed, you have all met the requirement of loving one another. We, Matt and I and Rita's family, can never repay the debt we owe you. We can only humbly and sincerely , Thank You.

To the Editor:

Lately our public education system has cried out for more parent involvement in our schools, while at the same time undermining parents' authority via school policy. I was recently involved in a confrontation over such a policy. The disagreement centered around a county policy for "Administering Medicines to Students," which, like much of our legislation, punishes those it is meant to protect. My situation ended without satisfaction at the desk of Mr. Philip Lauver, supervisor of Pupil Services at the Garrett Co. Board of Education, who refused to yield to common sense.

After giving my son seven stitches, an emergency room doctor (Sacred Heart, Allegany Co.) prescribed an antibiotic and pain reliever to be taken every 6 hours. As a responsible parent, or so I thought, I sent one of each to school with my son along with a note to the school nurse indicating the type of medicines and when they should be administered. According to our board of education, this is not good enough. Citing a 19-year-old procedure and policy (recently updated by Dr. Lauver), both the school administrator and Dr. Lauver indicated that I should have obtained a signed document from the doctor indicating the type of medicine and how often to take it. I suppose that it was silly of me to think that a prescription from the doctor and a note from home would suffice. He further indicated that the doctor "should have known this."

Wait, it doesn't end there. According to the policy, the medicines must also come to school in the original container. Since I didn't obtain two prescription bottles for each medicine (which I "should have done"), the school nurse suggested that I "empty the prescriptions into something at home and send each pill in their respective containers." I questioned such a practice. How would I identify the medication? This idea was later supported by Dr. Lauver, who added, "You should know what they (medication outside of the original packaging) are when at home." I see...I'm too incompetent to tell the school nurse when to give my child prescribed medication, yet I'm intelligent enough to identify prescription medications when outside of the packaging?

As I write this letter, I wonder how bad his pain is today and if the infection is coming back, and if this makes Dr. Lauver happy. It's hard to believe our own Garrett County Board of Education lacks the common sense necessary to realize when a policy, intended to curb the use of drugs in school, actually increases the likelihood of undetected medications in our schools. The ridiculous over-regulation of prescription and over-the-counter medicines by our county's school system will surely lead to good parents, and good students, circumventing the system to avoid the "headaches" of making these medicines available during school hours. Let us not forget the fact that the Board of Education is directly undermining the authority and control of responsible parents in the futile attempt to control students who will find a way around their policy. As for the Board of Education and Dr. Lauver, it is obvious to me that you have lost touch with reality and can no longer see the forest for the trees.

Sincerely,
Greg Wilburn

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter as a tax-paying citizen of Garrett County. I have two school-age daughters who attend school at Grantsville Elementary School. I am very, very pleased with the education that they are receiving there. However, there is one thing that is upsetting me, and I'm quite sure that I'm not the only parent with school-age children who have the same thoughts as I.

On October 26, my children brought home a newsletter from Grantsville Elementary School. The letter was praising the Accelerated Reader Program, and went on to say that the school has more children than ever reading at or above their grade level. That is what every parent wants to hear about his/her children's school. Here is the part that got me angry. Since there are more children reading, the library is at a shortage of books.

What Grantsville Elementary School wants my children to do is go about the neighborhood, asking for monetary donations to help fund the school library. Yes, they really are to beg for money to fund something that my tax dollars should already be funding. They are not to ask for donations of used books, but ask for money to buy brand new ones. I have a very big problem with that. The county Board of Education did not have a shortage of money when it came to wiring each classroom at Grantsville Elementary School for Internet service, yet it doesn't budget enough money to make sure there are enough books in the library for the children to read! I would much rather know that there are enough books in the school's library to go around than to know that my 8-year-old daughter now knows more about computers than I.

This gets even better. Before I go any further, though, I want to make it clear that this is not intended to be a bashing of Linda Buckel, school principal, or any of the staff members. They are doing the best that they can with the money that they are allocated. However, the school and the PTO go out and ask for corporate and civic donations for such things as the school beautification project (a new sidewalk and shrubbery), and the fall festival that is held every year. Why is my child asked to go beg for money to buy books? In the past years my children have brought home fund-raisers to help buy toner for the copiers at school because the Board of Education did not budget enough money to cover a full year's cost of toner. This is ridiculous! I do not send my children to school to learn to be miniature solicitors or door-to-door salesmen; I send then to get an education.

Now today, October 30, my children brought home, yes, yet another fund-raiser. This one is for the PTO. With the other two non-school activities that my daughters are involved in, that brings the grand total to five things that my children have been asked to either sell or ask for money to fund within the past month. And that is five things each, for a total for 10 fund-raisers, that have entered my home. I have gotten to the point that I throw most of them away because it angers me so much that my children, and every other child in the area, are being used in a money-making racket. I totally understand that some fund-raising is normal, and even necessary. I'm just getting tired of every time I turn around, another fund-raiser has found its way into my home.

I think it's time that the Garrett County Board of Education takes a hard look at its budget, and really get back to the basics. Start allocating money for what's important — like reading and making sure that there are enough supplies at the school so the teachers can actually teach the children, and quit depending on the children who attend the school to make up the difference when there is a budget shortfall. I'm sure after thinking about it you would too.

Sincerely,
Heather Evans

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

For the fourth year, The Republican is asking for your help. Without it, many Garrett County children will go cold this winter.

Just what is The Republican Newspaper's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND?

The Republican newspaper's Warm the Children Fund is, basically, neighbors helping neighbors. We here at the paper are asking for monetary donations (tax deductible) from you, the readers. The collected funds will be used to purchase new winter clothing for Garrett County children in need. Because the newspaper administrates the program, there are no added fees or overhead costs. Every penny donated is used to buy the winter items.

How are needy children being identified?

A special core of volunteers is working right now to identify those in need this year. Those selected for applications will be receiving them soon. (Please do not call for the service. If you have been selected, you will soon be notified.)

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

Volunteers will take the families shopping either through the J.C. Penney catalog store in Oakland or at the Ames in Frostburg. The children, with the help of their parents, may select their own new coats, hats, sweaters, jeans, long johns, boots, or other needed winter items, spending up to $80 per child. Bobby Andersen and Bobbie Henderson, along with members of the Civic Club of Oakland, are coordinating the Penney's volunteers. Lisa Broadwater, the office manager of the newspaper's Grantsville location, is coordinating those who will shop at Ames.

How can I help?

We need two things: volunteers and donations. To volunteer as a shopper at Penney's, please call Bobby Andersen at 301-334-4459. To volunteer as a shopper at Ames, please call Lisa Broadwater at 301-895-5827 or 301-746-8223. For general information, you may call Mary McEwen, program coordinator, at 301-334-3963.

TV PIPELINE

Daly starred in Almost Grown, Wings

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Tim Daly

Q: Please help me with any information you may have about a late '80s series starring one of my favorites, Tim Daly. The very first episode featured him as a college disc jockey. –Alma D., Boynton Beach, Fla.

A: Alma, you're thinking of Almost Grown, a CBS drama that lasted only two months in the winter of 1988-89. Daly played Norman Foley, the program director of a rock radio station, who was recently divorced from his high-school sweetheart, Suzie (Eve Gordon). Music was a key element in the series. At least once an episode, either Norman or Suzie would hear an oldie and be transported via flashback to an important personal event associated with that song.

Q: My friend, who is right about everything else, insists that former Today host Dave Garroway is still alive. I am almost certain that he committed suicide several years ago. Can you clarify? –R. Stauffer, Bonita Springs, Fla.

A: Sadly, you are correct: Garroway committed suicide on July 21, 1982, eight days after his 69th birthday.

Q: Rocky & Bullwinkle used to include a cartoon about a turtle that always wanted to be something else until a wizard granted his wish to teach him a lesson. Was the turtle's name Tutor? –Connie Blaney in Pana, Ill.

A: You're very close. Tooter the Turtle, who was rescued each time by Lizard the Wizard, first appeared on King Leonardo and His Short Subjects, a 1960-63 NBC cartoon series.

Q: Some of my friends and I are trying to remember the name of an old series with Monte Markham as a man who had been found frozen in ice, which made him appear to be about the same age as his descendant. What was it? –Stan Gillespie, Heidelberg, Germany.

A: In The Second Hundred Years (ABC 1967-68), Markham played both Luke Carpenter, a prospector flash-frozen in a 1900 avalanche, and his 33-year-old grandson, Ken, who was understandably stunned when Gramps miraculously thawed out, unharmed, and entered his life. Veteran character actor Arthur O'Connell played Edwin, Luke's son and Ken's father.

Q: Please help me remember the title of the animated show about three mice that lived in the White House. It ran on ABC in 1992. My mom says it was Capitol Critters. –Renee Timmons, Lancaster, Pa.

A: Mom knows best. Steven Bochco (NYPD Blue) devised this satirical show about mice, rats and roaches living under the White House. Neil Patrick Harris, Bobcat Goldthwait and Dorian Harewood supplied voices for the show, which ran less than two months.

Sheriff Announces Promotions

CPL. J.D. MURPHY

CPL. M.H. BITTINGER

Garrett County sheriff P.R. "Dick" Sanders recently announced the promotion of two deputies, Jeff D. Murphy and Michael H. Bittinger, to the rank of corporal. Both officers were promoted from the rank of deputy first class.

Murphy is a 13-year veteran of the GCSO, having served in the capacity of patrol deputy, criminal investigator with the sheriff's office and as narcotics investigator with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force. He is currently serving as supervisor of the Criminal Investigation Division of the Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

Murphy resides in the Oakland area with his wife Mary Ann and their three children. He is active in several community organizations, including the Parent Teacher Organization of Dennett Road Elementary School and the Pleasant View Baptist Church.

Bittinger is an 8-year GCSO veteran, who has served as a patrol deputy and K-9 handler and as a narcotics investigator with the Narcotics Task Force. He is currently a supervisor in the patrol division of the sheriff's office.

Bittinger resides in the Oakland area with his wife Rebecca. He is active in several community organizations, including current service as president of Garrett County Lodge #99 Fraternal Order of Police, member of the Parish Council at St. Peter's Catholic Church, and coach for the Oakland Jets of the Oakland Youth Football League.

SCHOLARSHIPS PRESENTED - Two $500 scholarships were awarded to students at the Mountain Top College Expo at Garrett Community College on October 9. In the picture above, Kathryn Shaffer, representing Oakland New Car Dealers Association (Shaffer Ford, Team One, and Oakview Motors) presents a scholarship to Sheila Nolan of Southern High School. The members of the New Car Dealers association are among the several businesses that contribute to the scholarship.

FSU Master's Program Among Few To Win National Accreditation

Frostburg State University's master of education program in administration and supervision has joined an exclusive club: It is one of only 42 supervisory programs nationwide to receive national recognition by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

"National recognition boosts faculty morale and positions Frostburg State University as a leader in the state," said Dr. Susan Arisman, dean of the FSU College of Education.

NCATE accreditation has been mandated by the state of Maryland. FSU's programs are either currently under review or have already been approved. Accredited programs include the master in education in reading, the undergraduate program in mathematics education, and the early childhood education program. In addition, the FSU elementary education program is part of a pilot study of new national NCATE standards.

NCATE estimates there are about 500 universities and colleges that offer programs in educational administration. Only 16 states are represented among the 42 accredited educational administration programs. FSU's program is offered at its Frostburg campus and the FSU Hagerstown Center.

One reason for the importance of accreditation is that the nation is facing a shortage of principals similar to that of teachers. Many have reached or are approaching retirement age, and the number of prospective administrators is not near enough to fill the need, Arisman said.

According to NCATE, the task of such program evaluations is to develop competent professionals to lead changing school systems and to make certain new conditions facing school leaders are reflected in redesigned preparation and certification programs. The program standards include 11 knowledge and skill domains integrated under four broad areas: strategic leadership, organizational leadership, instructional leadership, and political and community leadership.

For information on FSU's education programs, persons may contact the College of Education at 301-687-4759.

Hour Of Praise Scheduled At St. Paul's UMC

The public is invited to attend the informal Hour of Praise for Everyone (HOPE) services to be held on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month in the fellowship hall at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, from 7 to 7:45 p.m.

The service on Tuesday, Nov. 14, will be presented by a group of youngsters, under the direction of Debby Green. The evening will include music, skits, stories, poems, and prayer, as well as pumpkin pie.

"The HOPE services have been planned and led by the laity of the church to offer a family-oriented, spiritually uplifting worship experience during the week," said one of the coordinators.

St. Paul's United Methodist Church is located on the corner of Oak and Fourth streets in Oakland. The pastors are the Rev. Roger A. Harrison and the Rev. Ann W. Harrison.

Joins Coldwell Banker Staff

Frederick L. Washburn has taken the position of sales associate with Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty. Washburn recently completed pre-licensing education and testing specified by the Maryland Real Estate Commission to qualify as a licensed real estate salesperson.

Prior to working in real estate, Washburn worked as an electrical engineer. His career path took him to a series of cities, including Chanute, Kan., Pascagoula, Miss., and Savannah, Ga., before settling in Garrett County. In each of those locations, Washburn purchased older homes and completed major remodeling jobs on them.

"I've acquired an interest in older homes, and in viewing a home as an investment, through these remodeling experiences," Washburn commented. "Garrett County has a nice resource of historic homes, and I'd like to see a lot of these preserved and restored. I think I can help people see the possibilities in these homes, and I've got a pretty good sense of what is involved in fixing them up."

"Fred's professional experience has essentially been in problem solving, that is, gathering and organizing information and helping people come up with creative and cost-effective solutions," said Coldwell Banker broker Robert Huebner. "I believe Fred can put this skill to good use helping people buy and sell homes in Garrett County."

Washburn and his wife Diana reside in Oakland, where they are remodeling an older home. He has two daughters and one granddaughter. His interests include trail riding on a tandem bike, furniture restoration and woodworking, and shooting. He is a member of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Somerset County Rails to Trails Association, and the National Skeet Shooting Association.

GC Arts Council Seeking Writers

The Garrett County Arts Council invites Garrett County residents and council members to submit works of poetry and creative writing for publication consideration in Ginseng, the council's annual literary journal. Submission categories include poetry, fiction, essays, and narratives.

The submission postmark deadline for the 2001 edition is next Wednesday, Nov. 15. All Garrett County high school students and adults are invited to participate.

Submissions are reviewed by a council-appointed editorial committee, which makes final publication decisions. Accepted works will be published next spring.

Prior issues of Ginseng are available at The Gallery, located at 206 East Alder Street in Oakland. Submissions are currently being sought for the third annual edition of the journal.

All submissions must conform to established guidelines, which are available by visiting The Gallery (Monday-Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.) or by calling the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334-6580.

FSU Theatre To Present Icarus

University Theatre at Frostburg State University will present Icarus, a drama based on the famous Greek myth about a man whose efforts to fly fail because his artificial wings of feather and wax melt when he flies too close to the sun.

Performances are scheduled for Nov. 17, 18, and 30, and December 1 and 2 at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center's F. Perry Smith Studio Theatre. A matinee is scheduled for November 18 at 2 p.m.

Icarus, written by Edwin Sanchez, is described by the New York Times as a "contemporary fable about the perceptions of beauty." It is recommended for mature audiences.

The central character is Primitivo, a disabled boy trying to rise above his physical limitations. With help from Mr. Ellis, a janitor of dubious sanity, his disfigured sister, Altagracia, rescues Primitivo from the hospital and brings him to a deserted New England beach. Primitivo dreams of becoming a world-famous swimmer who can swim so far and with such strength that he touches the sun. Across the boardwalk lives "the Gloria," an over-the-hill actress obsessed with her looks. Beau, a mysterious man who hides his own disfigurement and eventually falls in love with Altagracia, completes the cast.

Information and reservations can be obtained by calling 301-687-4145 between 1 and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Tickets are $7 for non-students and $3 for students.

PATRIOTIC SPIRIT

I was there as George Washington stood knowing tyranny enemy of brotherhood understanding misery and pain comes with war still would fight for a cause just and sure no king my spirit could tame for king and countryman are made the same nobleness simply an ideal, not a genetic code and position a mere end to a fork in the road
a self-governing people with high ideals hard work and integrity powering its wheels my rights enable me to coincide with others knowing responsibility and freedom are brothers politicians our elected leaders and our president we are your equal and not your mere subordinate
"Give me liberty or give me death" is not a mere quote it is the sounding battle cry that allowed us a vote!

John Waters To Speak At FSU

He has been called "the Baron of Bad Taste," "the Pope of Trash," and "the Sultan of Sleaze." Now acclaimed and campy moviemaker John Waters will discuss all forms of shock value in film at Frostburg State University.

The FSU Campus Activities Board will present an evening lecture with Waters on Wednesday, Nov. 15, at 7 p.m. in the Manicur Assembly Hall of the campus Lane Center. The event is free and open to the public. Waters will discuss all forms of shock value in film — the beauty of "good bad taste," his "crackpot obsessions," and his vision of worldwide trashiness in all forms of entertainment.

From his notorious Pink Flamingos to Polyester in Odorama to the more mainstream Hairspray, Serial Mom, and Cecil B. DeMented, Waters' films have spanned over three decades of "good bad taste." His views on censorship and society are hit upon in a unique way during his presentation that will make audiences laugh at the absurdity of what society has deemed as right vs. wrong, according to an FSU spokesperson.

For more information, persons may contact the Lane Center Information Desk at 301-687-4411.

Under the direction of Dr. Karen Soderberg, Collegium Musicum's performance will include "Juramento" by Miguel Matamoros, Arvo Pärt's "Magnificat," Henry Purcell's "Let My Prayer Come U," Alexandre Grechaninoff's "'Niñe otpuschcháyeshi,' op 34, no. 1," "Ave Maris Stella" by Xavier Busto, "Zol Shoyn Kumen Di Ge'uleh," arranged by Joshua Jacobson, and "Zot Jerushalayim," arranged by Karen Sarnaker.

The performance will also include Pablo Casal's "Nigra Sum" for women's choir, the Irish folksong "BykerHill," arranged by Mitchel Sandler for four-part men's chorus, and "Laudate Dominum" from the Vesperaes solennes de confessore by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, performed by soprano Elizabeth Collins from Greenbelt.

Accompanist Kimberly Andrews will play Intermezzo in C Major by Johannes Brahms and Frederic Chopin's Nocturne in C-sharp minor.

Collegium Musicum has been invited to present a lecture-demonstration performance on "Why Fly? Antiques
by Ralph and Terry Kovel

The late-Victorian period was a time of innovation and invention.

Furniture designers took advantage of new technologies, making turnings and ornaments that were impossible earlier. Designs were either traditional with hand carving and marquetry, or in a more modern style with geometric turnings, strange protrusions and cutouts.

The center table was an important piece of furniture in a Victorian home. It was a focal point in the room, and it held a lamp. Designers had a few choices. The table had a round, oval or rectangular top. The corners of a rectangular table were usually rounded. The top surface was marble, or plain or inlaid wood. The base had a pedestal, four corner legs or a trestle-type leg. Most of them had stretchers.

Some of the finest Renaissance Revival Victorian tables used several kinds of wood. The most popular were satinwood, pine, mahogany and walnut. The top was shaped and inlaid. The base had an intricate mixture of curved and fluted legs with dark and light woods. Rosettes, masks, hoofs or shields, and often an urn, were in the center of the stretcher. This type of table was out of favor until the 1970s. Today, a good Renaissance Revival table costs more than $2,000 and a great one can cost $25,000.

Tea Ball

Q: I have an old, perforated silver ball about 2 inches in diameter that opens on a hinge. It is attached to a chain. What could it be?

A: It is probably a tea ball. To make tea, fill 1/3 of the silver ball with tea leaves. Then soak it in a cup or teapot of boiling-hot water for a few minutes, until the tea is dark enough. Remove the ball and drink the tea. The tea leaves will have expanded to fill the entire ball. Tea balls, tea infusers and other clever devices have been used since the 18th century. Look for a maker's mark on the teaball. It will indicate where it was made and maybe even who made it. There are modern tea balls available in gift shops today.

Accidents will happen

Q. I would like to know how I can get nail polish (red) off of the carpet in the living room. I spilled quite a bit of it about three weeks ago and tried almost everything I could think of. I'd appreciate any help you can give. — Anna P., Staten Island, N.Y.

A. My mind wanders back to a time, almost lost in the mists of age, when I spilled an entire bottle of red enamel on a hardwood floor. My mother was thrilled. So I can feel your pain.

Dried nail polish on a carpet is a tough fix. The chemicals that bind the color to your nails will bind even more securely to synthetic fibers, making cleanup extremely difficult.

Acetone — used to remove polish from nails — can damage the carpet even further, because it can actually melt the fibers. Very hot water or a hot iron will do the same.

Lewis Janitorial in Orlando, Fla. recommends using a paint, oil and grease remover, which can loosen glommed-on particles without damaging the carpet fibers. Dry cleaning solvent is another recommended cleaner.

First, try to gently scrape away as much polish as possible. This may be easier if the nail polish is dry, but be careful not to pull up carpet fibers.

Put a small amount of solvent onto a clean, dry cloth and rub the stained carpet gently so as not to loosen the fibers. This type of cleanup will take several applications and a lot of time, and it still may not work. Even if you get all the polish up, the fibers may be so damaged that you have a rough or "spiky" spot in the carpet.

If this is the case, or if there is a lot of polish spilled, you may be better off removing the damaged carpet area and patching it with spare or matching carpeting. Cut the area away in a perfect square (leave the padding below) and use it to measure a new piece. Blend the replacement as much as possible, making sure the nap goes the same way as the rest of the carpet, and tack it carefully into place. (If you're not sure about doing this, ask a carpet professional to patch it for you.)

Strange BUT TRUE
By Samantha Weaver

• Many species of snakes have deadly venom, but that's not all you have to watch out for around these reptiles. Word has it that, a few years ago, a man in Iran was shot to death by a snake he was trying to capture. The man pressed the butt of his shotgun behind the snake's head, but the snake wrapped itself around the butt. Its writhing tail pulled the trigger, and the would-be snake catcher was killed. A clear case of self-defense, I'd say.

• In Florida, it's illegal for a housewife to break more than three dishes a day.

• People's ambitions can vary greatly from culture to culture. Take the Zulus, for example. The primary ambition of a Zulu wife is to help her husband earn the means to buy another wife — so they can split the chores.

• Psychological studies show conclusively that, while emergencies tend to upset a woman more, in a real crisis she is likely to remain calmer than the average male.

• In Malta the custom once was for each church to have two clocks — one showing the correct time and one showing a false time. This was thought to confuse the Devil about the true time of the services held inside.

• Plain M&Ms come in six colors, peanut M&Ms in only five. Do peanut lovers dislike the color tan?

Over 2,900 Receive Teacher, Science/Technology Scholarships

Over 1,750 Maryland college students are receiving Maryland teacher scholarships this year, and over 1,150 students are going to college with science and technology scholarships, according to the Maryland Higher Education Commission.

Together, the two merit scholarships, created by Governor Parris N. Glendening, will provide almost $10.5 million in financial aid to students attending colleges and universities in the state during the 2000-2001 academic year.

"We have opened the doors of higher education for more young people through Maryland's scholarship programs, while also ensuring that the state has a workforce that will meet the needs of the new knowledge-based economy," said Governor Glendening. "But this is just the first step in achieving a vision of making tuition free and accessible to every student who wants to reach his/her full potential. I see a future where moving from high school to college is seen just like moving from elementary to junior high and where education does not end with a degree, but is a lifelong pursuit."

Karen R. Johnson, the secretary of higher education, said that the scholarships, which require students to have a B average or better in high school and maintain a B average in college, have attracted large numbers of applicants. Like the governor's other merit scholarships, they require recipients to work in Maryland for a year for each year they receive the grant.

The Maryland Teacher Scholarship was enacted in 1999 as part of the state's efforts to ensure that Maryland has enough public school teachers. In its first year (1999-2000), when the grant was limited to college seniors and master's degree candidates, almost 700 students received the scholarship.

During the 2000 General Assembly session, the governor proposed increasing the scholarship from $3,000 a year to $5,000 a year (and from $1,000 to $2,000 for community college students). With the program now open to all undergraduates and master's candidates, over $5.9 million was appropriated for teacher scholarships in Fiscal 2001.

The goal of the Science and Technology Scholarship is to produce graduates in the sciences, engineering, computer science, and technology fields. The budget for the program is almost $4.5 million this year, and the number of recipients (1,152) represents a 55 percent increase over 1999-2000.

A third merit scholarship, the Maryland HOPE Scholarship, is in the early stages of a three-year phase-in. One hundred seventy-four students are receiving the HOPE Scholarship this year.

Johnson said she expects the HOPE Scholarship, which eventually will be available to all students who graduate from high school with a B average or better and agree to work in Maryland, to build momentum in the next few years.

Maryland's total financial aid budget for the 2000-2001 academic year is over $66 million. Nearly half ($33 million) goes to the Educational Excellence program, a need-based scholarship. Almost $6.8 million is awarded through Senatorial Scholarships and $2.3 is awarded by members of the House of Delegates.

The Maryland Higher Education Commission is a 12-member citizen board responsible for oversight and planning of higher education in Maryland. It serves as advocate for the more than 260,000 college students in Maryland, for the state and its needs, and for business and industry in Maryland. Its vision is a comprehensive system of higher education that is affordable and available to every citizen, is responsive to the needs of citizens and the private sector, and contributes to the economic well-being of the state, according to a commission spokesperson.

Pursuing Career As U.S. Sea Cadet

by Jeremy Carr

Accident resident Abraham Folmsbee is part of a unique and interesting group. A 13-year-old student of Northern Middle School, he is a member of the United States Naval Sea Cadet Corps. He is also a seaman apprentice who serves in the Carrier Roosevelt Squadron.

Abraham joined the League Cadet Corps at age 11, and within two years earned the rank of petty officer 2nd class, a rank that very few achieve. He also took the opportunity to attend a Pearl Harbor memorial ceremony at the U.S. Naval Memorial in Washington, D.C.

Folmsbee participated in the League Cadet boot camp, which consisted of one week of intensive training at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Aberdeen.

Abraham noted that this experience was mentally as well as physically challenging. "The average day began when students were awakened at 5 a.m. for physical training, and they would then proceed into a rigorous course of instruction 'til 10 p.m., taking two-hour watch shifts at night," he said.

This past summer he was able to join the Naval Sea Cadet Corps, and attended a two-week intensive training at a boot camp at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds. His squadron took third place in the Autumn Glory Parade for Military drill, and they were also in the Halloween parade in Cumberland.

On November 11, Abraham will participate in Veterans Day ceremonies at Corriganville and Rocky Gap.

In addition to his dedication to his duties as a sea cadet, Abraham said he also enjoys playing the accordion and piano, as well as playing soccer with both AYSO and the Mountaintop leagues. He is an active member of the Western Maryland Chapter of the Archaeological Society of Maryland. He attends the monthly program meeting and annual archaeological digs in Cresaptown. He also spent one week at the Oregon Ridge Archaeological Program in Towson.

Abraham said he is considering becoming a Navy Seal and is currently working on a recruitment ribbon. Anyone interested in information on the Sea Cadet program may call Abraham 301-746-6511.

Grant To Fund Spruce Forest School Program

Spruce Forest Artisan Village, Grantsville, recently was awarded a $1,000 grant from the Stanley P. Smith Family Foundation. The funds will be used to develop "A Day in a One-Room Schoolhouse." This program will invite all Garrett County fifth grade students to hold class for a day in the oldest log cabin schoolhouse in western Maryland, which is situated in Spruce Forest.

The Compton School, built about 1825, was formerly located along Chestnut Ridge Road near New Germany Road to serve the community. "It is not difficult to envision the hardship encountered by families sending their children to school there, as children walked to school over rough, very hilly terrain for a mile and a half to two miles," said village administrator Trish Morgan.

Maxine Broadwater, lifelong resident of Grantsville, reported that her mother, Althea Otto Beachy would knit socks as she walked to the Compton School, Morgan noted.

Invitations will go out to all Garrett County elementary schools, directed to fifth grade teachers and principals. The program will be open throughout the year, as long as the funds are available.

For more information, persons may contact Morgan as 301-895-3332 or e-mail tmorgan@sprucefor est.org.

Scouts Collect Food For House Of Hope Pantry

Boy Scouts from Troop 22, sponsored by the Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club, collected over 400 pounds of food during the annual "Scouting for Food" drive that took place recently. The locally collected food was donated to the House of Hope food pantry, and the leading collectors were Ryan Gosnell, who collected 167.5 pounds of food, Brian Georg with 128 pounds, and Sam Lauver with 83 pounds.

Each year Boy Scouts of America collects millions of pounds of food during the world's largest volunteer food drive for donation to food pantries around the country. Last year over 24,000 pounds of food was collected by the Scout troops of the Potomac Council.

Troop 22's food collection effort was undertaken early so the local Scouts can take part in a Potomac River canoe trip Saturday. Other area Cub Scout packs, Boy Scout troops, and Venture posts will continue to collect food through this Saturday (Nov. 11). "The food donation comes at a critical time — right before the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays," a House of Hope spokesperson remarked.

Increased Cost-Share Rates For Nutrient Mgmt. Plans Announced

Increased cost-share assistance is now available through the Maryland Agricultural Water Quality Cost-Share Program (MACS) to farmers who hire a private, certified consultant to prepare a nutrient management plan for their farm, Maryland secretary of agriculture Dr. Henry A. Virts announced recently.

"Maryland law requires nutrient management plans for all farms beginning Dec. 31, 2001," said Virts. "The new cost-share rates are designed to help farmers offset the cost of hiring a nutrient management consultant, thus making it easier to comply with the law."

Under the new rate structure, MACS will reimburse eligible farmers for up to 87½ percent of the cost to hire a private, certified nutrient management consultant. A flat rate ceiling ranging from $3.20 to $6 an acre for traditional grain and animal operations and $15 to $20 an acre for vegetable or nursery operations applies. MACS has also established per-operation funding caps of $750 to $3,500, depending on the size, type and complexity of the operation.

The new rate structure supercedes the previous rate of 50 percent or up to $3 an acre, and is designed to make the program more attractive to a broader range of producers, including nursery and greenhouse operations. To further encourage participation, an earlier provision requiring immediate implementation of cost-shared nutrient management plans was removed.

Applications for cost-share funds must be submitted to MDA through the local soil conservation district and approved prior to plan completion. Applications will be approved on a "first come" basis. To meet eligibility criteria, nutrient management plans must include all eligible farm acreage and be prepared by a non-government consultant who is certified and licensed by MDA. Nutrient management plans develped to meet permit requirements for land applications of sewage sludge are not eligible for cost-share assistance.

The Water Quality Improvement Act of 1998 requires that a nutrient management plan be written and implemented for all agricultural operations with gross annual incomes in excess of $2,500 or livestock operations with more than 8,000 pounds of live animal weight. Farmers using chemical fertilizers are required to have a nitrogen and phosphorus-based nutrient management plan by Dec. 31, 2001. These plans must be implemented by Dec. 31, 2002. Farmers applying animal manure or sewage sludge must have a nitrogen-based plan developed by Dec. 31, 2001, and implemented by Dec. 31, 2002. Development of a nitrogen and phosphorus-based plan is required by July 1, 2004, with implementation due by July 1, 2005.

Maryland Dairy Industry's Annual Meeting Planned

Maryland's $1 billion dairy industry will meet in Westminster on Nov. 30 to outline two important new concepts designed to help family dairy producers increase their profits and productivity. The Maryland Dairy Industry Association's (MDIA) 2000 annual meeting will feature "A Team Approach to Family Dairying," in addition to presenting a first "hands-on" computer training workshop to solve dairy problems through the National Dairy InfoBase.

Both presentations are scheduled for Thurs., Nov. 30, at Wilhelm's conference center on Md. Route 140, on the outskirts of Westminster.

Noted dairy experts Carl Theunis of Tinedale Farms, Kaukauna, Wisc., and Dr. William Heald of Penn State University will team up to present a complete plan and demonstration on "A Team Approach to Family Dairying."

The innovative concept involves two segments: family team and professional team. Progressive dairy producer Theunis will outline the family portion, while Extension dairy specialist Dr. Heald will present how the family dairy team is enhanced by professionals, such as nutritionists, veterinarians, bankers, and accountants.

An actual family dairy team from Para-Dice Farms in Chambersburg, Pa., will demonstrate the successful concept, followed by a keynote address by Theunis on his vision of the nation's dairy industry. Building on recent feature articles in leading dairy publications about his passion for family dairy farming, Theunis will outline a plan designed to keep family dairy farming viable in Maryland.

Extension dairy scientists from the University of Maryland will open the MDIA 2000 annual meeting with a pre-conference "hands-on" computer training workshop to enroll dairy producers in the National Dairy InfoBase.

Participants will register separately, and receive a CD-ROM containing over 2,000 publications specially designed to identify and solve dairy problems. The workshop will be open to the public, and begins at 8:00 a.m. on Nov. 30 at nearby Carroll Community College Annex in Westminster.

Registration fee is complimentary for registrants who have the Dairy Info Tract CD, $50 for registrants with National Dairy Database versions 1, 2, and 3, and $100 for new registrants. Second registrants from the same organization are free, and can share the CD and computer desk.

MDIA's 2000 annual meeting will begin officially at 10:00 a.m. on Nov. 30 at Wilhelm's conference center. Continental breakfast will be served at 8:30 a.m., with several dozen industry exhibitors on hand to discuss new products and technology. A new addition to the daylong event is a silent auction featuring a wide array of dairy products and services. Registrants can repeatedly bid during the meeting and learn the auction results at the end of the program.

Registration for both dairy events can be completed via fax or e-mail through the Maryland Dairy Industry Association. Those interested may telephone: 202/293-0476, fax: 202/331-4212, e-mail: agriwash@aol.com. Major bank credit cards are accepted.

Farming In Maryland.....

Clinton Signs $78 Billion Ag Appropriations Bill

National Farmers Union (NFU) thanked President Clinton for his expeditious signing of the FY 2001 $78 billion agriculture appropriations bill passed by Congress. While the bill contains important emergency, economic and production loss relief for agricultural producers, the family farmer and rancher organization continues to express concern about long-term issues that were not addressed by the 106th Congress.

"We are pleased that emergency relief is on its way to producers who have suffered greatly from weather and market conditions," said NFU president Leland Swenson. "Now that the president has signed the 2001 appropriations bill, the way is cleared to consider future farm policy needs. Leadership must be provided by the next Congress and administration to address escalating concentration and fair trade issues and to reform domestic farm policies."

Farmers Union continues its call for policy changes that will stem the economic crisis faced by producers through an adequate safety net, fair trade policies and actions to address the negative impact of concentration.

The farmer and rancher organization also is critical of the bill's severe limits on U.S. farmers' opportunities to trade with Cuba by restricting export funding and codifying travel restrictions to the island country.

"We need to restore fair and open markets for farmers," said Swenson. "We need to address the economic pressures that are devastating producers and creating crisis in rural communities. The structural problems that have led to the lowest farm prices in two decades must be changed by restoring fair, open and competitive markets for input needs, transportation, and domestic and international markets while providing producers with a meaningful and equitable economic safety net."

NFU Praises Congress For New Dairy Act

National Farmers Union (NFU) praised Congress for passing the Dairy Market Enhancement Act of 2000 that promotes accurate price reporting in the dairy processing industry. The legislation establishes a system by which important marketing information for dairy producers across the country is reported and improves the price and inventory reporting service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

"This timely legislation will ensure accurate and reliable market information on which dairy producers depend," said Wisconsin Farmers Union president Bill Brey, chairman of NFU's legislative committee.

"Recent inaccuracies in reporting have compromised a market in which dairy farmers cannot afford any margin for error. We applaud Congress for helping to restore confidence in America's dairy price reporting program."

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Russ Feingold, D-Wis., and Rep. Ron Kind, D-Wis., changes a voluntary and inconsistent reporting system that has been subject to error. Farmers Union has long pushed for this legislation, which will require reporting of dairy supply and price information. The bill states that price and supply information must be readily understandable by producers and other market participants. It also improves the price and supply reporting services of the USDA and encourages competition in the marketplace.

The need for this legislation was highlighted as a result of two reporting errors at dairy stock warehouses that greatly affected dairy prices.

"Accurate reporting of information will allow dairy farmers to make important decisions regarding their production operations," said Brey. "With readily available and understandable information, we can give producers a vital tool in seeking a fair price and the market a valuable tool in encouraging competition."

Weight Of Ready-To-Eat Poultry Down 7 Percent

A report from the National Ag Statistics Service (NASS) shows that poultry certified wholesome during September (ready-to-cook weight), totaled 2.81 billion pounds, down 7% from the amount certified in September 1999. Updated totals for August 2000 show that 3.29 billion pounds were certified.

The preliminary total live weight of poultry inspected during September 2000 was 3.79 billion pounds, down 7% from a year ago.

Inspections included 3.17 billion pounds of young chickens, 7% below last year; 66.1 million pounds of mature chickens, down 11%; 538 million pounds of turkeys, down 7%; and 12.9 million pounds of ducks, down 2% from September 1999.

Young chickens slaughtered during September 2000 averaged 4.98 pounds per bird, unchanged from September 1999. The average live weight of mature chickens was 5.38 pounds per bird, down 1% from a year ago. Turkeys slaughtered during September 2000 averaged 25.0 pounds per bird, down slightly from September 1999.

There is no doubt that the whole political process and especially presidential elections are of extreme importance to farmers. We know that our future can be determined by who is in the White House and who has control of the House and Senate. As this column is being written Wednesday morning, the presidential race is still up in the air, with the results in four states still too close to count.

There are ways, though, that close elections have been predicted in the past and can be used again today to determine the probable winner so that political junkies (like my husband) can get back to work and quit worrying about the outcome.

Some of these predictions are taken very seriously. Last night CNN even interviewed a psychic when the station had dead space to fill. One method that has been used since the 1930s relies on the Washington Redskins football team to predict the president. As the story goes, if the Redskins lose the game played just prior to the election, the incumbent will also lose. This year they lost; would that mean that George W. will win? A prognosticating elephant living in the D.C. area back in the '70s was used to predict the winner of the game as well as the election. Unfortunately that animal has probably gone to the Great Beyond by now, but come to think of it, he may have been reincarnated as CNN's psychic.

Since 1952 voters in the state of Delaware have set an example for the rest of the country by choosing the president, and at no time in recent history has a candidate won if he didn't win in the states of California and New York.

This year the news media used the small town of Penn Hills near Pittsburgh as a "bell swing" community, thinking that because of the racial and economic diversity found there they could predict the outcome of the election. The outcome of "straw votes" taken in elementary school classrooms have also been used as predictions.

Across the country there have also been farmers who have found unusual ways to predict the election. Some Iowa farmers use corn futures to determine the winner, while cow patty bingo and the order (or a change in the order) in which cows come into the barn on election day are determining factors for some.

Here at The Republican our resident potato farmer says it's true that potatoes have a magical quality and they can be used to predict many important questions like a political election or the sex of an unborn child. There is no warranty offered, but you might want to give it a try. First, rub a medium-sized potato (the recommendation is that it should be a Montcroft Farms potato grown this election year) on your right elbow. After spinning around three times, toss it over your head. Now, if the potato lands with the largest number of eyes down, Al Gore will be the winner. If it lands with the largest number of eyes up, the "eyes of Texas are upon you," and George W. will be our next president!

I've had my own "psychic" experiences since stopping to vote in Deer Park on my way to work yesterday morning. I was the 13th person to place my vote at Deer Park. What does that mean for my candidate? Then last night after watching the election results on TV until very early in the morning, my "political junkie husband" went out to his shop to check the furnace before going to bed and discovered that our two donkeys had gotten out of the barn and were walking down the driveway. What does this mean? Were these two elderly statesmen going out to drum up more votes for the party they represent? Or, like the woolly bear caterpillar is used to predict winter weather, can the fact that these donkeys were out, possibly on their way to a celebration somewhere, mean a Democrat will win the election???? Who knows? It's kind of spooky, but stranger things have happened!

Ten Rules of Transition Management

The issue of family business generational transition is a major topic of discussion as farm businesses are positioning themselves. Growth is the number one reason businesses fail, and this is because of under-capitalization, inadequate preparation in human relations and communications, and insufficient income generation. Sixty percent of all farm and small businesses that enter bankruptcy were profitable in previous years. The following are some rules that are generally used in successful business transitions.

Rule 1: Revenue/Net Income

Bringing in a new partner takes an estimated $150,000 to $250,000 in gross revenue, or $40,000 to $70,000 of net profit, for a successful business transition. Violate this rule and you set yourself up for guerilla warfare, where family members or partners fight over scarce resources (including net income) to meet their standard of living.

Rule 2: Three-to-Five-Year Rule

Agricultural business transitions are twice as likely to be successful when the family member or potential business partner works for someone else for three to five years. Allow them to make mistakes with someone else's money! A recent study found that the farm businesses that allowed entering partners to work for others for three to five years found their business to be four times more profitable. A college education is not part of this experience; however, military and summer work experiences are part of the experience base.

Rule 3: Six-Year Rule

If a new partner is brought into the business, make sure you allow him/her to move into management and decision-making within six years. Farms and businesses that fail to do so are twice as likely to have an unsuccessful business transition and are less profitable. The old adage is you either teach or share with the younger generation, or you destroy the business.

Rule 4: Ripple Effect

When making changes to a growing business, you should over-estimate capital needs by at least 25 percent to avoid being short on working capital due to unexpected costs. For example, if you need $200,000 to expand the business, then $250,000 should be estimated and used to determine whether or not the growth is financially feasible. It is also wise to over-estimate the time needed to complete the change by 25 percent.

Rule 5: Staying Too Long Rule

Many managers and owners stay too long before turning over the business. The optimal time for ownership and management of a business is 30 to 35 years. Owners and managers who fail to heed this rule run into the trap of continuing to do "business as usual" without changing for the times. In order for managers to maintain the cutting edge, they must either follow this rule or surround themselves with new members who will bring renewed energy and new resources into the business.

Rule 6: You Can't Treat All Children Equally, But You Can Treat Them Fairly and Equitably

One of the most profound challenges in estate planning and transition management for farm businesses today is what to do with children who move away from the business. Usually, they have little interest in the operation. When the parents die, the business interests of the children who have moved intensify because proceeds from the estate can be used to pay off mortgages or fund their children's college educations. The most successful transition plans have the business assets transferred to the child managing the business, and insurance policies to cover estate settlement costs and cash settlements for children who are not interested in the business. This strategy allows the children involved with the farm to continue to function without requiring them to buy out the non-farm children's shares, and also have sufficient cash to pay estate settlement taxes. This strategy is simple and objective.

Rule 7: Non-Business Spouse

An increasing challenge in businesses is incorporating the non-business spouse into the family and business management process. Many more families are finding this incorporation a challenge, as there are more non-business or non-agricultural spouses, and that spouse frequently does not understand erratic business schedules, time management, and prioritization problems that can occur. An operations agreement that includes time expectations, goals, responsibilities, and accountables can resolve many of these issues.

Rule 8: Getting Out of Business

A plan that covers dissolution of the business is critical in establishing a family business transition. Included is an operations agreement, a buy/sell agreement, and a time line for an orderly transition. Partners who are not willing to discuss these issues initially frequently find that getting out of business is more difficult than getting into business.

Rule 9: Transition Team

All businesses need to have a list of advisors or a transition team. This team includes a lender, a lawyer, an accountant, a financial planner, both spouses, and all partners. Annual team meetings with all members present are critical. Outside professionals need to be placed on retainer rather than on an hourly fee structure.

Rule 10: The Nike Principle

Just do it! The biggest concern with family business transition plans is procrastination. Day-to-day matters frequently take priority over the planning process. A transition plan often takes two to three years to formulate, and must be updated at least twice a decade.

AgrAbility Program Serves Farm Families Touched By Disability

The National AgrAbility Program serves farm and ranch families touched by disability. It's about breaking down barriers and breaking new ground. It is the practical expression of technology, tenacity and the willingness to try. As a philosophy, it represents the very ideals that define American agriculture. It is about supporting and promoting growth and independence. It is about no-limit thinking and the can-do spirit. Ultimately, it is about hope.

Agriculture is considered one of the most hazardous occupations in the United States. Farm accidents cause 850 deaths and 140,000 disabling injuries annually.

Farm families also cope with the same illnesses and infirmities that can beset any family. When a disability, injury or health condition strikes a farm family, everything changes. For the farmer, the desire to continue farming often remains constant. Recognizing that drive and the critical need for farmers, the National AgrAbility Project was established with approval of the 1990 Farm Bill.

The goal of AgrAbility is to inform, educate and assist farmers, farm workers and their families who have disabilities or health conditions so they can continue to pursue their agricultural occupations and lead successful and productive lives.

The staff of the Delmarva AgrAbility Project will assess agricultural work sites and tasks, make recommendations regarding farm equipment adaptation, and suggest home modifications.

AgrAbility can provide peer support from other farmers with disabilities and refer families to local service providers.

One farmer who has been helped by AgrAbility summed up his feelings by stating: "AgrAbility is willing to help you if you are willing to help yourself. It isn't for those who are ready to give up, but it's great for those who have it in their heart to keep farming." For more information, interested persons may call toll free 877-204-FARM.

Objective: Use technology to help farmers with disabilities to continue farming.

The Solution: Provide services, education and support for farmers and their families.

Target Audience: Farmers, loggers, watermen and poultry growers.

Delmarva AgrAbility is a joint effort of the University of Delaware Cooperative Extension and Easter Seals, serving Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Maryland. For more information, those interested may call the toll-free number 1-877-204-FARM (1-877-204-3276).

Maryland Corn And Soybean Harvest Continues

Dry weather conditions prevailed for yet another week allowing for 7 days suitable for field work in Maryland, according to Ray Garibay, state statistician with the Maryland Ag Statistics Service. These conditions are favorable for harvesting; however, the process has slowed because of a lack of storage. Some area farmers have reported that elevators are full, and outside storage is becoming an alternative.

The slow corn harvesting trend continued this week with 84% harvested for grain, which is 4 percentage points behind the five-year average. Soybean harvesting activities are 61% complete, 2 percentage points above the five-year average.

Soil moisture levels continued to decline with the persistent dry weather trend in Maryland. Currently, both topsoil and subsoil moisture surpluses have been depleted. Topsoil moisture rating was 14% very short, 38% short, and 48% adequate. Subsoil moisture rating was 6% very short, 26% short, and 68% adequate. Rainfall is needed to sustain small grain germination and establishment.

Crop progress for the week which ended Nov. 5, listing the crop and percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, in that order, follows:

Hay harvested: other hay, 4th cutting 89, 84, 90, 90; alfalfa, 5th cutting 65, 55, 67, 60.

Crop conditions for the week ending Nov. 5, listing the crop and percentages for very poor, poor, fair, good, and excellent, are: barley 0, 7, 28, 63, 2; rye 0, 1, 13, 84, 2; winter wheat 1, 3, 23, 69, 4; range and pasture 3, 12, 25, 55, 5.

Number Of Dairy Farms Falls 5.1%

U.S. milk production is increasing, while the number of dairy farms is heading in the opposite direction. According to a recent report by the American Farm Bureau Federation, in July 2000 the number of dairy farms in the United States fell 5.1 percent compared to the previous year.

The report indicates there were 83,025 dairy herds in July, a decrease of 4,502 from last year, according to Ken Olson, AFBF's dairy policy specialist. Since 1992, AFBF, with assistance from state Farm Bureaus and Extension personnel, has surveyed state dairy agencies to determine the number of farms selling milk in each state. The United States has lost 36.9 percent (48,510) of its dairy herds since the survey's first year in 1992.

"This year's decrease of more than 4,500 dairy herds is a significant loss and has a major impact on the families involved, but it is consistent with what has occurred over the past nine years," Olson said.

"Given current milk prices, and projected prices over the coming months, it appears that financial stress will remain in the industry for some time. This is certain to force continued change, and change is likely to occur at an even more rapid rate in the coming years

"We see a dynamic, changing dairy industry across the United States that is adjusting to new technology, price volatility, environmental concerns and a variety of other issues. The herd losses that have occurred are certain to have ongoing impacts on the dairy infrastructure across the nation as it adjusts to the changing herd structure."

While the rate varies, change is occurring in all regions of the country. Over the past nine years, each region of the nation has lost more than one quarter of its dairy herds. The report shows that the Southeast has had the largest percentage loss in five of the last six years. During the eight years when comparisons are available, the Northeast and the West have each had the smallest loss in four of the years.

During the past year, however, the nation has seen a substantial increase in milk production, "with national increases of more than 3 percent virtually every month," according to Olson. While a few states have provided the bulk of the growth, every region has shown increased production.

"Increased production is a result of both a major increase in herd size and increased production per cow," Olson said.

From 1992 to 1999 average milk production per cow increased from 15,570 to 17,771 pounds of milk, according to the agriculture department. Olson said increases this year will take the average, "well over" 18,000 pounds of milk per cow. Since 1992, average dairy herd size has increased from 73 to 111 cows. This year's average herd size is six cows larger than in 1999.

The report indicates substantial regional differences in herd size. During the past year, the average herd size in the Southeast was 158 cows, up 10 from last year; 521 in the West, up 36 cows; 81 in the Northeast, up two cows; and 70 in the Midwest, up three.

Among the states, New Mexico had the largest average herd size at 1,551 cows, while Indiana had the smallest at 60 cows. Florida had the largest average herd size in the Southeast at 684 cows; Delaware had the largest in the Northeast at 129; and Kansas was tops in the Midwest, with an average herd size of 136 cows.

Milk prices over the last year have varied, from relatively good in the summer and fall of 1999 to quite low for most of 2000, Olson said. During the past 12 months, feed prices have been relatively low, reducing a portion of the stress from low milk prices.
